ON TRIAL AT LAST.

A Crowded Courtroom Greets the First Moves in the Case.

BARNES' OPENING STATEMENT.

He Says He Can Prove That Durrant Killed Blanche Lamont.

EVIDENCE TO BE ADVANCED.

The Jury Taken to View the Scene of the Great Tragedy.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO Sept. 3.—The long looked for trial of William Henry Theodore Durrant for the murder of Blanche Lamont opened this morning.

The court room was crowded at an early hour.

Durrant was specially attired for the occasion in a new suit of clothes.

His father and mother sat beside him.

For the remainder of the trial Judge Murphy has secured the more commodious court room of the presiding judge to accommodate the crowds.

All the witnesses in the case were excluded when District Attorney Barnes made his opening statements as follows:

"At this point in the trial and before proceeding with the evidence it becomes my duty as a representative of the people to make what is called the opening statement of the case.

"The opening statement should not be regarded by you in the light of testimony, neither should it be regarded as an argument upon the facts.

"It should not have any weight with you nor should you consider it as mitigating against the prisoner."

"It is merely a statement of what the people expect to prove—a statement of the evidence which they intend to present for your consideration, and upon which they will confidently rely for a verdict at your hands, which shall sweep away the sophistries and the technicalities that have enveloped criminal proceedings in this State as with a garment, and shall declare that the land we live in is blessed not only with manifold gifts of nature and of God to man, but is further blessed with the hard, clear common sense that can rise above the tortuous environments that surround the criminal, and punish the crime committed in the manner required and demanded by all laws, both human and divine.

"We will show you that in the month of September, 1894, Blanche Lamont, a young girl about 20 years of age came to San Francisco from her home at Dillon, Mont., in the hope that the mild climate of California might benefit her health.

"She went to reside with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Noble, and from the time of her arrival here until April 3d she was engaged in attending school.

"She was not a society girl in any sense of the word.

"She was of a quiet disposition, home keeping and religious.

"She never attended parties nor theaters or other places of amusement except in company with her relatives.

"We will show that Blanche Lamont in her lifetime was well, too well, and yet not well enough acquainted with the prisoner, Durrant; that he was in the habit of accompanying her home from church and prayer meeting; that he was a caller upon her at her aunt's house; that upon the only occasion upon which she ever went anywhere with any young man as far as we are informed she visited the park one afternoon in company with Durrant.

"We will give you a history of her life and her movements as far as we are able, up to the 3d of April, 1895, in order that you may for a just appreciation of the character and the habits of this unfortunate young girl.

"We will show you her connection with the defendant and we will show you the reason why, when the murdered body of Blanche Lamont was found in the darkened belfry of Emmanuel church and the question sprang from the lips of every resident of this city and of this country, 'Who is the murderer?' Why it is that the State answers that he who was responsible for the slaughter of this young life is William Henry Theodore Durrant; Durrant, once the friend of Blanche Lamont; Durrant, once in charge of the Sunday school library; Durrant, once assistant superintendent of the Emmanuel Sunday school; Durrant, once the electrician who knew the ins and outs of the great building; Durrant, once the handy man and jack-of-all-trades at the church, and now Durrant, the prisoner and on trial for his life.

"We shall show Durrant's connection with the crime and shall demonstrate by irrefutable and unanswerable evidence that he and he alone committed this murder.

"If we show you these facts; if we show you that Durrant met this ill-fated girl on the day of her death; that he accompanied her to the church; that he was seen to enter the church with her; that he was seen afterwards in the church alone; that Blanche Lamont was never seen again by human eyes from the moment when she entered the portals of Emmanuel Baptist, church with the defendant; that in the church was found her dead body, her clothes, her school books—showing that she had never been home, and that she had gone straight from school to death; if we show you, as we confidently expect, that no one but the prisoner could have committed this outrageous and horrible crime, we shall look to you as citizens of the great State whose reputation for justice and for enforcement of the laws, we, as its officers, are trying to uphold, to render your verdict that the prisoner at the bar is guilty of murder in the first degree."

At the conclusion of Barnes' address counsel for both State and defense consulted with the judge who finally ordered that the jury and Durrant should be taken to Emmanuel church to view the scene of the murder in charge of a policeman.

Much Indignation Over a Bank Failure in Iowa.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

STORM LAKE, Ia., Sept. 3.—Great excitement prevails over the closing of the Buena Vista State bank.

A big crowd fills the streets. It would only need a word to lead to deeds of violence, the business methods of the Lemon family, who ran the institution, having caused great indignation.

Examiner Bennet states an examination indicates that the bank has a capital of $50,000 and $65,000 deposits, re-discounts and moneys due other banks.

The bills receivable amount to $81,000, of which about $25,000 are regarded as practically worthless.

THE DAY IN THE EAST.

Counterfeiters of Southern Pacific Passes Are Arrested.

Keene Proposes to Race Domino Against Henry of Navarre.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—J. Levinson, Joseph Winear and W. M Barnett, who with Clarence Barnett of this city, were charged with having counterfeited Southern Pacific Railway passes, were arrested yesterday by the Drummond agency. Barnett was arrested at San Antonio, Levinson at Houston and Winear at Lexington.

ONE MORE SUCCUMBS.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 3.—William H. Pointer of Newark, N. J., injured in the Sea Beach Railway wreck at Woodlawn Station yesterday afternoon died this morning. No more deaths are likely.

WOULD RACE WELL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Recently at the Coney Island Jockey Club house, Mr. Jas. R. Keene approached August Belmont and offered to match Domino, the star of his stable, against Henry of Navarre, the Belmont stable crack, for a mile race at even weights. Mr. Keene stated that he would agre to make the stakes $.0,000 a side, the race to be run on any day both parties should agree upon. Mr Belmont did not take up the challenge nor would he refuse the wager. It is understood that he wants to better satisfy himself as to his horse's condition.

THE MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Money on call easy, 1 per cent. Silver 65¾c. Lead $3.30.

A SPIRITED FIRE.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Sept. 3.—Fleming's livery stable at Petersburg, ten miles south of here, burned today. Twenty-five horses were cremated.

The opera house and Read hotel also burned. The losses aggregate $50,000, partially insured.

THE MICHIGAN ROW.

ISHPEMING, Mich., Sept. 3.—The only exciting feature of the strike situation today was the burning of the headquarters of the strikers at Union Park early this morning. It is thought the place was fired by some one not in sympathy with the strikers.

SIEMER LANDED.

The Warrant Telegraphed and Extradition Papers Ready.

Constable Koch left for Seattle last for the return of Henry Siemer, who for thme return of Henry Siemer, who has three charges of felonious assault pending against him in Justice Clift's court. The complainant is Mrs. Zilphia Needham who says her eight-year-old daughter, Myrtle, was grossly abused by Seimer about a month ago. The accused man was an intimate friend of the family. When he learned that he was liable to be arrested he fled to Seattle, where he has a brother.

After Siemer's arrest his friends threatened to sue out a writ of habeas corpus and the constable telegraphed the warrant for his arrest to Seattle at an expense of $15 with the result that the prisoner has been held.

EARLY BIRDS ABOUT.

Candidates for the Political Prizes Already in the Field.

SUPERIOR JUDGE CONTESTS.

Greene, Frick and Hall Have Thrown Down Their Gauntlets.

THE SUPERVISORIAL OUTLOOK.

County Officials Figure on Their Terms of Tenure.

Although the next election is about eighteen months distant there is already a good deal of talk on the subject among those who take an interest in such matters Alameda County will elect two Superior judges, three Supervisors, six Assemblymen, a Senator and will have a good deal to say in reference to a Congressman. At present interest is centered to a large extent in the fight for Superior judgeships, and the candidates are already in the field actively engaged in making friends.

Judges Greene and Frick will endeavor to succeed themselves. The former is looked upon as having a particularly hard battle before him. The Southern Pacific railroad influence has generally been against him and the railroad wing has only lent its support in previous conventions because his individual strength made it desirable to give him the nomination, in order to carry a more important point. The judge has a host of personal enemies who do not like his Spartan display of judicial impartiality from the bench. None of these are more bitter than W. S. Goodfellow, the Seventh Ward attorney, who earns a President's salary practising law in San Francisco. Goodfellow is willing, so his friends say, to spend a good many dollars in attempting to accomplish the defeat of Judge Greene. But there are few more subtle politicians than the tall, dignified jurist, and he has a great knack of winning over his opponents at the last moment. This he may be able to accomplish again.

None are doing more hard shaking than Judge A. L. Frick and none are more conversant with the intricacies of practical politics than he. There was a time when the judge prided himself on being a stalwart, but those days are no more. With the dropping out of Tom Carothers and his followers the judge lost some influence identifying himself with the so-called Pardee element and effects the support of the ex-Mayor and his friends in the Seventh Ward.

These two gentlemen who administer law will have plenty of opposition. In the first place there is Sam P. Hall, ex-district attorney, who wants the judgeship. Mr. Hall called upon the two judges a few days ago and notified them that he was in the contest. His entry is liable to injure the prospects of Judge Frick, as the latter has been relying principally on the backing of A. A Moore and George W. Reed. Mr. Moore happens to be related to Mr. Hall and Reed and Moore are like brothers, so it is expected that Mr. Hall will be their first consideration. Mr. Hall is also the attorney for Frank A Leach, and that gentleman no doubt will back him with his paper.

Ex-Judge Stephen G. Nye would also like to be seated on the bench again, and as Mr. Leach advocated him once before in preference to Judge Frick, it is not unlikely that he will do so again. But Mr. Hall will not have easy sailing. He will have a hard fight to carry his residence ward, the Third. J. W. Nelson is feeling a little sore because of the way Mr. Hall managed his fight for sheriff. Mr. Nelson originally wanted to be county recorder, but Mr. Hall, it is said, induced him to withdraw and enter the lists for sheriff, so as to give Charley Spear, who is related to Mr. Hall, a clear field for the recordership. The result was that Spear is now recorder and Nelson continues to superintend a fruit cannery.

City Justice John J Allen also comes from the Third ward and he has signified his intention of permitting the people to say whether they desire to elevate him to the Superior Court. Allen is distinctively an Oakland boy who has fought his way through life in spite of many obstacles and no candidate would have a larger following, not only in this city but throughout the county. He is not particularly in favor with politicians, but the people who do most of the voting are his friends. His popularity was attested by the vote at the last election, when he ran about 1,700 votes ahead of his rival, Fred V. Wood. The latter would not seriously object to a nomination for Superior judge, as he has more than once remarked, "It is my intention to follow in the footsteps of Hershaw." But the fates are against him. His evident desire for promotion does not please Judge Frick, however. Frick was responsible for Wood's nomination by the Republican convention, thereby defeating John A. Sands, who had been promised the nomination by the political powers. Sands has a long knife out for Frick, and as he is considerable of a power in the Third ward just now he is liable to cause His Honor some worriment of mind.

In the country George W. Langan will be heard from. Langan has attempted on several previous occasions to be made a Superior judge and in each instance has been unsuccessful. But this time he will be more earnest than ever. The interior of the county has received scant patronage heretofore, and no doubt he will make a formidable showing for recognition.

THE SUPERVISORS.

The Supervisorial contest will be a lively affair. Pelouze, Bailey and Johnstone will all endeavor to succeed themselves. The Fifth district, represented by Mr. Pelouze for nearly twelve years, has a host of candidates and a strong endeavor will be made to wrest the nomination from the First Ward, where Mr. Pelouze resides, and give it to one of the outside districts. Mr. Pelouze is relying to a large extent on Assessor Dalton's friendship, but Councilman Frank Mott is also very friendly with Mr. Dalton and expects that gentleman's influence in case he determines to become a supervisorial candidate, which is very probable. John Striker and William Schmidt of Berkeley, Don F. Miller and J. M. Page of Golden Gate, W. W. Morrison of the First ward, John Wixon and John Trotter of the Second ward, and Maurice Flynn of the Third ward are a few Republicans who would like to succeed Mr. Pelouze. Councilman Marshall of the Second ward and John McDonald of the First ward are Democratic aspirants.

Hiram Bailey who represents Murray and Washington townships, says he has no easy fight on his hands. Besides Thomas D Wells, the Democrat of Dublin, he has opposed to him Will Harris of Pleasanton, Arthur Fiedler and John Beck of Livermore, W. H. Ford of Niles and L. E. Osgood of Irvington.

J. E. Johnson is looked upon as very likely to succeed himself as the representative from the Second district. He will probably have opposed to him W. C. Mason, D. C. Brown, James T. Carey and E. F Armstrong.

THE SENATORSHIP.

State Senator Guy C. Earl is after Congressman Hilborn's place, while Assemblyman C. G Dodge would like to succeed Earl in the Senate. But Assemblyman Hart North is also after the Senatorship and as he has the backing of the University contingent and is also said to be supported by the Henshaw faction he will be a formidable candidate. If Earl does not see his road clear to Congress he will try again for the Senatorship, but even if he does it is more than probable that North will remain in the contest.

THE TENURE OF OFFICE.

The county officers, that is, all those but Supervisors and Superior judges, are not feeling entirely secure of a four years' tenure and at the expiration of two years expect their places to be contested. Tulare and Contra Costa counties are about to take steps to determine the question. But it is in San Francisco that the big fight will be made. Over there the officers were only elected for two years under the Consolidation act, but they claim that they should come under the provisions of the County Government act and hold office for four years. County Clerk Jordan has been particularly worried over the outlook and has discharged several clerks, as he says he desires to have a few dollars left at the expiration, of two years in case it should become necessary for him to vacate the office at the expiration of that time. He called upon his brother, W. H. Jordan, the well-known San Francisco attorney, for an opinion recently and that gentleman, from a superficial examination, gave it as his opinion that the county officers hold for only two years, but after a more thorough inquiry into the subject decided that they could hold for four years.

The statutes of 1893, section 60, relative to county governments, provides for the number and election of county officers. It also provides that they shall be elected in 1894 and hold their respective offices for the term of four years from and after the first Monday in January, 1895. The act concludes, "This act shall take effect on the first day of January, 1895 except as otherwise herein provided."

Section 170, subdivision 28, relating to counties of the eighth class, provides for the election of officers every two years, and it is contended that this being a later section than section 60 of the general act relating to counties, should govern. District Attorney Snook, who has examined into the subject, is of the opinion that section 60 referring to officers generally and providing for a four-year term is the governing section, and that the section relating to counties of the eighth class is unconstitutional on the ground that it is special legislation.

Assemblyman Dodge said today there was some question in the minds of the last Legislature in regard to the four year clause in the present act and a new act was passed that would fix the term at four years beyond question, but this the Governor vetoed because it allowed constables and justices too much in the way of fees.

County Clerk Jordan said today that he expected a contest over the matter at the end of two years if for no other reason than that it would be a big thing for the lawyers in the way of fees. He intimated that those who are holding office at present would make a determined effort to continue in place.

THE JUSTICES.

The two Oakland city justices were also elected under the County Government act, but it is a question in the minds of many attorneys whether they are not city officers. The Supreme Court Commissioners in the case of John A. Sands decided that they were city officials, but this decision was reversed by the Supreme court, who held they were State officers and that the Board of Supervisors were vested with appointive power in case of vacancies.

The last Legislature passed an act providing for primaries in counties of the first and second class on a particular day. The Constitution does not vest power in the Legislature to divide counties into classes except for the purpose of regulating compensation of officers. In view of this the primary act which applies only to San Francisco and Los Angeles will probably be declared unconstitutional.

A quiet effort is being made to organize an association in this city for political purposes to be composed of liberal minded citizens. It is proposed to exclude members of the Young Men's Institute and American Protective Association. Victor H. Metcalf has been mentioned as a suitable man to place at the head of such an organization.

Charles Mautalen, chairman of the Republican county committee, was asked today as to the likelihood of the committee to select delegates instead of electing them by the usual primary system. "I am not not in favor of having the committee select delegates," he replied. "There has been some talk among the committeemen in reference to it, but I believe the majority are opposed to it. I favor permitting the people to do their own voting and select their own delegates. The plan of selecting by the committee has been twice tried by the city committee, and in each case has proved unsatisfactory."

MRS. WALKERLY WINS

The Supreme Court Declares That the Trust Is Invalid.

SHE GETS ALL THE PROPERTY.

The State Law Was Invoked and It Broke the Will.

CHARITIES WERE LEFT OUT.

A Famous Oakland Contest Is Terminated at Last.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 3—The Supreme Court today decided the Walkerly trust invalid.

By this decision the widow of William Walkerly will receive the estate of $750,000 instead of one-fourth that amount.

Walkerly died in 1887, leaving as heirs his widow and a child born five months after his death.

His will gave the widow the furniture and the use of the residence during her widowhood.

If she remarried she was to lose her residence.

Besides he left her an annuity of $2400.

Just before his death Walkerly learned he was to have an heir and he made a codicil to the will in which he gave the unborn child and mother each $100,000.

The child Clelland Mrs. Walkerly received $750,000 as its heir.

She afterwards married William F. Barbank a sporter.

Mrs. Burbank commenced proceedings to have the trust declared invalid on the ground that the law in this State prohibits trusts for a term of years, except for charitable purposes.

The decision is rendered in her favor.

Most of the estate is in West Oakland, where Walkerly resided. W. F. Burbank was a reporter on an Oakland paper and first met Mrs. Walkerly at the court house on Broadway. He is now running the Record in Los Angeles.

INDIANS NOT TO BLAME.

General Coppinger Speaks of the Jackson Hole Campaign.

He Favors the Annexation of That Section to the Yellowstone.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Gen. Coppinger, who had command of the recent military expedition to the Jackson's Hole country, had a conference today with Secretary Lamont, to which Commissioner of Indian Affairs Browning was invited.

"I do not consider the Indians were to blame for the Jackson's Hole affair," said General Coppinger at the close of the conference. "They are entirely quiet now and have been. In fact, they would not say 'Boo' to a goose."

One question which the general brought to the attention of Secretary Lamont and Commissioner Browning was the advisability of annexing the Jackson's Hole country to the Yellowstone National Park.

He suggested that this action would solve the problem by preventing all parties from hunting and fishing in that section and said that as the country is not densely settled he thought there would be comparatively little difficulty in making the change.

Commissioner Browning said that in the first place it would be a matter for Secretary Smith and then for Congress, adding he did not know how the people of Wyoming would regard it as it would deprive that State of territory.

General Coppinger's report on the Indian trouble has been turned over to Secretary Lamont.

The general declined to say whether he made any recommendation for a continuance of the troops in Jackson's Hole country or for punishment of the participants in the trouble.

A POPULIST FIRST.

How the Situation Looks for a New Fire Chief.

No changes in the departments will be made at the meeting of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners today. Commissioners Wilson and Peirsol cannot agree upon the exchange of places which will be necessary before Elbert Lawton's successor is appointed. Commissioner Peirsol wants a Populist for fire chief, and Commissioner Wilson does not. Commissioner Peirsol says the man must be capable and efficient, and he thinks the Populist party can produce such a man in the person of J. C. Brown.

"I understand Peirsol says he wants an efficient man first and secondly he must be a Populist," remarked Fred A. Campbell today. "Peirsol reversed the conditions when I spoke to him in reference to the matter. He told me the new chief must be a Populist first, and secondly he must be efficient. Peirsol is laying the foundation for future political preferment. He would like to continue in his present position or obtain something higher. If the Populists made him Mayor it would suit him first-rate. I told him recently if he wanted the fire department converted into a political machine I was just the man for the position," and Mr. Campbell smiled. "But if he wanted the department kept out of politics no one could be better than myself. Peirsol knows who intended to put a Democrat in office if possible, and I guess he will do it if Mr. Wilson stands pat."

THE ASSESSMENT TO STAND.

Alameda County Is Not Advanced by the State Board.

THE TAX LEVY FIXED.

Sixty-eight Cents and Five Mills Will Be Borne by the Taxpayers.

MANY REDUCTIONS ARE MADE.

No Advances, However, Are Announced in Any of the Counties.

Special to the Tribune.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—The State Board of Equalization today completed its work.

The assesment of Alameda county was left untouched.

San Francisco's valuations were also allowed to stand without change.

Los Angeles and Santa Clara counties were left unchanged.

Twenty-six counties gained a reduction of 10 per cent in their valuations.

The State Board did not raise the assessment on a single county in the State.

The board also fixed the total tax levy for State purposes.

The levy is 68.5 cents, divided as follows: General fund, 45.7; school, 20.4; interest and sinking fund, 1.4; State University, 1.0.

An even 1 cent on $100 goes to the University fund.

The valuations upon which the tax levy was made is as follows:

The levy last year was 49.3 cents.

The party pledges at the last election named 50 cents as the limit for State tax purposes.

The increase in the levy over last year is due to large appropriations made by the last legislature and the reductions made on the county assessments.

OAK LEAVES.

Emperor William Decorates the Regimental Flags.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—Emperor William inaugurated the second day of the festivities in connection with the celebration of the battle of 1870 and 1871 by personally decorating with branches of oak leaves the four corps standards.

The first regiment of guards was drawn up in front of the castle to witness the ceremony.

At 8:30 the emperor set out for the parade to review the German-American veterans.

The weather was fine. Large crowds thronged the streets, which were most elaborately decorated with flags and bunting.

THE AUDITOR'S ESTIMATES.

Heavy Cuts Must Be Made in the Department Figures.

The annual estimate of the income and expenses of the city for the present fiscal year will be filed tonight with the City Council by Auditor R. W. Snow.

The estimate will show that the department expenses as made out by the offices of the city aggregate $946,354.

The income of the city, other than taxes, is estimated at $296,134.

The income from taxes at the highest legal rate can be only $455,000.

This has made it necessary for the auditor to reduce the department estimates $177,650.

The tax levy for bonds and interest will be not less than 17 cents.

CALL FOR YOUR COIN.

A Number of the Registered Warrants Will Now Be Paid.

ELIZA A. GILES.

Finding the Spoils

Detective Shorey today searched the ark which belonged to Joe Silva, the attempted slayer of Night Watchman Jones of the Market street wharf. Among other things which the police think were stolen by Silva they took a pair of oars, which were identified by Captain Cole, of the schooner, "Anna Mine" as having been stolen from his boat.

Walker Wins.

Because of the insufficiency of the evidence produced by the prosecution Judge Wood dismissed the charge against W. R. Walker, accused by Miss Mabel Pugh Heaggard with her betrayal. From the testimony of the prosecuting witness it appeared that her feelings had experienced a revulsion towdrd Walker and that now she would not marry him if he should request it.

THE DAY IN THE EAST.

Populists Claim an Immense Majority in Texas.

Fire at Rochester and Death of a Couple of Statesmen.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Five hundred people chased a thief through State street today and aided in his capture. The prisoner, who gave his name as James Williams of San Francisco, was charged with robbing the till of the Masonic Temple Association of a large sum. The prisoner at police headquarters was identified as John B. Gordon of Louisville, Ky.

TEXAS FOR THE POPULISTS.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

DENVER, Sept. 2.—General James B. Weaver, who spent August in Texas, sends the following report of the political conditions of that State to the Rocky Mountain News: "The old party ties are completely dissolved in Texas. She will cast her vote by an immense majority for the Populist ticket."

AN EX-GOVERNOR GONE.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Arrived: Werra, from Naples; American, from Rotterdam; Trave, from Bremen.

THE RELIEF OF PEARY.

Little Trouble Experienced in Heading for the North.

The Expedition Will Probably Return the End of the Month.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 2.—The first news of the Peary relief expedition was brought today by the American schooner John E. Mackenzie, returning from the Greenland halibut fishery.

The Mackenzie met the Kite with the expedition at Holsteinburg July 15th.

At Holsteinberg the Kite took aboard Professor Dyche, one of the members of the expedition, and they sailed again the same evening.

Very little ice was reported south of Greenland waters.

The crew of the Mackenzie think the Kite will have no difficulty in reaching Whale's sound, where Peary's headquarters are located.

The return of the relief party is expected about the end of this month.

WON COL. IRISH'S VOTE.

Mayor Davie in His Choice for Any Office He Wants.

Colonel John P. Irish and Mayor Davie are now firm friends and it is all because the Mayor has been largely instrumental in having the garbage of the city dumped outside of the limits of Oakland. During the last election Colonel Irish announced that he was for J. W. Nelson for Mayor but he met Mayor Davie a few days ago and told him he would vote for him whenever he wanted to run for office.

"I have been fighting against this dumping of garbage in the vicinity of our homes for the past ten years," remarked the colonel, "and you are the first man who has been able to accomplish anything in the way of preventing it. Count on my vote the next time you are a candidate."

The Mayor filed a message with the council recommending the passage of an ordinance providing for the segregation of garbage by the property owners and citizens, prior to its collection by the city scavengers. The Mayor says: "All garbage should be separated and kept in separate receptacles, one for ashes only and the other for all other kinds of garbage and refuse. The ashes could be dumped anywhere within the city where required for filling and the balance disposed of, either as at present, by transportation or cremation. In so doing a saving in transportation would be made at present, and in the future, if a crematory is constructed, it would require less fuel to consume the same."

DELAYED FOR A DAY.

Durrant's Trial, Though, Is to Be Commenced Tomorrow.

NEWS ALONG THE COAST.

Vain Attempt to Drive Out the Chinese at Wheatland.

ROBBERY IN A RESTAURANT.

Arrival of a Ship That Was Caught in a Cyclone at Sea.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Durrant's trial was today postponed until tomorrow on motion of the attorneys for the defense, seconded by the district attorney.

The uncertainty about the effect of Labor Day upon judicial acts led to the postponement.

District Attorney Barnes will make his opening statement to the jury tomorrow morning.

A CYCLONE AT SEA.

The Evening Bulletin says: The British ship Crocodile arrived today, seventy-two days from Australia.

On August 1st, she encountered a cyclone just like a land cyclone, which is very rare at the cyclonic center.

It burst a quarter of a mile from the ship, but near enough to tear all the sail off the masts.

The ship lay five days in the trough after the cyclone passed unable to move.

A RESTAURANT ROBBED.

Mrs. Dora Reed, proprietress of a restaurant, was beaten and robbed at an early hour today. She says her assailants were Chinese, but as it was dark, she could not recognize them but suspects her cook and another servant. Mrs. Reed's injuries may result fatally.

DEFENDING THE FLAG.

The Bulletin has a story of a fight on July 4th at Monte Video, between the sailors of the United States cruiser Newark and British marines ashore at the same time.

The Englishmen pulled down the American flag in a saloon and stamped on it.

The result was a fight in which an American sailor was stabbed probably fatally. Many others were wounded.

The native police arrested forty of the combatants.

TO GO TO ATLANTA.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—Governor Budd today appointed the delegates to the Pan-American Congress to be held at Atlanta, Ga., from the 10th to the 18th of October, as follows: Amos Adams, San Jose; William Johnston, Courtland; J. A. Filcher, secretary State Board of Trade; David Lubin, Sacramento.

A RAID ON CHINESE.

WHEATLAND, Cal., Sept. 2.—A mob attepted to drive out Chinese employed as hop pickers by W. Proddans.

The latter explained to the mob that he employed whites and Indians, but could not secure a sufficient number to handle the crop.

A number of other whites said to be intoxicated, joined the raiders who were confronted with the guns of Proddans' men and commanded to retreat, which they did on hearing the click of the guns.

The Chinese are still working.

A NEVADA TRAGEDY.

YERINGTON, Nev., Sept. 2.—William Morrow was shot today and killed by his father-in-law, Mr. Logan.

Morrow and his wife were scuffling for the possession of a pistol.

Morrow was threatening to kill her, and Logan appeared.

Morrow threatened him and Logan fired.

Logan gave himself up.

Mrs. Morrow was shot through the leg.

LABOR DAY DOWN SOUTH.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Labor Day was celebrated by a parade of the labor organizations this morning and picnics in the mountains and at the seashore in the afternoon.

A TRAGEDY AT SANTA ROSA.

SANTA ROSA, Sept. 2.—Frank Bacigalupi has been cut in left side by Peter Lungaretti and will probably die.

Sunday morning Lungaretti met two young women named Gardelli and Bacigalupi.

Words passed between them and Lungaretti slapped them in the face.

Bacigalupi met Lungaretti last night and chided him with slapping the young women.

Hot words followed and the men exchanged a number of blows.

The men were separated by friends, but Lungaretti returned to the attack, drew a big knife and plunged it into Bacigalupi's side, making a cut over an inch long.

Lungaretti with a companion jumped into a cart and drove off.

He has not yet been found.

LEFT NO WILL.

Thomas Ewing Applies for Letters Upon the Estate of His Wife.

Mrs. Clara C. Ewing, the wife of Thomas Ewing of this city, who died at Springfield, Ill., on August 8th, left a considerable estate in this city. During her lifetime her husband had made a number of gifts to her which aggregated a value of $50,000. Ewing was a prominent mining operator here some years ago and a wealthy capitalist.

A petition was filed today by Ewing in the Superior court for letters of administration upon the estate of his wife. The real property is valued at $50,000 and personal property at $2,500. Ewing represents that the entire estate was the separate property of Mrs. Ewing and was all acquired by gift. He states that she left no will and that he is the only heir-at-law. The real estate is all in this city.

WANT SOME GOLD.

Non-Resident Devisees of Morris Goldberg to the Front.

Some of the non-resident devisees of Morris Goldberg are seeking some of the gold of the Fruitvale hermit, who left $250,000 to be distributed among thirty or forty legatees. They have learned that an order of partial distribution has been made in the estate and they have come to the front through their attorney, H. H. North, for an order directing the payment to them of a share of the coin now in the hands of the executors. There are seven represented in the petition, and they seek to have $11,500 distributed in the following amounts:

To Mrs. Missie Shirman, $3,000; Mrs. Sarah Parsch, $2,500; Fanny O. Leopould, $1,000; M. C. Phillips, $2,000; Frances Phillips, $2,000; Cissily Phillips, $2,000; Beatrice Sells, $2,000.

CAUGHT AS HE FLED.

Walter Ross Captured on the San Leandro Road.

THE HOUSE SURROUNDED.

He Jumped From a Window to a Policeman's Arms.

ROBBERY CHARGED TO HIM.

He Is an Ex-Convict and Has an Unsavory Record.

Captain Wilson and Detective Shorey arrested Walter Ross this morning for robbery.

On Saturday night Ross and two companions entered a house on Marton street in San Francisco and at the point of a revolver forced the proprietress, Madge Walls, to give them what money she had, about $25, her jewelry and clothes.

One of the gang was arrested in San Francisco but the other two escaped. A description was sent to the Oakland officers and they recognized Ross as one of the men.

Ross was located at his mother's home on the San Leandro road near High street. The officers knowing his running ability were careful in their approach. Captain Wilson went to the rear door. He quietly tried it but found it locked. Sounds were plainly heard in the kitchen but it was several moments before the door was unfastened and Wilson was told that the young man was not at home.

Detective Holland had gone to the front door and while waiting for a response to his knock he carefully watched the sides of the house. His vigilance was rewarded by seeing Ross jump from a side window and attempt to run.

"Stop or I'll shoot him," said the detective. "and he lost no time in obeying. I do not think he would have stopped so readily if he had been fully dressed, but in his haste he had not put on his coat, vest or hat."

The officers searched the place for evidence and brought to the city prison two sleeping sacks filled with ladies' wearing apparel, besides four finger rings.

Ross is a hold-off order and is considered by the officers a desperate and dangerous man. He was sent to the penitentiary from this county for burglary and had only been out a short time.

He was intimate with the Hollands and Openheimers and was thought by the officers to have had a hand in the Melntosh hold up in San Francisco, for which his brother George is now held in San Francisco.

Madge Walls, the victim of his robbery, was found by a Tribune reporter and she was released from the city prison a few days ago, having served six months for petty larceny.

MEDIUMS.

ADVICE AND ASSISTANCE FOR all—Secure a charm and wear diamonds; his parlors are always filled with anxious people seeking reliable information, and every reply is most gratifying. All are pleased. Professor Eugene gives advice on business, speculations, investments, love, courtship, marriage and divorce, settles lovers' quarrels, reunites the separated and causes a speedy and happy marriage with the one of your choice; he locates mines and buried treasures, tells you of your friends and enemies, removes evil influences, gives advice pertaining to lawsuits, locates and recovers old estates. Developing mediums a specialty. The troubled and unfortunate should seek his counsel. Thousands of families long separated have been reunited by his efforts; thousands of hearts made glad through his truthful predictions; he is the only clairvoyant on earth recognized by the profession as their brightest star; all persons unsuccessful in business, who seem to be unlucky, should visit him, seek his aid, and start aright. Thousands have become wealthy through his advice; he is ever ready to assist those with capital to find a safe and good-paying investment. Young men starting in business will find it greatly to their advantage to consult him on all matters of financial interest to themselves. Professor Eugene should not be classed with the many cheap pretenders who infest cities and bring disrepute to the profession. T. W. MORGAN AND ROSS MORgan, civil engineers, room 57 Macdonough block, Oakland. Room 150, Crocker building, San Francisco.

FOR THE SICK ROOM.

Do not add to the trials of the patient by keeping constantly before him medicine bottles, glasses and spoons. Let all these reminders of his low estate be out of sight on a neatly arranged table behind a screen or in the alcove, which it is wise to have off every sick room. To keep medicine and suggestions of medicine before the invalid is about as humane as to treat a condemned prisoner to a daily glimpse of the scaffold.

The sick room should be odorless. The air must be let in freely and as often as possible. Pile extra blankets and comfortables over the invalid; tie up his head, that the wind may find no spot at which to attack him, and open the windows and doors wide. Disinfectants are generally disagreeable, but they may be used during the airing of the room, for the draught will destroy their unpleasant odor, and they will destroy the unpleasant odor of disease.

The bedclothes and the patient's linen must be changed every day. Fresh clothing and fresh sheets will do much to prevent the atmosphere from becoming "stuffy." The patient should be bathed as often as the physician permits. He should not, however, be bathed without the doctor's knowledge and direction, for baths are as effective as medicines, and their effects are sometimes as disastrous as that of the wrong medicine.

Never ask the patient what he wishes to eat, but keep an attentive ear open for any chance words he may say on the subject. Feed him according to the doctor's directions. Never bring him much food at one time. It will destroy his appetite. Let the tray be very daintily arranged, and never let it remain in the sick room for an instant after the meal is over. Even a healthy person will be revolted by the sight of scraps of food and unwashed dishes.

The windows should be shaded with dark green Holland shades, which will temper the glare of light for the sufferer's eyes. At night there should be a shaded light—light in the room. A screen should always be placed so that no direct rays may fall upon the patient's eyes.

The nurse should be neatness, quickness, quietness and good cheer personified. Her slippers should be noiseless felt affairs. Her skirts should not rustle. Her gown must be neither too sombre nor too bright. Her apron must be spotless and unrumpled, her hair smooth and shining, her patience inexhaustible, and her good cheer perpetual. She must rule the rest of the family with a rod of iron, permitting no noisy visitors, no gloomy visitors, no visitors who will relate tales of business or of household worry.

HUMOROUS.

He—The lamp is going out.

She—Yes, it hasn't been filled since you came.—Life.

Carleton—Did you dally with the breakers at Asbury Park?

Montauk—Yes; I met three charming girls and they broke me in a week.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"I see that John's speakin' on the financial question."

"Oh, yes."

"What's the old man doin'?"

"Furnishin' the finances."—Chicago Times-Herald.

"What in the world shall I do with baby, John? She's crying for the moon."

She—Surely, my dear, you will consider the matter carefully before consenting to Clara's marriage to old Mr. Cashman.

He—Certainly; I shall have his books examined by an expert.—Life.

Amateur Artist—I should like to present the last picture I painted to some charitable institution. Now which would you recommend?

Cruel lady friend—The blind asylum.—New York Journal.

"She has learned all she knows," said the mother of the musical infant prodigy, "in four lessons."

"Yes," replied the eminent musician, "but think of the hundreds of lessons it will take her to forget."—Washington Star.

Forecast Official.

TUESDAY.....SEPTEMBER 3, 1895.

All national flags to be contracted for delivery after next July must have an additional star added for Utah. It is made on the presumption that Utah at that time will be a full fledged State. But the vote on the adoption of the Constitution has not yet been taken, nor has the formal declaration of admission to the Union been made. It is assumed that there will be no hitch in the final proceedings.

The next International congress of those devoted to the study of American antiquities, ethnology, native languages, history and geography will be held in the City of Mexico on the 15th of October. The last congress was held in Stockholm a year ago. The next is the eleventh meeting and is intended to commemorate the discovery of America. It is reported that the Mexicans are making great preparations for this Congress. President Diaz and his cabinet will welcome the archaeologists.

Not the Red Flag.

The British labor agitator who has recently come over to this country alluded in a recent speech with much enthusiasm to the red flag as the "emblem of socialism and universal brotherhood." There is no country in the world where the red flag would be more abhorred than here. Americans are content with their national flag. It is the symbol of freedom, progress and equality. They want no other, and they do not tolerate any other by way of precedence.

The stars and stripes have no affinity with the red flag as a symbol of social revolution, violence, robbery and murder. The foreigner who comes over here and begins to talk to working men about the blessings of anarchy, which the red flag symbolizes, invites the execration of all good men. Whatever may be the social grievances they will never be corrected by any such means.

Never in the history of the country has the national flag become so dear to the hearts of the people at this time. It is under that flag that labor has attained greater rewards than under any other in the world. The red flag was the symbol of the commune, under which the most bloody atrocities of modern times were committed. A flag that symbolizes the brotherhood of blood is not wanted in this country.

The Royal Gamblers.

According to one report by telegraph the Princess Colonna has secured a legal separation from her husband. This report was contradicted. The subsequent report which comes straight from Naples is that the wife has been given a decree of divorce by a court in that city, which allows her the full custody of her three children. The story that a settlement has been made on the Prince of 60,000 francs a year was also denied. There is good ground to believe the report is true.

Prince Colonna is an inveterate gambler and spent as much of his wife's income as he could get hold of. Royalty never seeks an alliance with plebian blood unless there is a large money consideration. These fellows are generally bankrupt in everything else but a title. This they sometimes put up in the matrimonial market for the money it will bring; while the girl is merely thrown into the balance as so much surplusage. Later she comes to the consciousness that she has been sold to a brute whom she cannot help but despise. But the paying of 60,000 francs a year of John Mackay's money to a royal scamp for having abused a woman—how does that sound in these days?

Now comes the report that Anna Gould has already paid $25,000 of gambling debts contracted by her titled husband. That is probably the beginning of the end. More gambling debts, then a flare up, followed by separation and as much of a divorce as can be procured in a French court. It is the old story of the titled fortune hunter who sooner or later tires of his American wife when there is no more money in sight. The Huntington woman married a titled foreigner who was a notorious gambler. Just how many hundred thousand dollars were paid by the wife to square his debts does not appear on record.

Young American women who sell themselves for an empty title are not deserving of much sympathy. They begin by condoning the offences of the gambler and the roue—offences that they would not overlook in any suitor at home who had no title. Not only do they do this, but they put themselves in the way to be courted by these worthless fellows. When they are married nothing less than a broadside of description in the newspapers about the pomp and circumstance of the occasion will satisfy their ambition. When the moth dashes into the candle it comes out on the other side without any wings.

At the Agricultural Fair.

It was predicted in advance that not less than 20,000 persons would attend the State Fair at Sacramento this year. A great many of these will be drawn there by the electrical exhibition which will surpass anything ever seen in the State that has been created by water power. Literally the creative force and energy of the American river has been sent down to Sacramento, a distance of 22 miles. It is a striking illustration of the shifting of power centers that is going on all over the country. It is said that the inhabitants of Folsom are greatly disappointed that this electrical energy has not been employed in building up their town instead of being sent down to increase the prosperity of Sacramento.

The State Fair represents what is best in the agriculture of the State. The choicest breeds of cattle, horses, sheep and other animals are exhibited. All the best varieties of fruit are seen there. In short, the Fair is an epitome of the agricultural wealth of the State. That is the leading industrial interest. It exceeds the aggregate value of all the mining, manufacturing and lumbering of California. The agricultural productions of the State this year will probably exceed one hundred million dollars. This is not all profit by a long way. If it were, California would be the most prosperous State in the Union. And yet with all the drawbacks and they are many, it will turn out that more money has been made this year in agricultural pursuits on an equal amount of capital, than in any other industrial calling. There is no evidence that the merchants and manufactures have done better, or that the lumber dealers have had any better times.

It is doubtful if the majority of wheat growers have made any money. Most of the crop is unsold, and at present prices, hardly more than a new dollar could be got back for the old one. Horses have touched the lowest valuation ever known here. A few days ago at an auction sale of horses bred in Alameda county, the average price did not much exceed $60. These well bred animals would have brought a few years ago on an average of $250 each. On cattle the shrinkage of values has been less because stocks have been depleted all over the Northwestern States. But right here in California where thoroughbred cattle brought such fancy prices a few years ago, they have dropped down to a nominal valuation. Alderneys and Jerseys have been sold during this year at the price which common stock brought a few years ago. But this shrinkage is common to the whole country.

There is no disposition to abandon agriculture because the returns in so many instances are not satisfactory. The earth will still nourish her population. Wheat, wool, corn and wine will still add to the wealth of the State. Homesteads will be in demand. The small farmer is turning his hundred acres to such account that he can live in comfort, pay off his debts and have a margin left for improvements. All these things are suggested by the great agricultural exhibition now in progress at Sacramento.

The Lunar Eclipse Tonight.

This evening there will be a total eclipse of the moon which will be visible here at about 9 o'clock. The first contact will occur at about 7 o'clock in the evening, or a little later at this point. At about 10 o'clock the moon will be in total eclipse, although the moon will not wholly disappear in the shadow. The reason ascribed by astronomers is that the earth is surrounded by an atmosphere which possesses the property of refracting the rays of the sunlight; and enough light is bent around the edge of the globe to make the shadow which the earth casts partly luminous, so that the face of the moon will probably appear like a dull copper disk.

All these points can be verified by those who are sufficiently interested to watch these lunar phases this evening, say from 9 to 10 o'clock. Of course if the fog comes in the eclipse will be spoiled for everybody along the coast. But in the interior there will be a clear atmosphere and many small telescopes will be pointed at the moon, which will put on mourning, as it were, for a short time.

In a long letter from Honolulu published in the Washington Star, it is affirmed that there is no disposition on the part of dissentients to revive monarchy; nor are there any indications of weakness or instability in the government. This local allusion follows:

"The observation is called out by interviews reported in the San Francisco papers with Congressman Hilborn of that city, who recently visited the islands, and while here expressed himself very favorably, both as to the stability of the government and the desirableness of annexation. Mr. Hilborn is now reported as saying that annexation is undesirable; that the republic of Hawaii will soon collapse, and that the queen will before long be restored. Possibly he has been misreported. It is difficult to believe a man of the supposed intelligence of a member of Congress would have formed such opinions on local politics from anything seen or heard in Honolulu."

A few months ago there was a great deal of enthusiasm in Paris about the World's Fair outlined for the year 1900. The first sign of reaction was indicated in Lyons and other provincial cities. The real value of such fairs beyond the cost was questioned. The smaller cities were disposed to lay over the proposition a wet blanket. The reaction has reached Paris. It is urged that the only results of a World's Fair will be an unhealthy stimulus to trade, followed by stagnation.

It is certain that Chicago derived some substantial advantages from the great fair held in that city. Probably the Southern States will be greatly benefited by the Atlanta exposition, at which cotton will lead all other agricultural productions. It may be that the former World's Fair held in Paris is associated in the minds of many with a great European war which began soon afterward, and which was so unfortunte to France.

Our old friend the sunflower is exalted once more. A good agricultural authority sets it up in this way: As a plant it has no superior for vigor, rapid growth and prolific yield of seed, leaves and stalk, all of which can be utilized. The seeds are especially good as feed for fowls, and when mixed with grains they are relished by all farm animals. Fifty bushels of seed to the acre is a fair yield, and this will produce 50 gallons of oil worth $1 a gallon. In China a valuable fiber, used in silk weaving is obtained from the stalks, and they are of service as fuel and a source of potash. The Orients mix their tobacco with cured sunflower leaves and make a yellow dye from the flowers, which are also rich in honey and wax. The sunflower grows riotously in the United States and stands all extremes of weather well. Plainly it is one of nature's gifts, but as yet unappreciated.

It is reported that Governor Budd is in something of a worry about the cholera. The State Board of Health is to have a meeting to take some measures to ward off the trouble. If the disease should rage in Honolulu it is probable that more or less cases would be brought to this coast by ships. It certainly is in order to use extra precautions just now. Hardly a greater calamity could occur than the introduction of Asiatic cholera.

While the Tehuantepec railroad is completed as to the grading, bridging and laying of rails, it can not be said that the road is opened to the traffic of the world until the ports on the Atlantic and Pacific side have been completed. This work as it has been outlined, will involve an expenditure of not less than $5,000,000 and will require from one to two years to finish the harbors for deep water ships.

A DANGEROUS HEIGHTH.

How Robert Louis Stevenson Rebuked an Egotist.

A characteristic anecdote has been told since their death of the two English authors—Robert Louis Stevenson and John Addington Symonds. Stevenson, though one of the kindliest men in the world, was one of the frankest, and would often startle his companions by an outburst of candor which, like a flash of lightning, revealed their shortcomings.

He visited his friend Symonds when he was last in England, and bore goodhumoredly for a day or two with the perpetual morbid self-analysis and complaints of the injustice of fate with which that able man incessantly tormented himself and his friends.

At last, while they were speaking of Alpine travel, Symonds asked his guest what was the dizziest height to which he had ever climbed, and which had alarmed him most.

"The most dangerous height to which I ever climbed," said Stevenson, "was Mount Ego. I reached the top and looked all over it. I never got over that dismal view! I wouldn't advise anybody," he added, significantly, "to give himself up to looking at it. Some day one would overreach one's self, and topple in."

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Gaping Ghyll, an unfathomed abyss near Ingleborough, in Yorkshire, was recently explored by M. Martel, the French cavern hunter. After a stream which falls into the cave had been diverted, he was let down to a depth of 330 feet and there found a chamber hollowed out in the limestone, 450 feet long by 130 broad and 100 feet high, with a level bottom covered with sands and pebbles. There were no bones either of men or animals, which is unusual with these caverns.

Near the battlefield of Marathon, at Kotrona, a prehistoric burial mound recently opened yielded eleven old Mycenaean vases, two of them of gold, and some gold earrings. At a place called Krikella, where the Gauls were driven back by the Greeks in 279 before Christ, and over 20,000 of them were slain, a bronze helmet has been found, and at Lycosura the Mosaic floor of the temple of Despoina has been laid bare. In the center two lifelike lions of natural size are depicted, surrounded by successive ornamental borders.

While the spire of Salisbury Cathedral is tottering, the roof of Winchester Cathedral threatens to fall through. It is the original wooden roof erected by William Wykeham, but has been weakened by the cutting of the timbers. When Salisbury Cathedral was begun, in 1220, there was no thought of erecting a spire on the central tower. That was an afterthought, and the architect who designed the spire strained the strength of the original substructure to the utmost. It has always had to be carefully watched, and the means taken to strengthen it by iron bands and ties have only added to the weight. Of late the stone work has been decaying rapidly, so that the spire is in great danger of collapsing.

Lord Rosebery has numerous interests on this side of the Atlantic, among others a cotton mill in the South. It is said that some of his ventures have not been very successful, and that having several obligations to meet he intends to come over shortly and investigate his affairs himself.

The British Admiral Lucas, now reported dying, enjoys the distinction of having been the first person to win the highly prized decoration of the Victoria Cross, only conferred for exceptional feats of gallantry. He received it while a midshipman in the Crimean war having seized a shell that had fallen on the deck of the ship Hecla and flung it overboard just a second before it exploded.

George Westinghouse, patentee of the brake which bears his name, has made over $20,000,000 from his invention.

In the absence of direct and specific accusation Librarian Spofford's integrity does not need even to be defended in this community where he is known and honored. When there is authorized official statement as to the complication of accounts which just now perplexes both the Treasury Department and the librarian the public will probably discover that the whole trouble has its origin in that peculiar form of economy which so frequently moves the government to call upon one man to do two men's work.—Star.

When Justice Strong Was a Boy.

New York Tribune.

Even in his infancy Justice Strong's mind seems to have had a legal bent. His father was a Presbyterian clergyman—a classmate at Yale and warm personal friend of Justice Stephen J. Field's father. According to one of the stories relating to the boyhood of the future associate justice, he abstracted a cake from the family table, which was spread for some festive occasion. The loss was not discovered until the family and guests were seated at the table, and nothing was said about it at the time. After the guests had departed, however, the reverend father of the young epicure said to him:

"Don't you know, my son, that in taking that cake you broke one of God's commandments?"

"'Question 82,'" responded the young hopeful, who had the catechism at his tongue's end, "'is any man able perfectly to keep the commandments of God?'"

"'Answer 82. No mere man, since the fall, is able in this life perfectly to keep the commandments of God, but doth daily break them in thought, word and deed.'"

What reply, if any, was made to this by the boy's father is not a matter of record, but it will be generally admitted that the future jurist there and then fairly won his first case.

African Mahogany.

Woodworker.

Mahogany cut from the forests discovered by Stanley in his expedition for the rescue of Emin Pasha now reaches this country. These forests are said to be inexhaustible, and are probably of equal, perhaps of greater, value than the richest gold or diamond mines of the dark continent. Capitalists were interested in Stanley's account, and a flourishing trade in the timber has resulted. Prices of mahogany products were in a fair way to rise to excessive figures until the cutting began in Africa. This has only been within the past year, but prices have already fallen 20 per cent. A car load was recently delivered at Louisville at a net cost of $80 per 1000 feet, whereas it has been a common thing for mahogany to sell at auction in Liverpool, England, for $100 per 1000 feet. Heretofore the principal sources of supply have been the forests of Central America, Cuba, San Domingo and Brazil. Already 12,000,000 feet have been cut and exported from Africa, and the trade promises to yield an immense revenue to the British and French colonists who have seized the mahogany territory. This African mahogany has a pinkish tinge in contrast to the reddish yellow color of the American varieties. The trees are very large and logs received in the shipment mentioned were two feet to three and a half feet in size. They are squared before being exported.

CYCLING IS ALL RIGHT.

It Is Beneficial to Health if Common Sense Rules Are Observed.

Dr. S. H. Buteau Gives Good Advice of Especial Interest to Female Riders.

Don't be afraid to go out for a bicycle ride. It's all right and it won't lead to your having what Con Crowley calls "Spinal Maginnis" despite what some of the doctors are saying.

As a matter of fact, there are more physicians who declare wheeling is beneficial than insist it is injurious. So, as it is a case of "who shall decide where doctors disagree," the best way out of the difficulty is to go right on cycling if you enjoy it and do not detect any impairment of your health.

That some of the leading medicos of the town are themselves confirmed wheelmen is a pretty good evidence that there is but little radically wrong with the sport and when you corner one of these riders you will find that he places but little faith in the sensational statements that have been made during the past few days regarding the ill effects of cycling. One of the most pronounced on the subject is Dr. S. H. Buteau who in conversation with a Tribune man today said:

"All this talk about bicycling being a forerunner of disease and death is nonsense. It is a sport that not only provides recreation for the mind but is beneficial to the health. There are certain rules and conditions that must be observed, as is the case in all forms of exercise, but if ordinary care to taken there is no reason why wheeling should not take the lead among the outdoor sports.

"There are some people who should not ride. For instance, any one with heart trouble. The reason for this is apparent—the exercise is somewhat violent. Then again, a person with pronounced lung trouble should eschew cycling, for it demands an unusual exercise of the lungs. This, however, is in the case where the trouble already exists, where there is a hereditary tendency cycling will do good if done in moderation, for it means exercise in the open air and the promotion of a healthy condition of the lungs.

"The person who has kidney trouble should not ride, as the jarring no matter how slight it might be, would, by being continuous, produce an aggravation. So much for those who should not ride; now for those who should.

THOSE WHO SHOULD RIDE.

"There is nothing better for nervous people. By this term I classify those who are irritable or who suffer from melancholia or hysteria. It is the exhilaration of the exercise that will benefit them and it seems especially adapted to such ailments. Another individual who should ride is the man who is overworked mentally. When cycling, his attention is constantly diverted to the panorama he passes, such a the roads, sidewalks, crossings, vehicles and so forth and in this way his mind is relieved and finds rest from special fixed ideas which have been occupying him.

"There is a good deal, though, in the way a person rides. If the saddle is too low it causes a cramping of the chest and straining of the back and impedes the full action of the muscles of the leg. The seat should be high enough to allow the leg to be well extended, as relaxation is then obtained during the downward stroke of the pedals. As far as women are concerned, I can not speak too strongly against their wearing corsets when on wheels. On side of the sacrifice of comfort it means that many of their muscles are tied up and can not enjoy the freedom which is then especially needed. A spring saddle is of course far preferable to a rigid one one. A woman should consult her doctor as to when she should or should not ride; as a general thing, though, I will say it is beneficial to her.

DO NOT GO TOO FAR.

"Moderation can not be too strongly advocated. A man should not only not ride more than fifty miles at a time as an outside limit but he should take four or five hours to do it. Although there are many women who could make the trip equally as easily as a man still as a general thing twenty-five miles should be the limit for a female rider. I would advocate the riding of about ten miles a day—half that distance early in the morning and the balance towards evening.

"All this talk about the death of Giles through spinal meningitis caused by wheeling amounts to little. There are many thousands of cyclists in the United States, and in Paris alone about 40,000 people have been riding for the past two years, yet there has never been a case reported to the medical fraternity of death or disease brought on directly by the sport. Simply because by a coincidence an individual who was a wheelman died of spinal meningitis, in the absence of other proof it is foolish to attribute his demise to that cause.

"There is a good deal of nonsense being voiced, too, about the jarring of the spine. Why, the thickest cushioned part of the spinal column is the anterior on which the weight is thrown in a slight inclination while bicycle riding, hence, in bending over his wheel, while traversing a rough road, a rider receives less shock than he would if he remained rigid and it is undoubtedly this feeling of ease that makes a cyclist unconsciously stoop as he passes over a piece of rough ground. I do not advise general riding in that posture, though, for it cramps the lungs; the point I wish to convey is that it is arrant nonsense to declare that that position affects the nerves and brain. Spinal meningitis as a matter of fact, has often been found in individuals without any apparent direct cause.

"In conclusion," added the doctor, "I will say that with ordinary care, such as not overdoing it or running risks when the health is poor, bicycling is one of the best outdoor sports in which a person can indulge. It seems a pity that after we have for so many years been endeavoring to get woman to take some outdoor exercise that just as she is doing it some alarmists should come to the front and try and prevent the recreation. I hope no one will be frightened off by the absurd statements that have been printed, and I am sure that in this expression of my views I am simply voicing the sentiments of a large number of my colleagues."

AS OTHERS SEE US.

An Oakland young man who used his bicycle too much has died of cerebro-spinal meningitis as a consequence, and several doctors predict through the columns of the Examiner, a vast number of deaths and a great increase in disease in consequence of bicycle riding, one of said doctors going so far as to express fear that the human race may, in a generation or two, peter out altogether in consequence thereof.

We do not take this alarming view of the situation. It is evident that the Fool Killer has got himself a bicycle and is on the road. That was to be expected. It will be a case of the survival of the fittest in the matter of bicycle riding as in the other affairs of life. Cyclists who do not know how to take care of themselves, and have none to advise them, or who are tendered good advice and refuse to take it, will die of meningitis or some other disease that is a natural consequence of excessive or otherwise improper use of the bicycle.

Every new fad has its victim, but after a while the fad dies out altogether or becomes one of the social institutions, and claims no more than the average number of victims decreed by the beneficent law of nature, of which the above named Fool Killer is the chief executive officer. People to this day kill themselves with cold baths and Indian clubs and even with pedestrianism or cold water.

The bicycle craze will regulate itself. Riders will soon learn what can and what cannot be safely done on the wheel, and then only the average amount of harm will occur.—San Francisco Report.

An Oakland youth died day before yesterday of cerebro spinal meningitis which is thought attributed to excessive bicycle riding, and now a hullabaloo about the danger that lurks in the insidious wheel is on, savants are loud mouthed in discussion and the clamor is not stilled. Men are found to insist that the bicycle should be retired to desuetude, and others are heard to maintain that one cannot get too much of it. The whole debate is preposterous. As well might men contend that, because somebody killed himself by gluttony, it is not well to eat, as to make single instances like the foregoing the basis of a general arraignment of the bicycle. The case is an evidence of nothing except the truth of the old proposition that temperance is profitable in all things. If an Oakland youth died from immoderate cycling, thousands of people have gained health by the moderate use of the wheel. Ride a wheel, of course, if you want to be up with the times, for "that's the way the world is moving," but ride it like an intelligent human being, and not like a madman.—A. J. W. in Fresno Republican.

A clergyman of the Oakland presbytery argued the other day before it that on the day of Pentecost 3000 sinners were converted at one time while it now required 196 Christians 365 days to convert seven sinners making an average of 11 2-3 Christians to a sinner. He urged that Oakland needs a revival.—Alameda Telegram.

The Berkeley Gazette says it is a pretty sight to see a dozen girls, more or less, of a Sunday morning, dressed in neat working gowns and other wear aprons, riding into Oakland on the electric cars with their lunch baskets and a few bowlegs, going to work in the canneries of that precinct. While the girls are recent to a certain degree, they quietly say it is a matter of foreput with them, but the Gazette consoles itself with the thought that "they look pretty however."—Alameda Telegram.

There is a lively war on between Mayor Davie and the Board of Public Works and City Engineer Wilson. It is safe to say that the people of Oakland are this nearer than worshipping at the Popular altar.—Livermore Herald.

The Livermore Herald is stirring up the question of county division, generously advocating Niles as a county seat. Oakland at present hogs everything and has no eye to the wants or wishes of the balance of the county. We hope Livermoreans will succeed. If they do it will put fresh heart into the Gilroy scheme to divide Santa Clara county and get this end out of the clutches of the Garden City octopus.—Gilroy Gazette.

It is amusing to hear Brother Oakes talk about indisputable claims. This is the first time we were made aware that Haywards had what might be called a claim on the county seat of the new county that is bound to be formed in the near future. Perhaps Brother Oakes believes that the agitation last fall about moving the county seat from Oakland to Haywards gave him the right to claim it. How about a majority vote? Suppose that the people of Washington and Murray townships should combine on Niles? Eden has about 1515 votes and Washington and Murray 231. This would allow for a large scattering vote.

So you see that if Haywards adopts obstruction tactics there is a way to carry it over her veto.

There is no disputing the fact that Niles is nearer the geographical center.—Livermore Herald.

It is an anomalous state of affairs that neither the municipalities of Oakland or Alameda nor the county authorities claim jurisdiction over the Webster street road to make it a highway such as its importance demands, but that an association of citizens must take up the improvement at private subscription. Where the public must so generally be benefited by this improvement, it is strange that there should be such a long delay and so much quibbling.—Alameda Telegram.

The Commercial Telephone Company of Alameda county, which has an application pending for a franchise in this city, has obtained its first foothold in Oakland, the subject having been reopened and the request granted after having been once refused. The outlook is good for an opposition which promises to reduce rates one-half and put in only long distance 'phones. A rate war will be in order now.—Telegram.

J. R. Wharton, an Englishman who resides in Oakland, at the special request of the Marquis of Queensberry, has hunted up the genealogy of Lady Sholto Douglas, and has declared that she is fit to take her place in the ranks of British aristocracy. That is certainly very uncomplimentary to the young woman. However, this genealogical business is a fraud and a fake, pure and simple. The Lord and his wife both come through the same strains—they are equally descendants of that contemptible sneak thief, Adam, who stole the apple and then turned State's evidence against Eve, and of his jaglets, Noah, who lay drunk and naked in his vineyard after swilling a lot of foot wine.—San Jose Mercury.

Says the Berkeley Gazette on the subject of "Good Roads:" Comparisons may be odious, but let us make one of a neighbor near by. Alameda is referred to. Observe her fine streets, and upon their borders the fine houses and gardens. How pretty and attractive to look at. Another thing to the financial man there is money in such property and it will attract.—Alameda Telegram.

Oakland is called the City of Churches and is supposed to have many charitable people in its midst. It is, therefore, not very strange for an outsider to wonder why it was that a traveling circus could take $14,000, and a first-class entertainment for charity, such as the phantasma exhibition, could not take in enough to pay expenses, and that a larger part of the spectators "beat" its way in at a side door and evaded the payment of admission. Oakland likes to boast of her charity, but it is of a very doubtful quantity expressed in dollars and cents. The recent Fabiola festival, which also occurred in Oakland, was nearly all display, and by the time that was paid for the amount left for charity was very small.—Alameda Telegram.

IT IS A FUN-MAKER.

"U and I" Pleases All the Patrons of the Oakland.

A Number of Good Shows Now on at the Local Play Houses.

The last week's engagement of Jas. F. Post and Stewart's Comic Players commenced last night at the Oakland Theater, when this apparently rejuvenated right up to date. This side-splitting farce comedy, "U & I," company drew crowded houses all last week. Saturday and Sunday nights the house was packed to the doors.

"U & I" is a farce comedy containing a really good plot. It is a neat, clean and very interesting performance. The action is quick, the dialogue witty and the situations funny. The musical numbers and specialties introduced during the action of the comedy are a treat. The programme includes solos, duets and a whistling trio. Following are the specialties: Dusty Rabbett, Nancy Hanks and Maud St. Irish reel, Rabbett and Clubber, song, "U and I," Engerblatz and Innes; grand duets, Van Goldvilt and Mlle. Vermicelli; Robbers Bold, entire company Strange Ideas, Prof. Engerblatz, Delia Clancy O'Donnovan, Innes; Amalgamation Medley, entire company, Ah Sing dancing trio, Rabbett, Engerblatz and Innes; The Society Nightingale, Miss Vila Sayne.

Next week May Nannary with a strong company will commence a season at the Oakland. The opening play will be "Queena," in which the talented young artist made a star hit last season.

THE MACDONOUGH

The John Drew engagement which is the next attraction at the Macdonough will be one of those events in the theatrical history of Oakland that will cause many pleasant reminiscences to surround it in the future. The company headed by John Drew will give a splendid repertoire and several delightful performances will be the result.

THE BALDWIN

John Drew commenced his third week at the Baldwin last night. The bill was "The Masked Ball." It is the best thing for genuine fun that the company has yet presented.

THE COLUMBIA

"A Woman of No Importance," one of Oscar Wilde's clever society dramas, was the attraction at the Columbia last evening. The Mayo "Appointment" was a delicious curtain raiser. The members of the Stock-well company are equal to the play and a very delightful performance is the result.

THE ORPHEUM.

The fall and winter season of vaudeville was inaugurated last night at the Orpheum. The new bill is especially clever and the artists who appear are on a par with anything given for weeks at the attractive resort. Among the new faces are the Mexican comedians, whose feats are simply marvelous. He is by far the best of his line that has appeared on the stage in San Francisco for a long time.

MOROSCO'S

"Across the Potomac" opens Augustus Pitou's stirring drama of the civil war, holds the boards this week at Morosco's. It is a well staged production and the competent stock company fills the caste in excellent style. The play will have a good run this week.

BUSH STREET THEATER.

"Captain Cook," a romantic historical opera was produced for the first time in San Francisco last night at the Bush Street Theater. The music is by Noah Brandt and the libretto by Sands Poinch. The opera has some good music and some good qualities that will make it popular. There was an excellent house.

THE TIVOLI

The Tivoli inaugurated a season of Italian grand opera last night with "Faust." The magnificent staging of the production was a feature. The house was packed to the doors and the revival of Gounod's great work was enthusiastically received.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR

The great exposition at the Mechanics' Pavilion grows upon the public. The thousands who daily find their way there are given much to enjoy and interest them. The Scherl orchestra of fifty pieces is one of the great attractions. There are thousands of exhibits and as a whole the display has never been equalled in the history of industrial expositions in this state.

Yesterday was the fortieth anniversary of the marriage of Captain and Mrs. E. B. Bliss and last evening their friends took possession of their home on Third street. The bride and groom had been visiting in Alameda all day and upon their return found the house lighted and elaborately decorated with ferns and roses. In the dining room a long table was spread and the whole thing had the effect of making Captain and Mrs. Bliss think they had entered the wrong house. Al Foster amused the guests with comic songs and recitations and Professor Louis Swasey charmed all with his unequaled banjo playing. After a delicious supper the young folks danced until midnight. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Al Foster, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lagorea, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gracier, Mr. and Mrs. L. MABEL.

When Mabel laughed, my heart laughed too,
And sorrow, fleet-winged, cleaving through
The sunbeams, took its way
Like night-shade swept before the day—
When Mabel laughed.

When Mabel smiled, it seemed to me
The earth was Eden. From the tree
The linnet's voice surged sweetly o'er
The nodding meadow's scented store—
When Mabel smiled.

When Mabel sighed, the silvered streams
Moved sadder; and the sun's rich beams
Were chilled, as though an icy blast
Had filtered them as down they passed—
When Mabel sighed.

When Mabel died my heart died too,
And sorrows rushed on me anew,
Like autumn leaves that march along
O'er summer's change, a million strong;
The earth grew bleak as endless wold;
The linnet's throat went harsh and cold
Of breaking hearts; all sounds seemed shrill
And out of tune; hope's pulse stood still—
When Mabel died.

But Mabel laughs—on spirit wings
I pierce the haze, and hear the strings
Of singing lutes, and from the train
Of seraphs bursts a gladsome strain—
When Mabel laughs.

TWO DAMAGE SUITS.

Victims of Railroad Accidents Want Recompense.

W. H. Hutton has brought suit to recover $20,000 damages from the Southern Pacific Company for injuries that he alleges were sustained in the collision on the Seventh street local in October, at Oak street station, two years ago. Hutton was a gymnastic instructor. He says he was thrown forty feet when the "flyer" and the regular train came together and the injuries he sustained have prevented him from following his profession ever since.

Margaret D. Taylor wants $10,000 damages from the Oakland, San Leandro and Haywards Electric road. She claims she was greatly injured by being thrown to the ground at Third and Washington streets on April 11th last by the sudden starting of a car, from which she was alighting.

MEN OF MILLIONS.

The Count of Monte Cristo Pales Besides These Nabobs.

LI HUNG CHANG RANKS FIRST.

He Owns Pawnshops and Rice Fields and Is Worth $500,000,000

COL. NORTH'S GREAT LUCK.

The Duke of Westminster's Fortune Mostly in London.

Who are the richest men in the world? It is hopeful wealth one person in a hundred could hope for this question offhand. Sterling would put Li Hung Chang the great viceroy of China Empire. Yet that is where he belongs. After careful search and investigation the New York Sunday World has arrived at the following list which may be accepted as authentic

Li Hung Chang	$ 500,000,000
John D. Rockefeller	150,000,000
Duke of Westminster	100,000,000
Colonel North	100,000,000
Cornelius Vanderbilt	100,000,000
Wah Que	100,000,000
Total	$1,050,000,000

Think of it! Over a billion dollars. Enough to buy a level for every man in the country. Yet it is doubtful if any of the modern Croesuses gets any more pleasure out of life than does the average man who works hard for six days and steps and eats well and rests on the seventh. No nightmares over great hoards of gold and living aware to checkmate the schemes of other millionaires.

A man can owe just so much who has he is a pauper. In fact he later's keptate is ordinarily further ahead of the former's. Then the pleasure of sleeping in a solid gold bed certainly after one's eyes are closed is in no way superior to dozing on a $2 cot.

LI HUNG CHANG'S MILLIONS.

But two of these multi millionaires inherited their fortunes. One is the Duke of Westminster. The other is Cornelius Vanderbilt. Li Hung Chang alone is in danger of losing his but then his head might go too and a person without that necessary ornament wouldn't enjoy even a cracker.

As viceroy of the Chinese Empire he was obliged to accumulate wealth of one sort. With his position did millions in the shape of great pawnshops and rice fields, the most profitable. In the districts where rice lies he is looked upon as a veritable god. Hundreds of slaves and servants wait on him and it is said that he could not count the number of his employees. The emperor, it is said, is afraid of him, knowing that the Chinaman has only to say the word and the whole country will rise in revolt.

It can be said of no man who attends strictly to his own business as much as of Li Hung Chang. He has to pass examination but they do not say whether or not he is to climb the ladder or stay where he is.

Li Hung Chang is a self made man and climbed all by himself. The wealth he has accumulated is the reward of his ability. Rumor says that a large part of his money is invested in English consols and American railway securities.

During the last war with Japan put him in a position. It is doubtful if he will stop when he is if he can. In any event if he has to go away he can land on several continents and still find enough of his money lying around. While the money Li Hung Chang has accumulated has been honestly made, to speak it in his own time and is increasing so rapidly the authorities say at the rate of over $60,000 a day.

THE NITRATE KING.

Colonel North is an Englishman. He is not a man of refinement. When he was fourteen years old he could not read or write. The many of his sons he knocked about the world serving sometimes as a common sailor aboard ships which carried material from the old country to the new. He is a Yorkshire man and arrived in Chili when he was but twenty three years old. Originally a bookkeeper he found employment in the town of Huasco. As his time the nitrate beds of Peru were beginning to be talked about as fields for speculation. He had talent for mechanics and mastered every detail of the business. After he had seen the fortune in the start he raised capital in Chili and founded the fortune which is today rated at a hundred millions.

He secured control of the nitrate beds and arranged for a water supply in that region. He needed ships and railways for transporting the stuff and also arranged for the capital necessary to build them.

Seeing the vast fortune which was to be his he watched himself of his opportunity and when war broke out between Chili and Peru found an opening for accumulating more wealth. He got control of the railways, water and gas works and other corporations which he managed most successfully and made paying properties. After the vast flow of wealth which tumbled into his pockets he returned to England leaving his business in good hands and then proceeded to enjoy himself.

Although he is a rich of figure at the race tracks now, he is too busy a man to simply sit down and look on. He is interested in many new schemes most of which have proved more than profitable. His recent defeat for election to Parliament he takes calmly. He sees to his money lovingly. The Prince of Wales has become his intimate friend. His racing stables are among the best in England. His country house is in Marvel.

THE DUKE OF WESTMINSTER.

The Duke of Westminster who has enormous interests in London property is not only the richest of Great Britain's peers but also one of the best liked men in England. His popularity among all classes has been gained not altogether in politics or in the tangled webs of diplomacy but in the hunting fields. He would as soon race with his tenants as with a lot of princelings. Once he was master of the Glorious Cheshire Hounds and once won the Blue ribbon of the day. No other living man is a better judge of horses.

Grosvenor is his family name and his descent is traced to an illustrious house which flourished in the times of the Norman conquest. He is over seventy years old but is as young apparently as a spring chicken. His father was a Marquis and he himself was created Duke in 1871. His income is variously estimated at from five to seven hundred thousand pounds a year. If even the smaller figure is accepted it means that two millions and a half of dollars are his annual income. He owns the land on which many of the principal markets are situated. His ancestral seats are many and his hospitality is unbounded.

Some years ago he inherited an additional fortune of $300,000 a year from his mother who was nearly ninety years old when she died. The heir to his wealth is a person a boy of eighteen who is now at Cambridge. The best property he owns in London was bought by one of his ancestors in the sixteenth century when it was only an outlying farm of London. It was this estate who made him a duke but since then he and the Grand Old Man have fallen out and are not friends politically.

THE OIL MAGNATE.

Years ago when the oil excitement was the talk of the country fortunes were made and lost. The days of Coaloil Johnny may never return again but in all the history of the world there never was an instance when paupers became millionaires so rapidly as they. John D. Rockefeller made his vast fortune which is estimated at over $100,000,000 out of oil as it is the farmer's wife gets pin money from her chickens. His golden eggs were laid by obliging refiners who had to do as he said or go to smash.

Of course four brothers came from Germany in the middle of the last century and settled in New Jersey. They formed quite a settlement in Plainfield but towards the close of the last century they began to scatter. One branch went to New England another came to this State while a third went to Pennsylvania. John D. Rockefeller and Brothers come from the New England branch. The New York Rockefellers are poor. There are lots of Rockefellers in New Jersey but they have not yet acquired wealth. One great grandson of one of the four brothers is still living in Plainfield. He is almost a hundred years old. Godfried Rockefeller who traveled his wagon with his family to Shamokin Pa. died in 1818 in honor of the black oil treasure under his farm.

After knocking about John D. Rockefeller whose father was a physician and a commission business. He was then twenty two years old. Oil was the principal article in which he dealt. He started a refinery in Cleveland Ohio and organized a company which is now the Standard Oil Company. From this humble beginning he has achieved immense power in wealth. He is a strict Baptist and has given two millions to the Chicago University. With his family he lives at Cleveland his city a most unassuming man.

In spite of Rockefeller's enormous wealth his charities are large and his wife and two charming daughters is well given away many thousands of dollars each year to persons who they think deserving of more than alms. An instance occurred some weeks ago where the four children of a former schoolmate of Mrs. Rockefeller were sent to one of the best boarding schools in Ohio. Many stinging remarks and not all of them Baptist digs have been not only put on but other have been not only put on but kept standing on Rockefeller money.

The Rockefeller family is very musical and have a home quartette consisting of father mother and daughters all four stringed instruments and the works of Brahms, Chopin and Saint Saens are interpreted by them in a manner that would be creditable to many symphony clubs.

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller has a private phaeton and when in town may be seen spinning almost any day or visiting the poor or her friends. The family care little for society and live almost plainly in a large but comfortable house.

THE RICHEST VANDERBILT.

Cornelius Vanderbilt is probably the richest of the sons of William H. and has actually more money than he knows what to do with. His magnificent house facing Central Park is eagerly sought by almost every visitor to this city. His daughter Gertrude is the Miss Rockefeller the greatest heiress in the country. In spite of the newspaper stories about her wonderful beauty she is really a little lookking girl but she has been educated abroad and has an intelligent face. This perhaps comes from her common sense as much as anything else. The Vanderbilt money is inherited and the system behind the name is supposed to be worth more than three hundred millions, of which this favored son owns a third. He is somewhat of a society man on his Vanderbilt does not care for social life to the pleasure gives his family. He finds most of his time in the effort of business. He wants to be left severely alone. He enjoys particularly a month's walk in the Swiss Alps or a vacation in the wilderness of the Norwegian forests.

While he has a seat to all the social successes at Newport Tuxville and Long Branch he does more for the social position of his children than himself. The wealth of Cornelius Vanderbilt is estimated by those who know him intimately as eighty millions. While he appreciates the responsibility of the control of this vast sum of money he knows too that his position gives him with it possibilities of great good in his quiet charities and real kindnesses of which are unknown to thousands.

The Breakers the gorgeous cottage he built at Newport is as handsome a country place as can be found anywhere. It is a veritable palace. Mr. Vanderbilt and his family generally spend a few months of the year abroad.

WOH QUA'S TEA CROPS.

Wah Qua the great Canton tea merchant has a fortune estimated at a hundred millions. For years the trade in tea has been centered in him. From the smallest settlement in Yunnan to the largest capital of Europe tea is everywhere a daily beverage. Whether it comes by camel across Asia or by boat around the Horn and the Cape of Good Hope it is as much a necessity as bread. Years ago Wah Qua who had worked himself up in the firm with which he was connected looked ahead fifty years and saw the vast possibilities of the business. Every canton and district were mapped out in his mind as accurately as ever was the field whereon hostile armies were to meet.

He knew not only the late of the crops but how they could be transported to the different markets. He was an invaluable man. From the junior partner he assumed control. He was shrewd and soon found himself in possession and control of the business which for years was unrivalled anywhere.

Every agent paid him a commission. Every pound of tea grown in the Celestial Empire had sooner or later to come to him or to his agents. It was a wonderful scheme. Incidentally he started a banking business in connection with his different agencies.

English merchants offered him a gorgeous time if he would come to the Continent. But he steadfastly refused all these offers. The next Paris Exposition may cause him to change his mind at least so he wrote George Francis Train the other day. In any event he is one of the richest men in the world and does not care who knows it.

The Sage of Madison Square is well acquainted with Wah Qua and describes him as a most polished gentleman who speaks several languages and who through intercourse with the brainiest of the world's traders has acquired a vast fund of knowledge. He lives in a magnificent villa on the edge of Canton and entertains persons of all nationalities. If an Englishman is his guest he will be made to feel at home by getting as fine a roast of beef as the English club ever furnished. A cellar of European wines is part of his commissariat department.

A good share of his money like part of the fortune of Li Hung Chang is invested abroad. His vessels are numbered by the thousand and as a matter of fact he commands more ships than the admiral of any principality. His children have had their education finished in Europe and are more than half civilized—or rather modernized.

There are of course other great individual fortunes such as those of Baron Hirsch the Astors, and the Rothschilds. The two latter, however are jointly owned by half a dozen members of the family and while the sum itself is great, it would not make each member as rich as either of the six men mentioned above if it were to be apportioned among them. Anybody can be wealthy who chooses to save his money, but the kind assistance of fickle fortune is a great aid. With the exception of the Duke of Westminster and possibly Li Hung Chang, the other nabobs are comparatively young men.

How much will they be worth when they die?

COTTOLENE

FRY it in Cottolene

Fry your food in Cottolene instead of lard and it will be free from that greasiness and "richness" so distressing to dyspeptics, the flavor will be delicious instead of rancid, and your food will do you good. Put it in a cold pan, heating it with the pan. Cottolene reaches the cooking point much quicker than lard—care should therefore be taken not to overheat it. Follow these instructions—you will never use lard again.

Genuine Cottolene has trade marks—"Cottolene" and "Fry it in cotton plant wreath"—on every tin. Made only by

THE GATES WILL STAY.

No Truth in the Rumor That They Will Soon Be Removed.

Pintsch Gas Will Soon Be in Use on All the Local Trains.

WEST OAKLAND, Sept. 3.—The rumors circulated of late about this section to the effect that the gates will shortly be taken off the Seventh street locals are without foundation. The statements that the locations of the stations would be changed are also untrue. The story is supposed to have originated from an employe of the company who meant it more as a joke than anything else.

A railroad official said this morning that he did not believe there would be any changes whatever. He stated that the gates are giving entire satisfaction.

Meantime the opponents of the gates are raising subscriptions to test the matter in the courts. They declare their intention of arresting the gatemen if they refuse to let them up. Just when the time for action arrives. The test will be made on the Bassett ordinance, which was passed by the City Council about three months ago. The reason why it has not been enforced is that its advocates are short of funds.

MORE GAS.

The Pintsch gas, which is being used to light the cars of the Seventh street local is now to be placed in the cars of the Alameda and Berkeley locals. Tanks containing 110 cubic feet of gas are being put under the cars and by the 1st of October the company expects to have the new system in operation on all its local service. The gas light is a great improvement over the coal oil light and gives general satisfaction.

THE FORCE REDUCED.

The squad of detectives at the railroad yards now numbers but seven men. The company formerly had nine stationed at the yards but as crime has been very scarce there of late the force was reduced. The officers now on duty are Chief Wm E Wallace, Thomas Collins, C. L. French, William Patterson, 'Scotty' Smith, Patrick Mackey and A. H. Graves. Five are on night duty and during the day there are two on watch.

TRAMPS BY THE CAR LOAD.

Nearly every freight train that arrives at the yards has a full car load of tramps on board. Scarcely a night passes that Chief Detective Wallace does not have to send a dozen or so out of the yards. They come here from all over the country and the railroad detectives are kept busy.

BUTCHER SCHULTZ ILL.

Frederick Schultz, the Center street butcher, met with a peculiar accident a few days ago which has kept him in bed ever since. Mr. Schultz was carrying a heavy beef into his store from the hooks outside when a vein in one of his legs broke. It was followed by a rush of blood and in a very short time Schultz was weak. A doctor was summoned and Schultz was ordered to bed.

HAD A GOOD TIME.

Sunset Rebekah Lodge, No. 209, gave a dime social at Bartlett hall Friday evening which was largely attended by members of the order and their friends. An interesting programme was carried out.

CAREFUL AND PROMPT.

The People's Express Company Is Always on Time.

No traveler nowadays leaves home expecting to enjoy himself, and at the same time look after his luggage whenever he is compelled to change cars or when he reaches his destination. The work of looking after luggage is now done by specialists in their line. Among these the People's Express and Transfer Company is in the lead. It calls for your trunks at your home or your hotel and checks them for you to any part of the United States. When you reach your destination your baggage is there also. This company also tends to the shipping and trans-shipping of goods to San Francisco with equal dispatch. The office is 418 Ninth street. The telephone is 326.

LEGAL.

ADJUDICATION OF INSOLVENCY.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Alameda, State of California.

In the matter of Joseph A. Miller, insolvent debtor.

Joseph A. Miller having filed in this court his petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that he is an insolvent debtor, the said Joseph A. Miller is hereby declared to be insolvent.

The sheriff of Alameda county is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said insolvent debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account, and papers, and to keep the same safely, until the appointment of an assignee herein.

All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said insolvent debtor, or to deliver any property belonging to the said insolvent debtor to him, or to any person, firm or corporation or association for his use.

The said debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property, until the further order of this court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered that all the creditors of said debtor whose claims shall have been place on file in the office of the clerk of this court at least two days prior to the 4th day of September, 1895, be and appear before the Hon. F. B. Ogden, judge of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, in open court, at the court room of said court, Department No. 2, in the County of Alameda, on the said 4th day of September, 1895, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, to prove their debts and choose an assignee of the estate of said debtor.

It is further ordered that this order be published in the Oakland Tribune, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the County of Alameda, as often as the said newspaper is printed before the said day set for the meeting of creditors.

And it is further ordered that, in the meantime, all proceedings against the said insolvent debtor be stayed.

Dated August 26th, 1895.

F. B. OGDEN,
Judge of Superior Court.

E. M. Gibson, Welles Whitmore and Ben F. Wooller, attorneys for petitioner.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Alameda, State of California.
Department No. 3.
No. 11,310.
CARRIE M. ANDROSS, plaintiff,
vs.
WINFIELD S. ANDROSS,
defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and the complaint filed in said County of Alameda, in the office of said clerk of said Superior Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Winfield S. Andross, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after service on you of this summons, if served within this county, otherwise within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment and a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant on the grounds of wilful desertion of plaintiff by defendant and for the wilful neglect of defendant to provide the common necessities of life for plaintiff and for general relief, special references being made to the complaint on file herein for further particulars.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, this 27th day of August, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

FRANK C. JORDAN, Clerk,
By F. D. Adams, Deputy Clerk.
L. H. Van Schaick, attorney for plaintiff, 606 Montgomery st., San Francisco.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT IN AND for the County of Alameda, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Johanna Crosbie, deceased.

Department 4. No. 382.

Order to show cause why order of sale of real estate should not be made.

William Crosbie, the administrator of the estate of said Johanna Crosbie, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth,

It is Therefore Ordered by the said court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on Monday the 2d day of September, 1895, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day at the courtroom of Department No. 4, probate, of said Superior Court at the Court House in the City of Oakland, County of Alameda, State of California, to show cause why an order of sale should not be granted to the said administrator to sell so much of the real estate of said deceased as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four successive weeks in the Oakland Tribune, a daily newspaper printed and published in said county.

Dated, this 6th day of August, A. D., 1895.

A. L. FRICK, Judge.

Charles F. Hanlon, attorney for administrator, Chronicle Building, rooms 94, 95 and 96, San Francisco, California.

AFTER ALL ACCOUNTS.

The Supervisors Have Adopted a New Requisition System.

COUNTY MATTERS DECIDED.

The Oakland Homeopathic Clinic Asks for Support.

HIGHWAYS IN BAD CONDITION.

Complaint From Travelers in the Tidal Canal District.

At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors this morning Supervisor Church introduced the following:

Resolved, That the county officers are hereby requested, when ordering any article or articles for their office, not mentioned in any of the contracts of the county on the schedules, to first hand in to the Board of Supervisors a requisition for their wants, without which, and the same having been duly granted, the Board will positively refuse to audit any bills contracted by any county officer."

Supervisor Church said that the reason that he had introduced the resolution was because county officers had been ordering supplies and then expecting the same to be paid for afterward. He said that hereafter the Board would pay for no more articles ordered in that manner. He said further that he desired to have a copy of the resolution sent to every county officer. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Applications for police were disposed of as follows: W. J. Wakeman, at 1020 Jefferson street, 66 years, New York, married; Mrs. J. H. Robertson and Mrs. M. M. Clark, residing at the same place, referred to Supervisor Johnston.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

Dr. Clark of the County Infirmary reported that there had been 223 patients at the infirmary during August, that $34.45 had been received and $81.70 paid out, leaving $7.25 due to the superintendent. Filed.

License Collector Ballard reported that he had collected licenses during August amounting to $1,177. Filed.

The reports of the Supervisors of relief afforded during the month of August were as follows: Supervisor Johnston, indigents aided, 166, amount expended $152.50; Supervisor Pelouze, 127 indigents, $.71; Supervisor Church, 263 indigents, $121.50; Supervisor Talcott, 59 indigents, $102.65. The reports were filed.

LIQUOR PERMITS.

THE CLINIC APPEALS

A petition was received from the Oakland Homeopathic Free Clinic asking that the Board restore to the clinic the monthly allowance of $25 which was withdrawn some time ago. It set forth that one-third of the 60,000 people of Oakland have been benefited by the services of the Homeopathic Free Clinic, and that prior to last July the institution had been in receipt from the county of $25 a month, which allowance had been a means of aiding the clinic in an acceptable manner; that since the Homeopathic Clinic had been deprived of that allowance two allopathic clinics had had the same allowance restored to them. The petition closed with a fervent appeal that the Homeopathic Clinic be allowed the same amount monthly as is allowed the other clinics, showing at the same time that within a given period the clinic had treated 360 persons and issued 7,200 prescriptions and performed a number of good works along special lines.

Supervisor Johnston said that the Homeopathic Free Clinic is the first clinic started in Oakland and had done a great deal of good, and should be restored the monthly allowance of $25.

Supervisor Church moved that the matter go over for one week. Supervisor Pelouze seconded the motion and the same prevailed.

Applications for permission to sell liquor were made as follows: A. W. Larsen, Alvarado; J. Nunez, Newark; C. Christiansen, Irvington; Andrew Hansen, San Leandro; Thomas Walsh, First avenue and Telegraph avenue, Temescal. The applications were referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The report of the County Surveyor showed that the petition of J. T. T. Chattel for permission to sell liquors on Moss avenue had the number of signatures demanded by the law. The matter went over till this afternoon.

ASKED FOR A HYDRANT.

A number of residents near the intersection of San Pablo and Park avenues asked that a fire hydrant be located at that place.

Supervisor Pelouze said the county has no right to order a hydrant to be laid, but that if the Oakland Water Company feels disposed to place one there the county will pay the cost of setting it and for such water as would be used for sprinkling purposes.

The clerk was notified to inform the petitioners of the facts of the case for their guidance.

A BAD ROAD.

A petition from Thomas R. Bassett and others residing on Fruitvale avenue between the railroad station and the tidal canal directed attention to the condition of that thoroughfare. It set forth that Sausal creek is cutting away the road and in some places occupies nearly one-half of the thoroughfare. It was asked that steps be taken to preserve the roadway before damage to life and property can result.

On motion of Supervisor Talcott the matter of fixing a date to examine into the case was left to the committee of the whole.

George A. Douglass and a number of other residents asked that Bray avenue in Fruitvale be declared a county road.

On motion of Supervisor Talcott the request was referred to the County Surveyor to report as to the condition of the avenue.

The Board was notified by the State Board of Equalization that it will be necessary to meet on the third and fourth Mondays in September to consider tax matters and make the apportionment of the railway assessment.

J. P. Garlick, superintendent of instruction, notified the Board that $212,-268 50 would be required for schools and he said that the Board should allow that sum in order that the indebtedness of the various districts might be met. The communication was filed and Supervisor Bailey said the Board would like to consult with the superintendent to see whether or not a smaller amount would not suffice.

The trustees of the Piedmont school district notified the Board that the county had built a culvert on Glen Echo avenue on school property. They requested that the culvert be removed or else extended to the adjoining creek and covered up. The matter was referred to Supervisor Johnston.

WATER SPRINKLERS.

A petition from taxpayers in Murray township asked that a road from Livermore to Pleasanton and from Livermore to Livermore Pass be sprinkled. The request was referred to the committee of the whole.

A petition from J. R. Baker and others asked for an abandonment of the street all Redwood road in Brooklyn township running through the lands of Annie Rogers and Antone Joseph and the opening of another road on the other side of the adjoining creek through the land of the same parties. The bond was signed by Mr. Tom Sudon and Manuel Dias. The bond was approved and the matter went over till this afternoon.

An amended and more definite petition for the proposed road near Sunol was filed. It showed that the proposed road started near Sunol depot ran thence northeasterly for a distance of one mile connecting with a roadway bounding the Butler property on two sides. The request was laid over till this afternoon when viewers will be appointed.

W. T. Boutwell asked for a free license to peddle owing to physical disability, occasioned by service in the war of the rebellion. The request was referred to Supervisor Johnston.

The Council Tonight.

In view of the question as to yesterday being a legal holiday the Council met last evening and after appointing Messrs. Donahan, Bassett, Mott and Marshall a committee to canvass the bond election returns adjourned until this evening. Among the matters to come up are the hearing of protests against the sewering of East Twenty-first street between Fourth and Fifth avenues and East Twenty-first street from Fifth avenue to a point 150 feet southerly.

MUCH PROPERTY IS LOST.

A Corporation Yard Is Badly Needed for the Street Service.

Superintendent Miller on the Many Advantages That Would Result.

Street Superintendent Miller wants a corporation yard. He has communicated with the Board of Public Works and his letter is now before a committee of that body.

At the present time the city's tools are stored all over the town. Most of them in the loft of the stable used for the patrol wagon team. The tools and material have no custodian. There is no one to keep track of them when they are in use and naturally many of them are lost.

In speaking of the need of a corporation yard Mr. Miller today said: "The city ought to be run on business principles, but without a place to keep our things it is impossible for this department to do so. We have no place to keep anything perishable; hence we cannot buy advantageously anything that will not keep. As an example, a short time ago cement was selling for $3.50 a barrel, but as it would not keep if it were left out in the sun and rain we could buy only enough for our immediate use. It is now worth $5 a barrel.

"It is not alone on that one article that we lose, but on many others. Take our sand. We leave it out of doors and a rain comes. A great deal of it washes away or mixes with the dirt and is unfit for use. A corporation yard would cost the city very little. We could lease a good lot, 100x100, for from $10 to $15 a month and the buildings would not cost more than $300. A yard keeper would have a salary of $60. We could save his salary on the time we lose hunting for tools. The yard keeper would require a receipt for every shovel or pick taken out of his custody, and when the street gang were through using them they would be returned. The yard would greatly facilitate the work of this department and I think if the Board and Council would investigate they would soon see its necessity."

LIFE IN ALAMEDA.

What a Contemporary Thinks of Encinal Journalism.

The "Jaytown Howler" is published in Alameda, says the Marin Press. The following are a few items clipped from number 61½.

Mrs. Oogleoogle's baby has another tooth.

Pat Mulligan had his shirt washed last week.

Parson Smith tore his pants on a nail last week.

Jimmie Jenkins had the stomachache Wednesday night.

Mrs. Simon Pickleback took a buggy ride last Sunday.

Miss Abigail Bigfoote's new shoes arrived on a special yesterday.

Miss Birdie Olds celebrated her forty-seventh birthday last Wednesday evening. A very pleasant time was had and all present wished the charming young lady many happy returns of the day.

Landlord My eye sel of the Jaytown hotel reports all his rooms engaged for the fair. So great is the demand for accommodations that ever one of the seven rooms is spoken for, and Mr. My eye sel himself will be compelled to sleep on the roof.

Trustee Squashapple has ordered a pair of suspenders from the city, and he expects them by mail early next week. This makes the seventh pair of suspenders in use in Jaytown and shows that our town is rapidly forging ahead in culture and refinement.

INGALLS IS FOR SILVER.

He Is an Avowed Candidate for His Old Seat in the Senate.

An Address In Which He Advocates Direct Votes of the People.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 3.—At the Labor Day celebration in this city ex-Senator John J. Ingalls spoke from the same platform with J. R. Burton, who is now looked upon as Ingalls' principal opponent in the race for the United States senatorship.

Their appearance was regarded as the opening of the senatorial campaign.

The senator says openly that he is a candidate for his old seat in the Senate. He is taking a friendly stand in favor of silver in all his speeches.

After speaking in a general way on labor topics Senator Ingalls turned his attention to the last Congress. He said:

"If there were a Congress, inadequate, incompetent, insincere and hostile to the best interests of this country, it was not the fault of the Congress so much as it was the constituents who sent them there."

Turning to the charges that seats were bought in the United States Senate, he laid the blame at the same door, of those who elected the senators. He said:

"There is one remedy. Abolish the present antiquated, clumsy, superfluous and detrimental method of choosing senators by legislatures and let them be elected by a direct vote of the people of the State as they ought to be elected."

This statement was loudly cheered.

Ingalls went a step further, and said that the only way to purify this government was to trust the people, and he even favored the election of president and vice-president by a direct vote.

He roundly scored the Standard Oil Company and various trusts.

He thought labor had a right to combine and spoke strongly against indiscriminate immigration.

He closed by urging the workingman to remember that the redress of his wrong is in his own hands.

PAID BY THE DAY'S RUN

Railway Mail Clerks Endeavor to Arrange a New Schedule.

The Postal Conventions Are Now in Full Swing at Chicago.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The Executive Committee of the United States Railway Mail Clerks' Association was in session here last night.

The principal discussion was upon the demand which the mail clerks who have runs on the smaller lines and who are paid by the mile have made.

There are 2500 of these clerks. The government has agreed to pay them on the basis of 1,0 miles for a day's run, but the clerks have insisted that 110 miles should be enough for that purpose.

The committee took action favorable to the demand of the clerks.

There was much discussion upon the question of a general re-classification of all the clerks.

Upon this subject a harmonious conclusion was reached, but what the conclusion was the clerks refused to make public.

W. T. Blackmere is president of the association. The other officers who attended the meetings were: J. C. Walker, Burlington, Iowa, secretary and treasurer; G. A. Gardiner, Harrisburg, Pa.; T. S. Bradshaw, Washington, D. C.; Mr. Yeadle, Atlanta, Ga.; W. W. Garner, Chicago, A. H. Fuller, Omaha; S. Z. Ettinger, St. Louis; C. C. Riches, Portland, Oregon; Mr. Binderman, Buffalo, N. Y.; George F. Fox, St. Paul, and George Francis, San Antonio, Texas, directors.

The twenty-first annual convention of the Railway Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association convened this morning at the Palmer House. The convention will be in session three days. About 170 delegates are expected to attend the sessions.

SCARLET SINS.

Chief Lloyd Is Out on a Crusade for Purity.

Chief of Police Lloyd has determined to put a stop to the traffic carried on by scarlet women or at least confine it from public view. It has been the practice of these women for sometime past to loiter in the windows of certain Washington street houses, and during the past few nights several arrests have been made by officers detailed for that purpose.

Chief Lloyd today said that complaints had been made to him in reference to the brazen practices of the women and it is his intention to have it discontinued, although he did not think the evil could be entirely eradicated.

A Grass Fire.

The grass near Fourth avenue and East Twentieth street was set afire last night about 12 o'clock. An alarm was sent and the East Oakland chemical engine went to extinguish the flames. The engine was practically useless and the firemen fought the fire with wet sacks for nearly two hours before it was entirely out.

STEERS OUT ON A SPREE.

They Take in the Town and Invade the Police Station.

Twenty-five Sportive Montanans Surprise the Natives of Chicago.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Twenty-five Montana steers purchased at the stock yards while being driven to the Cudhay Packing House last evening got away from the drivers and for two hours created consternation in the residence district.

The steers dashed from Center avenue and started east on Forty-seventh street.

At Halstead street they turned south and at Matteson street a dozen of them charged an electric car.

The passengers saw them coming and as many as possible jumped off and took to the houses close by.

They then attacked the police station.

There was a hurried exodus of officers and then the steers went south.

Lieutenants Kelleher and Fitzpatrick with several officers mounted the patrol wagon and taking two rifles, started in pursuit.

At Union avenue and Forty-seventh street a big yellow steer was tearing up the soil in view of hundreds, who enjoyed the scene from neighboring sheds and windows.

Lieutenant Kelleher fired, the bullet taking effect in the animal's head.

It made him cough, but beyond that the steer seemed to enjoy it.

Two more shots were fired into his body and at last he jumped into the air.

Then the officers, with a number of men started after the other members of the herd, and they were soon rounded up.

AN OLD MAN TORTURED.

Oakland, New Jersey, on Hand With a Ghastly Story.

He Was Plied With Whisky and Then Held In the Flames.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 3.—George Marshall, 67 years of age, a woodchopper whose shanty is in the Ramapo mountains, back of Oakland, is at the Hackensack Hospital suffering from a horrible burn.

From the knee to the ankle of the right leg the flesh was burned almost to the bone and for ten days the wound had remained untreated.

The old man lived in the hut on the mountain top with his son.

On Friday, a week ago, he says, two men came to his shanty in the morning. They had a couple of chickens with them and asked him to cook them.

He knew they were stolen and refused to do as they wanted. They also had with them a gallon of whiskey.

When the old man would not comply with their wishes they began to torture him, and he was made to drink some of the whiskey.

Finally late in the afternoon, after torturing the old man for several hours, the men built a fire in front of the shanty and began to carry out the old man's few belongings. These they piled on the flames.

They then pulled off a portion of the front of the cabin and added this to the fire.

The old man was too full of the whiskey with which he had been plied to make much resistance.

Finally, the old man says, they picked him up and held his right leg in the flames made by his household goods, and despite his pain and struggles held him there until his leg was roasted.

They left him, he says, unconscious beside the fire.

He was rescued by his son who started to Oakland and asked a doctor to accompany him to the aid of his father.

He says that the doctor refused to make the trip.

Failing in obtaining a doctor the son bought a bottle of liniment and walked back to the mountain.

He dressed the leg as best he could until one of the sons-in-law of the old man visited the place.

He insisted that Marshall should be taken to where he might have medical treament, and yesterday morning an ox-team and a lumber wagon were obtained and the man was carted down the mountainside in that rude vehicle to the railroad at Oakland.

From that place he was taken by train to Hackensack.

The old man says the men who tortured him were Peter Winters and Jacob Coe, two young men who live near Oakland, and officers are looking for them.

It is doubtful whether the old man will survive.

G. W. Arper Protests.

Editor Tribune: Sir:—In last Monday's issue of your paper you have what purports to be an interview with me on the "water question," and as I have not been reading the articles published on that question of late, having had a surfeit thereof, I did not notice the article until my attention was called to it. I wish to say that the article in question does not express my views, and the party who is guilty of using my name in that way did so knowing that he was putting my name to a statement I never made. I am of opinion that your reporter would not hesitate to pump water into the bay, or out of the bay, if he could make his salary by so doing; and perhaps he would do more than that. I have an opinion on the water question, and also a very strong opinion as to the desirability of the course pursued by your paper, and should you wish to know more of them I would be pleased to give them in writing. Very truly,

GEO. W. ARPER.

SAYS HE IS SILVA'S SON.

An Unexpected Applicant for a Down-Country Estate.

Unpleasant Charges Freely Bandied Regarding the Claim.

Manuel F. Silva died in 1893 in San Francisco and left an estate valued at $7000. Over the property a battle has been waging. Mrs. Lizzie F. Rose, who was divorced from Silva in 1884 has a 13-year-old son Manuel S. Silva, who, she claims, is the sole heir to the estate. She was appointed guardian of the boy and has been making a fight to have the property turned over to him as the only heir.

There is a stumbling block in the way, however, in the person of Antonio Silva, 21 years of age, who claims to be a son as well. He is after a share of the estate, which is nearly all in the town of Pleasanton. There are 275 shares of stock in the Order of Druids Building Association which Antonio is especially after. His claim, however is being bitterly fought and charges are passing freely from the other side.

Today a petition and an answer was filed in the Superior Court by Mrs. Rose as guardian of Manuel, requesting the distribution of the estate to the boy. Accompanying it was a denial of some of the allegations made by Antonio.

Mrs. Rose says she secured a divorce in 1884 from Silva and remarried. She says Silva left a will and was unmarried at the time of his death. He omitted the name of Manuel, his son, from the will, and Mrs. Rose sets up the claim that her son is entitled to the whole of the estate.

She denies that Antonio Silva is an heir or son of the deceased or that the deceased was his father.

She says he never publicly acknowledged or supported or received Antonio as his own child or made any acknowledgement whatever on record the paternity of Antonio. She denies that the deceased ever contributed to his support or treated him as if he were a legitimate child. Mrs. Rose also denies that her former husband ever adopted Antonio.

THE POLICE POW-WOW.

Burglar Kearns Denied the Privilege of Pleading Guilty.

The Police Court dock was comfortably filled this morning when Judge Wood stepped on the bench and Sam Mitchell knocked a few square inches of varnish off his table for the purpose of securing order.

Seven deluded individuals had mistaken last night for the lunar eclipse and had taken too many looks at the moon through the bottom of a glass. Some forfeited bail, and the others explained how it happened, but all excuses but one fell short and they were given regulation doses of Oakland justice.

H. J. Herrick rode his bicycle on the sidewalk after 6 o'clock and paid $2 for the fun.

C. E. Moore, arrested yesterday for embezzling money belonging to Theodore Fish, the sanitary garbage man, had his case dismissed this morning upon the payment of costs.

Four tramps were taken in by the police for begging. They all acknowledged that they were guilty and the court set tomorrow for passing sentence.

Mary Hastings and Edith Johnson, arrested for vagrancy, had their cases continued to plead and Lou Olsen, charged with the same offense, forfeited $40 bail.

Fred Jones charged with carrying concealed weapons and Carlos Whistler charged with petty larceny, were allowed to go as the prosecuting witnesses in both cases had changed their minds.

W. Enright, who broke the windows in Calberg's restaurant in East Oakland, pleaded guilty to malicious mischief and will be sentenced tomorrow.

Chung Lee, a seller of lottery tickets, had his trial set for September 13th.

John Kearns, charged with burglarizing the house of Father Fernandes, wanted to plead guilty. He acknowledged that he took some things, but said he could only get 50 cents for the entire lot. The court had no authority to receive a plea of guilty in felony cases and as the complaining witness failed to appear for examination the prisoner was set for tomorrow at 1 P. M.

A Married Man's Troubles.

A. L. Rodgers is languishing in a city prison cell awaiting sentence for disturbing the peace of his wife and others. Last evening he returned to his home at 869 Clay street and found his wife, a young lodger of the house named Chris Mill, and several other persons in the kitchen enjoying themselves. Rodgers had been imbibing freely and after some words with Miller in which he accused the latter of being too friendly with Mrs. Rodgers attempted to do damage with an upholstered chair. Officer Hinds was called in and now Miller ruminates on the troubles of married men.

VOL. XXXX. OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 3, 1895. NO. 56.

ON TRIAL AT LAST.

BARNES' OPENING STATEMENT.

He Says He Can Prove That Durrant Killed Blanche Lamont.

EVIDENCE TO BE ADVANCED.

The Jury Taken to View the Scene of the Great Tragedy.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The long looked for trial of William Henry Theodore Durrant for the murder of Blanche Lamont opened this morning.

The court room was crowded at an early hour.

Durrant was specially attired for the occasion in a new suit of clothes.

His father and mother sat beside him.

For the remainder of the trial Judge Murphy has secured the more commodious court room of the presiding judge to accommodate the crowds.

All the witnesses in the case were excluded when District Attorney Barnes made his opening statements as follows:

"At this point in the trial and before proceeding with the evidence it becomes my duty as a representative of the people to make what is called the opening statement of the case.

"The opening statement should not be regarded by you in the light of testimony, neither should it be regarded as an argument upon the facts.

"It should not have any weight with you nor should you consider it as mitigating against the prisoner."

"It is merely a statement of what the people expect to prove—a statement of the evidence which they intend to present for your consideration, and upon which they will confidently rely for a verdict at your hands, which shall sweep away the sophistries and the technicalities that have enveloped criminal proceedings in this State as with a garment, and shall declare that the land we live in is blessed not only with manifold gifts of nature and of God to man, but is further blessed with the hard, clear common sense that can rise above the tortuous environments that surround the criminal, and punish the crime committed in the manner required and demanded by all laws, both human and divine.

"We will show you that in the month of September, 1894, Blanche Lamont, a young girl about 20 years of age, came to San Francisco from her home at Dillon, Mont., in the hope that the mild climate of California might benefit her health.

"She went to reside with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Noble, and from the time of her arrival here until April 3d she was engaged in attending school.

"She was not a society girl in any sense of the word.

"She was of a quiet disposition, home keeping and religious.

"She never attended parties nor theaters or other places of amusement except in company with her relatives.

"We will show that Blanche Lamont in her lifetime was well, too well, and yet not well enough acquainted with the prisoner, Durrant; that he was in the habit of accompanying her home from church and prayer meeting; that he was a caller upon her at her aunt's house; that upon the only occasion upon which she ever went anywhere with any young man as far as we are informed she visited the park one afternoon in company with Durrant.

"We will give you a history of her life and her movements as far as we are able, up to the 3d of April, 1895, in order that you may for a just appreciation of the character and the habits of this unfortunate young girl.

"We will show you her connection with the defendant and we will show you the reason why, when the murdered body of Blanche Lamont was found in the darkened belfry of Emmanuel church and the question sprang from the lips of every resident of this city and of this country, 'Who is the murderer?' Why it is that the State answers that he who was responsible for the slaughter of this young life is William Henry Theodore Durrant; Durrant, once the friend of Blanche Lamont; Durrant, once in charge of the Sunday school library; Durrant, once assistant superintendent of the Emmanuel Sunday school; Durrant, once the electrician who knew the ins and outs of the great building; Durrant, once the handy man and jack-of-all-trades at the church, and now Durrant, the prisoner and on trial for his life.

"We shall show Durrant's connection with the crime and shall demonstrate by irrefutable and unanswerable evidence that he and he alone committed this murder.

"If we show you these facts; if we show you that Durrant met this ill-fated girl on the day of her death; that he accompanied her to the church; that he was seen to enter the church with her; that he was seen afterwards in the church alone; that Blanche Lamont was never seen again by human eyes from the moment when she entered the portals of Emmanuel Baptist church with the defendant; that in the church was found her dead body, her clothes, her school books—showing that she had never been home, and that she had gone straight from school to death; if we show you, as we confidently expect, that no one but the prisoner could have committed this outrageous and horrible crime, we shall look to you as citizens of the great State whose reputation for justice and for enforcement of the laws, we, as its officers, are trying to uphold, to render your verdict that the prisoner at the bar is guilty of murder in the first degree."

At the conclusion of Barnes' address counsel for both State and defense consulted with the judge, who finally ordered that the jury and Durrant should be taken to Emmanuel church to view the scene of the murder in charge of a policeman.

EARLY BIRDS ABOUT.

Candidates for the Political Prizes Already in the Field.

SUPERIOR JUDGE CONTESTS.

Greene, Frick and Hall Have Thrown Down Their Gauntlets.

THE SUPERVISORIAL OUTLOOK.

County Officials Figure on Their Terms of Tenure.

Although the next election is about eighteen months distant there is already a good deal of talk on the subject among those who take an interest in such matters. Alameda County will elect two Superior judges, three Supervisors, six Assemblymen, a Senator and will have a good deal to say in reference to a Congressman. At present interest is centered to a large extent in the fight for Superior judgeships, and the candidates are already in the field actively engaged in making friends.

Judges Greene and Frick will endeavor to succeed themselves. The former is looked upon as having a particularly hard battle before him. The Southern Pacific railroad influence has generally been against him and the railroad wing has only lent its support in previous conventions because his individual strength made it desirable to give him the nomination in order to carry a more important point. The judge has a host of personal enemies who do not like his Spartan display of judicial impartiality from the bench. None of these are more bitter than W. S. Goodfellow, the Seventh Ward attorney, who earns a President's salary practising law in San Francisco. Goodfellow is willing, so his friends say, to spend a good many dollars in attempting to accomplish the defeat of Judge Greene. But there are few more subtle politicians than the tall, dignified jurist, and he has a great knack of winning over his opponents at the last moment. This he may be able to accomplish again.

None are doing more handshaking than Judge A. L. Frick and none are more conversant with the intricacies of practical politics than he. There was a time when the judge prided himself on being a stalwart, but those days are no more. With the dropping out of Tom Carothers and his followers the judge lost no time in identifying himself with the so-called Pardee element and effects the support of the ex-Mayor and his friends in the Seventh Ward.

These two gentlemen who administer law will have plenty of opposition. In the first place there is Sam P. Hall, ex-district attorney, who wants the judgeship. Mr. Hall called upon the two judges a few days ago and notified them that he was in the contest. His entry is liable to injure the prospects of Judge Frick, as the latter has been relying principally on the backing of A. A. Moore and George W. Reed. Mr. Moore happens to be related to Mr. Hall and Reed and Moore are like brothers, so it is expected that Mr. Hall will be their first consideration. Mr. Hall is also the attorney for Frank A. Leach, and that gentleman no doubt will back him with his paper.

Ex-Judge Stephen G. Nye would also like to be seated on the bench again, and as Mr. Leach advocated him once before in preference to Judge Frick, it is not unlikely that he will do so again. But Mr. Hall will not have easy sailing. He will have a hard fight to carry his residence ward, the Third. J. W. Nelson is feeling a little sore because of the way Mr. Hall managed his fight for sheriff. Mr. Nelson originally wanted to be county recorder, but Mr. Hall, it is said, induced him to withdraw and enter the lists for sheriff, so as to give Charley Spear, who is related to Mr. Hall, a clear field for the recordership. The result was that Spear is now recorder and Nelson continues to superintend a fruit cannery.

City Justice John J. Allen also comes from the Third ward and he has signified his intention of permitting the people to say whether they desire to elevate him to the Superior Court. Allen is distinctively an Oakland boy who has fought his way through life in spite of many obstacles and no candidate would have a larger following, not only in this city but throughout the county. He is not particularly in favor with politicians, but the people who do most of the voting are his friends. His popularity was attested by the vote at the last election, when he ran about 1,700 votes ahead of his rival, Fred V. Wood. The latter would not seriously object to a nomination for Superior judge, as he has more than once remarked, "It is my intention to follow in the footsteps of Henshaw." But the fates are against him. His evident desire for promotion does not please Judge Frick, however. Frick was responsible for Wood's nomination by the Republican convention, thereby defeating John A. Sands, who had been promised the nomination by the political powers. Sands has a long knife out for Frick, and as he is considerable of a power in the Third ward just now he is liable to cause His Honor some worriment of mind.

In the country George W. Langan will be heard from. Langan has attempted on several previous occasions to be made a Superior judge and in each instance has been unsuccessful. But this time he will be more earnest than ever. The interior of the county has received scant patronage heretofore, and no doubt he will make a formidable showing for recognition.

THE SUPERVISORS.

The Supervisorial contest will be a lively affair. Pelouze, Bailey and Johnstone will all endeavor to succeed themselves. The Fifth district, represented by Mr. Pelouze for nearly twelve years, has a host of candidates and a strong endeavor will be made to wrest the nomination from the First Ward, where Mr. Pelouze resides, and give it to one of the outside districts. Mr. Pelouze is relying to a large extent on Assessor Dalton's friendship, but Councilman Frank Mott is also very friendly with Mr. Dalton and expects that gentleman's influence in case he determines to become a supervisorial candidate, which is very probable. John Striker and William Schmidt of Berkeley, Don F. Miller and J. M. Page of Golden Gate, W. W. Morrison of the First ward, John Wixon and John Trotter of the Second ward, and Maurice Flynn of the Third ward are a few Republicans who would like to succeed Mr. Pelouze. Councilman Marshall of the Second ward and John McDonald of the First ward are Democratic aspirants.

Hiram Bailey who represents Murray and Washington townships, says he has no easy fight on his hands. Besides Thomas D. Wells, the Democrat of Dublin, he has opposed to him Will Harris of Pleasanton, Arthur Fiedler and John Beck of Livermore, W. H. Ford of Niles and L. E. Osgood of Irvington.

J. E. Johnson is looked upon as very likely to succeed himself as the representative from the Second district. He will probably have opposed to him W. C. Mason, D. C. Brown, James T. Carey and B. F. Armstrong.

THE SENATORSHIP.

State Senator Guy C. Earl is after Congressman Hilborn's place, while Assemblyman C. G. Dodge would like to succeed Earl in the Senate. But Assemblyman Hart North is also after the Senatorship and as he has the backing of the University contingent and is also said to be supported by the Henshaw faction he will be a formidable candidate. If Earl does not see his road clear to Congress he will try again for the Senatorship, but even if he does it is more than probable that North will remain in the contest.

THE TENURE OF OFFICE.

The county officers, that is, all those but Supervisors and Superior judges, are not feeling entirely secure of a four years' tenure and at the expiration of two years expect their places to be contested. Tulare and Contra Costa counties are about to take steps to determine the question. But it is in San Francisco that the big fight will be made. Over there the officers were only elected for two years under the Consolidation act, but they claim that they should come under the provisions of the County Government act and hold over for four years. County Clerk Jordan has been particularly worried over the outlook and has discharged several of his clerks, as he says he desires to have a few dollars left at the expiration of two years in case it should become necessary for him to vacate the office at the expiration of that time. He called upon his brother, W. H. Jordan, the well-known San Francisco attorney, for an opinion recently, and that gentleman, from a superficial examination, gave it as his opinion that the county officers held for only two years, but after a more thorough inquiry into the subject decided that they could hold for four years.

The statutes of 1883, section 60, relative to county governments, provides for the number and election of county officers. It also provides that they shall be elected in 1894 and hold their respective offices for the term of four years from and after the first Monday in January, 1895. The act concludes: "This act shall take effect on the first day of January, 1895, except as otherwise herein provided."

Section 170, subdivision 26, relating to counties of the eighth class, provides for the election of officers every two years, and it is contended that this being a later section than section 60 of the general act relating to counties, should govern. District Attorney Snook, who has examined into the subject, is of the opinion that section 60 referring to officers generally and providing for a four-year term is the governing section, and that the section relating to counties of the eighth class is unconstitutional on the ground that it is special legislation.

Assemblyman Dodge said today there was some question in the minds of the last Legislature in regard to the four year clause in the present act and a new act was passed that would fix the term at four years beyond question, but this the Governor vetoed because it allowed constables and justices too much in the way of fees.

County Clerk Jordan said today that he expected a contest over the matter at the end of two years if for no other reason than that it would be a big thing for the lawyers in the way of fees. He intimated that those who are holding office at present would make a determined effort to continue in place.

THE JUSTICES.

The two Oakland city justices were also elected under the County Government act, but it is a question in the minds of many attorneys whether they are not city officers. The Supreme Court Commissioners in the case of John A. Sands decided that they were city officials, but this decision was reversed by the Supreme court, who held they were State officers and that the Board of Supervisors were vested with appointive power in case of vacancies.

The last Legislature passed an act providing for primaries in counties of the first and second class on a particular day. The Constitution does not vest power in the Legislature to divide counties into classes except for the purpose of regulating compensation of officers. In view of this the primary act which applies only to San Francisco and Los Angeles will probably be declared unconstitutional.

A quiet effort is being made to organize an association in this city for political purposes to be composed of liberal minded citizens. It is proposed to exclude members of the Young Men's Institute and American Protective Association. Victor H. Metcalf has been mentioned as a suitable man to place at the head of such an organization.

Charles Mautalen, chairman of the Republican county committee, was asked today as to the likelihood of the committee to select delegates instead of electing them by the usual primary system. "I am not in favor of having the committee select delegates," he replied. "There has been some talk among the committeemen in reference to it, but I believe the majority are opposed to it. I favor permitting the people to do their own voting and select their own delegates. The plan of selecting by the committee has been twice tried by the city committee, and in each case has proved unsatisfactory."

MRS. WALKERLY WINS

The Supreme Court Declares That the Trust Is Invalid.

SHE GETS ALL THE PROPERTY.

The State Law Was Invoked and It Broke the Will.

CHARITIES WERE LEFT OUT.

A Famous Oakland Contest Is Terminated at Last.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The Supreme Court today decided the Walkerly trust invalid.

By this decision the widow of William Walkerly will receive the estate of $750,000 instead of one-fourth that amount.

Walkerly died in 1887, leaving as heirs his widow and a child born five months after his death.

His will gave the widow the furniture and the use of the residence during her widowhood.

If she remarried she was to lose her residence.

Besides he left her an annuity of $2400.

Just before his death Walkerly learned he was to have an heir and he made a codicil to the will in which he gave the unborn child and mother each $100,000.

The child died and Mrs. Walkerly received $100,000 as its heir.

She afterwards married William F. Burbank, a reporter.

Mrs. Burbank commenced proceedings to have the trust declared invalid on the ground that the law in this State prohibits trusts for a term of years, except for charitable purposes.

The decision is rendered in her favor.

(Most of the estate is in East Oakland, where Walkerly resided. W. F. Burbank was a reporter on an Oakland paper and first met Mrs. Walkerly at the court house on Broadway. He is now running the Record in Los Angeles.

INDIANS NOT TO BLAME.

General Coppinger Speaks of the Jackson Hole Campaign.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Gen. Coppinger, who had command of the recent military expedition to the Jackson's Hole country, had a conference today with Secretary Lamont, to which Commissioner of Indian Affairs Browning was invited.

"I do not consider the Indians were to blame for the Jackson's Hole affair," said General Coppinger at the close of the conference. "They are entirely quiet now and have been. In fact, they would not say 'Boo' to a goose."

One question which the general brought to the attention of Secretary Lamont and Commissioner Browning was the advisability of annexing the Jackson's Hole country to the Yellowstone National Park.

He suggested that this action would solve the problem by preventing all parties from hunting and fishing in that section and said that as the country is not densely settled he thought there would be comparatively little difficulty in making the change.

Commissioner Browning said that in the first place it would be a matter for Secretary Smith and then for Congress, adding he did not know how the people of Wyoming would regard it as it would deprive that State of territory.

General Coppinger's report on the Indian trouble has been turned over to Secretary Lamont.

The general declined to say whether he made any recommendation for a continuance of the troops in Jackson's Hole country or for punishment of the participants in the trouble.

A POPULIST FIRST.

How the Situation Looks for a New Fire Chief.

No changes in the departments will be made at the meeting of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners today. Commissioners Wilson and Peirsol cannot agree upon the exchange of places which will be necessary before Elbert Lawton's successor is appointed. Commissioner Peirsol wants a Populist for fire chief and Commissioner Wilson does not. Commissioner Peirsol says the man must be capable and efficient, and he thinks the Populist party can produce such a man in the person of J. C. Brown.

"I understand Peirsol says he wants an efficient man first and secondly he must be a Populist," remarked Fred A. Campbell today. "Peirsol reversed the conditions when I spoke to him in reference to the matter. He told me the new chief must be a Populist first, and secondly he must be efficient. Peirsol is laying the foundation for future political preferment. He would like to continue in his present position or obtain something higher. If the Populists made him Mayor it would suit him first-rate. I told him recently if he wanted the fire department converted into a political machine I was just the man for the position," and Mr. Campbell smiled. "But if he wanted the department kept out of politics no one could do it better than myself. Peirsol told me he intended to put a Populist in the place if possible, and I guess he will do it if Mr. Wilson stands pat."

ON TRIAL AT LAST.

A Crowded Courtroom Greets the First Moves in the Case.

He Says He Can Prove That Durrant Killed Blanche Lamont.

EVIDENCE TO BE ADVANCED.

The Jury Taken to View the Scene of the Great Tragedy.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The long looked for trial of William Henry Theodore Durrant for the murder of Blanche Lamont opened this morning.

The court room was crowded at an early hour.

His father and mother sat beside him.

For the remainder of the trial Judge Murphy has secured the more commodious court room of the presiding judge to accommodate the crowds.

All the witnesses in the case were excluded when District Attorney Barnes made his opening statements as follows:

"At this point in the trial and before proceeding with the evidence it becomes my duty as a representative of the people to make what is called the opening statement of the case.

"The opening statement should not be regarded by you in the light of testimony, neither should it be regarded as an argument upon the facts.

"It should not have any weight with you nor should you consider it as mitigating against the prisoner."

"It is merely a statement of what the people expect to prove—a statement of the evidence which they intend to present for your consideration, and upon which they will confidently rely for a verdict at your hands, which shall sweep away the sophistries and the technicalities that have enveloped criminal proceedings in this State as with a garment, and shall declare that the land we live in is blessed not only with manifold gifts of nature and of God to man, but is further blessed with the hard, clear common sense that can rise above the tortuous environments that surround the criminal, and punish the crime committed in the manner required and demanded by all laws, both human and divine.

"We will show you that in the month of September, 1894, Blanche Lamont, a young girl about 20 years of age, came to San Francisco from her home at Dillon, Mont., in the hope that the mild climate of California might benefit her health.

"She went to reside with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Noble, and from the time of her arrival here until April 3d she was engaged in attending school.

"She was not a society girl in any sense of the word.

"She was of a quiet disposition, home keeping and religious.

"She never attended parties nor theaters or other places of amusement except in company with her relatives.

"We will show that Blanche Lamont in her lifetime was well, too well, and yet not well enough acquainted with the prisoner, Durrant; that he was in the habit of accompanying her home from church and prayer meeting; that he was a caller upon her at her aunt's house; that upon the only occasion upon which she ever went anywhere with any young man as far as we are informed she visited the park one afternoon in company with Durrant.

"We will give you a history of her life and her movements as far as we are able, up to the 3d of April, 1895, in order that you may for a just appreciation of the character and the habits of this unfortunate young girl.

"We will show you her connection with the defendant and we will show you the reason why, when the murdered body of Blanche Lamont was found in the darkened belfry of Emmanuel church and the question sprang from the lips of every resident of this city and of this country, 'Who is the murderer?' Why it is that the State answers that he who was responsible for the slaughter of this young life is William Henry Theodore Durrant; Durrant, once the friend of Blanche Lamont; Durrant, once in charge of the Sunday school library; Durrant, once assistant superintendent of the Emmanuel Sunday school; Durrant, once the electrician who knew the ins and outs of the great building; Durrant, once the handy man and jack-of-all-trades at the church, and now Durrant, the prisoner and on trial for his life.

"We shall show Durrant's connection with the crime and shall demonstrate by irrefutable and unanswerable evidence that he and he alone committed this murder.

"If we show you these facts; if we show you that Durrant met this ill-fated girl on the day of her death; that he accompanied her to the church; that he was seen to enter the church with her; that he was seen afterwards in the church alone; that Blanche Lamont was never seen again by human eyes from the moment when she entered the portals of Emmanuel Baptist church with the defendant; that in the church was found her dead body, her clothes, her school books—showing that she had never been home, and that she had gone straight from school to death: if we show you, as we confidently expect, that no one but the prisoner could have committed this outrageous and horrible crime, we shall look to you as citizens of the great State whose reputation for justice and for enforcement of the laws, we, as its officers, are trying to uphold, to render your verdict that the prisoner at the bar is guilty of murder in the first degree."

At the conclusion of Barnes' address counsel for both State and defense consulted with the judge, who finally ordered that the jury and Durrant should be taken to Emmanuel church to view the scene of the murder in charge of a policeman.

The opera house and Read hotel also burned. The losses aggregate $50,000, partially insured.

THE MICHIGAN ROW.

ISHPEMING, Mich., Sept. 3.—The only exciting feature of the strike situation today was the burning of the headquarters of the strikers at Union Park early this morning. It is thought the place was fired by some one not in sympathy with the strikers.

SIEMER LANDED.

The Warrant Telegraphed and Extradition Papers Ready.

Constable Koch left for Seattle last for the return of Henry Siemer, who for thme return of Henry Siemer, who has three charges of felonious assault pending against him in Justice Clift's court. The complainant is Mrs. Zilphia Needham who says her eight-year-old daughter, Myrtle, was grossly abused by Seimer about a month ago. The accused man was an intimate friend of the family. When he learned that he was liable to be arrested he fled to Seattle, where he has a brother.

After Siemer's arrest his friends threatened to sue out a writ of habeas corpus and the constable telegraphed the warrant for his arrest to Seattle at an expense of $15 with the result that the prisoner has been held.

Candidates for the Political Prizes Already in the Field.

THE SUPERVISORIAL OUTLOOK.

Although the next election is about eighteen months distant there is already a good deal of talk on the subject among those who take an interest in such matters. Alameda County will elect two Superior judges, three Supervisors, six Assemblymen, a Senator and will have a good deal to say in reference to a Congressman. At present interest is centered to a large extent in the fight for Superior judgeships, and the candidates are already in the field actively engaged in making friends.

Judges Greene and Frick will endeavor to succeed themselves. The former is looked upon as having a particularly hard battle before him. The Southern Pacific railroad influence has generally been against him and the railroad wing has only lent its support in previous conventions because his individual strength made it desirable to give him the nomination in order to carry a more important point. The judge has a host of personal enemies who do not like his Spartan display of judicial impartiality from the bench. None of these are more bitter than W. S. Goodfellow, the Seventh Ward attorney, who earns a President's salary practising law in San Francisco. Goodfellow is willing, so his friends say, to spend a good many dollars in attempting to accomplish the defeat of Judge Greene. But there are few more subtle politicians than the tall, dignified jurist, and he has a great knack of winning over his opponents at the last moment. This he may be able to accomplish again.

None are doing more handshaking than Judge A. L. Frick and none are more conversant with the intricacies of practical politics than he. There was a time when the judge prided himself on being a stalwart, but those days are no more. With the dropping out of Tom Carothers and his followers the judge lost no time in identifying himself with the so-called Pardee element and effects the support of the ex-Mayor and his friends in the Seventh Ward.

These two gentlemen who administer law will have plenty of opposition. In the first place there is Sam P. Hall, ex-district attorney, who wants the judgeship. Mr. Hall called upon the two judges a few days ago and notified them that he was in the contest. His entry is liable to injure the prospects of Judge Frick, as the latter has been relying principally on the backing of A. A. Moore and George W. Reed. Mr. Moore happens to be related to Mr. Hall and Reed and Moore are like brothers, so it is expected that Mr. Hall will be their first consideration. Mr. Hall is also the attorney for Frank A. Leach, and that gentleman no doubt will back him with his paper.

Ex-Judge Stephen G. Nye would also like to be seated on the bench again, and as Mr. Leach advocated him once before in preference to Judge Frick, it is not unlikely that he will do so again. But Mr. Hall will not have easy sailing. He will have a hard fight to carry his residence ward, the Third. J. W. Nelson is feeling a little sore because of the way Mr. Hall managed his fight for sheriff. Mr. Nelson originally wanted to be county recorder, but Mr. Hall, it is said, induced him to withdraw and enter the lists for sheriff, so as to give Charley Spear, who is related to Mr. Hall, a clear field for the recordership. The result was that Spear is now recorder and Nelson continues to superintend a fruit cannery.

City Justice John J. Allen also comes from the Third ward and he has signified his intention of permitting the people to say whether they desire to elevate him to the Superior Court. Allen is distinctively an Oakland boy who has fought his way through life in spite of many obstacles and no candidate would have a larger following, not only in this city but throughout the county. He is not particularly in favor with politicians, but the people who do most of the voting are his friends. His popularity was attested by the vote at the last election, when he ran about 1,700 votes ahead of his rival, Fred V. Wood. The latter would not seriously object to a nomination for Superior judge, as he has more than once remarked, "It is my intention to follow in the footsteps of Henshaw." But the fates are against him. His evident desire for promotion does not please Judge Frick, however. Frick was responsible for Wood's nomination by the Republican convention, thereby defeating John A. Sands, who had been promised the nomination by the political powers. Sands has a long knife out for Frick, and as he is considerable of a power in the Third ward just now he is liable to cause His Honor some worriment of mind.

In the country George W. Langan will be heard from. Langan has attempted on several previous occasions to be made a Superior judge and in each instance has been unsuccessful. But this time he will be more earnest than ever. The interior of the county has received scant patronage heretofore, and no doubt he will make a formidable showing for recognition.

THE SUPERVISORS.

The Supervisorial contest will be a lively affair. Pelouze, Bailey and Johnstone will all endeavor to succeed themselves. The Fifth district, represented by Mr. Pelouze for nearly twelve years, has a host of candidates and a strong endeavor will be made to wrest the nomination from the First Ward, where Mr. Pelouze resides, and give it to one of the outside districts. Mr. Pelouze is relying to a large extent on Assessor Dalton's friendship, but Councilman Frank Mott is also very friendly with Mr. Dalton and expects that gentleman's influence in case he determines to become a supervisorial candidate, which is very probable. John Striker and William Schmidt of Berkeley, Don F. Miller and J. M. Page of Golden Gate, W. W. Morrison of the First ward, John Wixon and John Trotter of the Second ward, and Maurice Flynn of the Third ward are a few Republicans who would like to succeed Mr. Pelouze. Councilman Marshall of the Second ward and John McDonald of the First ward are Democratic aspirants.

Hiram Bailey who represents Maurray and Washington townships, says he has no easy fight on his hands. Besides Thomas D. Wells, the Democrat of Dublin, he has opposed to him Will Harris of Pleasanton, Arthur Fiedler and John Beck of Livermore, W. H. Ford of Niles and L. E. Osgood of Irvington.

J. E. Johnson is looked upon as very likely to succeed himself as the representative from the Second district. He will probably have opposed to him W. C. Mason, D. C. Brown, James T. Carey and B. F. Armstrong.

THE SENATORSHIP.

State Senator Guy C. Earl is after Congressman Hilborn's place, while Assemblyman C. G. Dodge would like to succeed Earl in the Senate. But Assemblyman Hart North is also after the Senatorship and as he has the backing of the University contingent and is also said to be supported by the Henshaw faction he will be a formidable candidate. If Earl does not see his road clear to Congress he will try again for the Senatorship, but even if he does it is more than probable that North will remain in the contest.

THE TENURE OF OFFICE.

The county officers, that is, all those but Supervisors and Superior judges, are not feeling entirely secure of a four years' tenure and at the expiration of two years expect their places to be contested. Tulare and Contra Costa counties are about to take steps to determine the question. But it is in San Francisco that the big fight will be made. Over there the officers were only elected for two years under the Consolidation act, but they claim that they should come under the provisions of the County Government act and hold office for four years. County Clerk Jordan has been particularly worried over the outlook and has discharged several deputy clerks, as he says he desires to have a few dollars left at the expiration of two years in case it should become necessary for him to vacate the office at the expiration of that time. He called upon his brother, W. H. Jordan, the well-known San Francisco attorney, for an opinion recently, and that gentleman, from a superficial examination, gave it as his opinion that the county officers hold for only two years, but after a more thorough inquiry into the subject decided that they could hold for four years.

The statutes of 1893, section 60, relative to county governments, provides for the number and election of county officers. It also provides that they shall be elected in 1894 and hold their respective offices for the term of four years from and after the first Monday in January, 1895. The act concludes, "This act shall take effect on the first day of January, 1895, except as otherwise herein provided."

Section 170, subdivision 26, relating to counties of the eighth class, provides for the election of officers every two years, and it is contended that this being a later section than section 60 of the general act relating to counties, should govern. District Attorney Snook, who has examined into the subject, is of the opinion that section 60 referring to officers generally and providing for a four-year term is the governing section, and that the section relating to counties of the eighth class is unconstitutional on the ground that it is special legislation.

Assemblyman Dodge said today there was some question in the minds of the last Legislature in regard to the four year clause in the present act and a new act was passed that would fix the term at four years beyond question, but this the Governor vetoed because it allowed constables and justices too much in the way of fees.

County Clerk Jordan said today that he expected a contest over the matter at the end of two years if for no other reason than that it would be a big thing for the lawyers in the way of fees. He intimated that those who are holding office at present would make a determined effort to continue in place.

THE JUSTICES.

The two Oakland city justices were also elected under the County Government act, but it is a question in the minds of many attorneys whether they are not city officers. The Supreme Court Commissioners in the case of John A. Sands decided that they were city officials, but this decision was reversed by the Supreme court, who held they were State officers and that the Board of Supervisors were vested with appointive power in case of vacancies.

The last Legislature passed an act providing for primaries in counties of the first and second class on a particular day. The Constitution does not vest power in the Legislature to divide counties into classes except for the purpose of regulating compensation of officers. In view of this the primary act which applies only to San Francisco and Los Angeles will probably be declared unconstitutional.

A quiet effort is being made to organize an association in this city for political purposes to be composed of liberal minded citizens. It is proposed to exclude members of the Young Men's Institute and American Protective Association. Victor H. Metcalf has been mentioned as a suitable man to place at the head of such an organization.

Charles Mautalen, chairman of the Republican county committee, was asked today as to the likelihood of the committee to select delegates instead of electing them by the usual primary system. "I am not not in favor of having the committee select delegates," he replied. "There has been some talk among the committeemen in reference to it, but I believe the majority are opposed to it. I favor permitting the people to do their own voting and select their own delegates. The plan of selecting by the committee has been twice tried by the city committee, and in each case has proved unsatisfactory."

MRS. WALKERLY WINS

The Supreme Court Declares That the Trust Is Invalid.

SHE GETS ALL THE PROPERTY.

The State Law Was Invoked and It Broke the Will.

CHARITIES WERE LEFT OUT.

A Famous Oakland Contest Is Terminated at Last.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The Supreme Court today decided the Walkerly trust invalid.

By this decision the widow of William Walkerly will receive the estate of $750,000 instead of one-fourth that amount.

Walkerly died in 1887, leaving as heirs his widow and a child born five months after his death.

His will gave the widow the furniture and the use of the residence during her widowhood.

If she remarried she was to lose her residence.

Besides he left her an annuity of $2400.

Just before his death Walkerly learned he was to have an heir and he made a codicil to the will in which he gave the unborn child and mother each $100,000.

The child died and Mrs. Walkerly received $100,000 as its heir.

She afterwards married William F. Burbank, a reporter.

Mrs. Burbank commenced proceedings to have the trust declared invalid on the ground that the law in this State prohibits trusts for a term of years, except for charitable purposes.

The decision is rendered in her favor.

(Most of the estate is in East Oakland, where Walkerly resided. W. F. Burbank was a reporter on an Oakland paper and first met Mrs. Walkerly at the court house on Broadway. He is now running the Record in Los Angeles.

INDIANS NOT TO BLAME.

General Coppinger Speaks of the Jackson Hole Campaign.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Gen. Coppinger, who had command of the recent military expedition to the Jackson's Hole country, had a conference today with Secretary Lamont, to which Commissioner of Indian Affairs Browning was invited.

"I do not consider the Indians were to blame for the Jackson's Hole affair," said General Coppinger at the close of the conference. "They are entirely quiet now and have been. In fact, they would not say 'Boo' to a goose."

One question which the general brought to the attention of Secretary Lamont and Commissioner Browning was the advisability of annexing the Jackson's Hole country to the Yellowstone National Park.

He suggested that this action would solve the problem by preventing all parties from hunting and fishing in that section and said that as the country is not densely settled he thought there would be comparatively little difficulty in making the change.

Commissioner Browning said that in the first place it would be a matter for Secretary Smith and then for Congress, adding he did not know how the people of Wyoming would regard it as it would deprive that State of territory.

General Coppinger's report on the Indian trouble has been turned over to Secretary Lamont.

The general declined to say whether he made any recommendation for a continuance of the troops in Jackson's Hole country or for punishment of the participants in the trouble.

A POPULIST FIRST.

How the Situation Looks for a New Fire Chief.

No changes in the departments will be made at the meeting of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners today. Commissioners Wilson and Peirsol cannot agree upon the exchange of places which will be necessary before Elbert Lawton's successor is appointed. Commissioner Peirsol wants a Populist for fire chief and Commissioner Wilson does not. Commissioner Peirsol says the man must be capable and efficient, and he thinks the Populist party can produce such a man in the person of J. C. Brown.

"I understand Peirsol says he wants an efficient man first and secondly he must be a Populist," remarked Fred A. Campbell today. "Peirsol reversed the conditions when I spoke to him in reference to the matter. He told me the new chief must be a Populist first, and secondly he must be efficient. Peirsol is laying the foundation for future political preferment. He would like to continue in his present position, or obtain something higher. If the Populists made him Mayor it would suit him first-rate. I told him recently if he wanted the fire department converted into a political machine I was just the man for the position," and Mr. Campbell smiled. "But if he wanted the department kept out of politics no one could do it better than myself. Peirsol told me he intended to put a Populist in the place if possible, and I guess he will do it if Mr. Wilson stands in."

MILLIONS TO MARRY.

Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt Is to Wed Moses Taylor.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 3.—The engagement of Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt and Moses Taylor, though not formally announced, is now conceded by their friends.

The great fortune of Miss Vanderbilt is about matched by the millions of Mr. Taylor. He is the second son of Henry A. C. Taylor and his inheritance came from his grandfather, Moses Taylor, a successful old-time merchant.

Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. She is pretty, attractive, slightly above the medium height, and slender.

Her companion is fair, features small and regular, eyes gray, hair brown and abundant.

Mr. Taylor was graduated from Yale in the class of '93. He is an enthusiast in athletic out-door sports and an expert at polo.

THE ASSESSMENT TO STAND.

THE TAX LEVY FIXED.

Sixty-eight Cents and Five Mills Will Be Borne by the Taxpayers.

MANY REDUCTIONS ARE MADE.

No Advances, However, Are Announced in Any of the Counties.

Special to the Tribune.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—The State Board of Equalization today completed its work.

The assesment of Alameda county was left untouched.

San Francisco's valuations were also allowed to stand without change.

Twenty-six counties gained a reduction of 10 per cent in their valuations.

The State Board did not raise the assessment on a single county in the State.

The board also fixed the total tax levy for State purposes.

The levy is 68.5 cents, divided as follows: General fund, 45.7; school, 20.4; interest and sinking fund, 1.4; State University, 1.0.

An even 1 cent on $100 goes to the University fund.

The valuations upon which the tax levy was made is as follows:

The levy last year was 49.3 cents.

The party pledges at the last election named 50 cents as the limit for State tax purposes.

The increase in the levy over last year is due to large appropriations made by the last legislature and the reductions made on the county assessments.

OAK LEAVES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—Emperor William inaugurated the second day of the festivities in connection with the celebration of the battle of 1870 and 1871 by personally decorating with branches of oak leaves the four corps standards.

The first regiment of guards was drawn up in front of the castle to witness the ceremony.

At 8:30 the emperor set out for the parade to review the German-American veterans.

The weather was fine. Large crowds thronged the streets, which were most elaborately decorated with flags and bunting.

THE AUDITOR'S ESTIMATES.

Heavy Cuts Must Be Made in the Department Figures.

The annual estimate of the income and expenses of the city for the present fiscal year will be filed tonight with the City Council by Auditor R. W. Snow.

The estimate will show that the department expenses as made out by the offices of the city aggregate $946,354.

The income of the city, other than taxes, is estimated at $296,134.

The income from taxes at the highest legal rate can be only $455,000.

This has made it necessary for the auditor to reduce the department estimates $177,650.

The tax levy for bonds and interest will be not less than 17 cents.

THE RELIEF OF PEARY.

Little Trouble Experienced in Heading for the North.

The Expedition Will Probably Return the End of the Month.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 2.—The first news of the Peary relief expedition was brought today by the American schooner John E. Mackenzie, returning from the Greenland halibut fishery.

The Mackenzie met the Kite with the expedition at Holsteinburg July 15th.

At Holsteinberg the Kite took aboard Professor Dyche, one of the members of the expedition, and they sailed again the same evening.

Very little ice was reported south of Greenland waters

The crew of the Mackenzie think the Kite will have no difficulty in reaching Whale's sound, where Peary's headquarters are located.

The return of the relief party is expected about the end of this month.

WON COL. IRISH'S VOTE.

Mayor Davie in His Choice for Any Office He Wants.

Colonel John P. Irish and Mayor Davie are now firm friends and it is all because the Mayor has been largely instrumental in having the garbage of the city dumped outside of the limits of Oakland. During the last election Colonel Irish announced that he was for J. W. Nelson for Mayor, but he met Mayor Davie a few days ago and told him he would vote for him whenever he wanted to run for office.

"I have been fighting against this dumping of garbage in the vicinity of our homes for the past ten years," remarked the colonel, "and you are the first man who has been able to accomplish anything in the way of preventing it. Count on my vote the next time you are a candidate."

The Mayor filed a message with the council recommending the passage of an ordinance providing for the segregation of garbage by the property owners and citizens, prior to its collection by the city scavengers. The Mayor says: "All garbage should be separated and kept in separate receptacles, one for ashes only and the other for all other kinds of garbage and refuse. The ashes could be dumped anywhere within the city where required for filling and the balance disposed of, either as at present, by transportation or cremation. In so doing a saving in transportation would be made at present, and in the future, if a crematory is constructed, it would require less fuel to consume the same."

ROBBERY IN A RESTAURANT.

Arrival of a Ship That Was Caught in a Cyclone at Sea.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Durrant's trial was today postponed until tomorrow on motion of the attorneys for the defense, seconded by the district attorney.

The uncertainty about the effect of Labor Day upon judicial acts led to the postponement.

District Attorney Barnes will make his opening statement to the jury tomorrow morning.

A CYCLONE AT SEA.

The Evening Bulletin says: The British ship Crocodile arrived today, seventy-two days from Australia.

On August 1st, she encountered a cyclone just like a land cyclone, which is very rare at the cyclonic center.

It burst a quarter of a mile from the ship, but near enough to tear all the sail off the masts.

The ship lay five days in the trough after the cyclone passed unable to move.

A RESTAURANT ROBBED.

Mrs. Dora Reed, proprietress of a restaurant, was beaten and robbed at an early hour today. She says her assailants were Chinese, but as it was dark, she could not recognize them but suspects her cook and another servant. Mrs. Reed's injuries may result fatally.

DEFENDING THE FLAG.

The Bulletin has a story of a fight on July 4th at Monte Video, between the sailors of the United States cruiser Newark and British marines ashore at the same time.

The Englishmen pulled down the American flag in a saloon and stamped on it.

The result was a fight in which an American sailor was stabbed probably fatally. Many others were wounded.

The native police arrested forty of the combatants.

TO GO TO ATLANTA.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—Governor Budd today appointed the delegates to the Pan-American Congress to be held at Atlanta, Ga., from the 10th to the 19th of October, as follows: Amos Adams, San Jose, William Johnston, Courtland, J. A. Filcher, secretary State Board of Trade; David Lubin, Sacramento.

A RAID ON CHINESE.

WHEATLAND, Cal., Sept. 2.—A mob attepted to drive out Chinese employed as hop pickers by W. Proddans.

The latter explained to the mob that he employed whites and Indians, but could not secure a sufficient number to handle the crop.

A number of other whites said to be intoxicated, joined the raiders who were confronted with the guns of Proddans' men and commanded to retreat, which they did on hearing the click of the guns.

The Chinese are still working.

A NEVADA TRAGEDY.

YERINGTON, Nev., Sept. 2.—William Morrow was shot today and killed by his father-in-law, Mr. Logan.

Morrow and his wife were scuffling for the possession of a pistol.

Morrow was threatening to kill her, and Logan appeared.

Morrow threatened him and Logan fired.

Logan gave himself up.

Mrs. Morrow was shot through the leg.

LABOR DAY DOWN SOUTH.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Labor Day was celebrated by a parade of the labor organizations this morning and picnics in the mountains and at the seashore in the afternoon.

A TRAGEDY AT SANTA ROSA.

SANTA ROSA, Sept. 2.—Frank Bacigalupi has been cut in left side by Peter Lungaretti and will probably die.

Sunday morning Lungaretti met two young women named Cardelli and Bacigalupi.

Words passed between them and Lungaretti slapped them in the face.

Bacigalupi met Lungaretti last night and chided him with slapping the young women.

Hot words followed and the men exchanged a number of blows.

The men were separated by friends, but Lungaretti returned to the attack, drew a big knife and plunged it into Bacigalupi's side, making a cut over an inch long.

Lungaretti with a companion jumped into a cart and drove off.

He has not yet been found.

LEFT NO WILL.

Thomas Ewing Applies for Letters Upon the Estate of His Wife.

Mrs. Clara C. Ewing, the wife of Thomas Ewing of this city, who died at Springfield, Ill., on August 8th, left a considerable estate in this city. During her lifetime her husband had made a number of gifts to her which aggregated a value of $50,000. Ewing was a prominent mining operator here some years ago and a wealthy capitalist.

A petition was filed today by Ewing in the Superior court for letters of administration upon the estate of his wife. The real property is valued at $50,000 and personal property at $2,500. Ewing represents that the entire estate was the separate property of Mrs. Ewing and was all acquired by gift. He states that she left no will and that he is the only heir-at-law. The real estate is all in this city.

WANT SOME GOLD.

Non-Resident Devisees of Morris Goldberg to the Front.

Some of the non-resident devisees of Morris Goldberg are seeking some of the gold of the Fruitvale hermit, who left $250,000 to be distributed among thirty or forty legatees. They have learned that an order of partial distribution has been made in the estate and they have come to the front through their attorney, H. H. North, for an order directing the payment to them of a share of the coin now in the hands of the executors. There are seven represented in the petition, and they seek to have $14,500 distributed in the following amounts:

To Mrs. Mussa Shilman, $3,000; Mrs. Sarah Parsch, $2,500; Fanny O. Lecpould, $1,000; M. C. Phillips, $2,000; Frances Phillips, $2,000; O'Billy Phillips, $2,000; Beatrice Solis, $2,000.

CAUGHT AS HE FLED.

THE HOUSE SURROUNDED.

ROBBERY CHARGED TO HIM.

He Is an Ex-Convict and Has an Unsavory Record.

Captain Wilson and Detective Shorey arrested Walter Ross this morning for robbery.

On Saturday night Ross and two companions entered a house on Morton street in San Francisco and at the point of a revolver forced the proprietress, Madge Wells, to give them what money she had, about $25, her jewelry and clothes.

One of the gang was arrested in San Francisco but the other two escaped. A description was sent to the Oakland officers and they recognized Ross as one of the men.

Ross was located at his mother's home on the San Leandro road near High street. The officers knowing his running ability were careful in their approach. Captain Wilson went to the rear door. He quietly tried it but found it locked. Sounds were plainly heard in the kitchen but it was several moments before the door was unfastened and Wilson was told that the young man was not at home.

Detective Holland had gone to the front door and while waiting for a response to his knock he carefully watched the sides of the house. His vigilance was rewarded by seeing Ross jump from a side window and attempt to run.

"I called to him to stop," said the detective, "and he lost no time in obeying. I do not think he would have stopped so readily if he had been fully dressed, but in his haste he had not put on his coat, vest or hat."

The officers searched the place for evidence and brought to the city prison two telescope bags filled with ladies wearing apparel, besides four finger rings.

Ross is an old offender and is considered by the officers a desperate and dangerous man. He was sent to the penitentiary from this county for burglary and had only been out a short time.

He was intimate with the Hollands and Openheimer and was thought by the officers to have had a hand in the Melntosh hold up in San Francisco, for which his brother George is now held in San Francisco.

Madge Wells, the victim of his robbery, was formerly a resident of Oakland. She was released from the city prison a few days ago, having served six months for petty larceny.

THE ASSESSMENT TO STAND.

THE TAX LEVY FIXED.

Sixty-eight Cents and Five Mills Will Be Borne by the Taxpayers.

MANY REDUCTIONS ARE MADE.

No Advances, However, Are Announced in Any of the Counties.

Special to the Tribune.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—The State Board of Equalization today completed its work.

The assesment of Alameda county was left untouched.

San Francisco's valuations were also allowed to stand without change.

Twenty-six counties gained a reduction of 10 per cent in their valuations.

The State Board did not raise the assessment on a single county in the State.

The board also fixed the total tax levy for State purposes.

The levy is 68.5 cents, divided as follows: General fund, 45.7; school, 20.4; interest and sinking fund, 1.4; State University, 1.0.

An even 1 cent on $100 goes to the University fund.

The valuations upon which the tax levy was made is as follows:

The levy last year was 49.3 cents.

The party pledges at the last election named 50 cents as the limit for State tax purposes.

The increase in the levy over last year is due to large appropriations made by the last legislature and the reductions made on the county assessments.

OAK LEAVES.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Emperor William inaugurated the second day of the festivities in connection with the celebration of the battle of 1870 and 1871 by personally decorating with branches of oak leaves the four corps standards.

The first regiment of guards was drawn up in front of the castle to witness the ceremony.

At 8:30 the emperor set out for the parade to review the German-American veterans.

The weather was fine. Large crowds thronged the streets, which were most elaborately decorated with flags and bunting.

The Brandenberg gate was covered with laurel wreaths, hanging from which were streamers of dark crimson velvet, bearing the inscription in gold letters, "How Events Have Shaped Themselves Under God's Guidance."

THE AUDITOR'S ESTIMATES.

Heavy Cuts Must Be Made in the Department Figures.

The annual estimate of the income and expenses of the city for the present fiscal year will be filed tonight with the City Council by Auditor R. W. Snow.

The estimate will show that the department expenses as made out by the offices of the city aggregate $946,354.

The income of the city, other than taxes, is estimated at $296,194.

The income from taxes at the highest legal rate can be only $465,000.

This has made it necessary for the auditor to reduce the department estimates $177,650.

The tax levy for bonds and interest will be not less than 17 cents.

Finding the Spoils

Detective Shorey today searched the ark which belonged to Joe Silva, the attempted slayer of Night Watchman Jones of the Market street wharf. Among other things which the police think were stolen by Silva they took a pair of oars, which were identified by Captain Cole, of the schooner, "Anna Mine" as having been stolen from his boat.

Walker Wins.

Because of the insufficiency of the evidence produced by the prosecution Judge Wood dismissed the charge against W. R. Walker, accused by Miss Mabel Pugh Heaggard with her betrayal. From the testimony of the prosecuting witness it appeared that her feelings had experienced a revulsion toward Walker and that now she would not marry him if he should request it.

THE RELIEF OF PEARY.

Little Trouble Experienced in Heading for the North.

The Expedition Will Probably Return the End of the Month.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 2.—The first news of the Peary relief expedition was brought today by the American schooner John E. Mackenzie, returning from the Greenland halibut fishery.

The Mackenzie met the Kite with the expedition at Holsteinburg July 15th.

Very little ice was reported south of Greenland waters.

The crew of the Mackenzie think the Kite will have no difficulty in reaching Whale's sound, where Peary's headquarters are located.

The return of the relief party is expected about the end of this month.

WON COL. IRISH'S VOTE.

Mayor Davie in His Choice for Any Office He Wants.

Colonel John P. Irish and Mayor Davie are now firm friends and it is all because the Mayor has been largely instrumental in having the garbage of the city dumped outside of the limits of Oakland. During the last election Colonel Irish announced that he was for J. W. Nelson for Mayor, but he met Mayor Davie a few days ago and told him he would vote for him whenever he wanted to run for office.

"I have been fighting against this dumping of garbage in the vicinity of our homes for the past ten years," remarked the colonel, "and you are the first man who has been able to accomplish anything in the way of preventing it. Count on my vote the next time you are a candidate."

The Mayor filed a message with the council recommending the passage of an ordinance providing for the segregation of garbage by the property owners and citizens, prior to its collection by the city scavengers. The Mayor says: "All garbage should be separated and kept in separate receptacles, one for ashes only and the other for all other kinds of garbage and refuse. The ashes could be dumped anywhere within the city where required for filling and the balance disposed of, either as at present, by transportation or cremation. In so doing a saving in transportation would be made at present, and in the future, if a crematory is constructed, it would require less fuel to consume the same."

Mrs. Dora Reed, proprietress of a restaurant, was beaten and robbed at an early hour today. She says her assailants were Chinese, but as it was dark, she could not recognize them but suspects her cook and another servant. Mrs. Reed's injuries may result fatally.

DEFENDING THE FLAG.

The Bulletin has a story of a fight on July 4th at Mignie Video, between the sailors of the United States cruiser Newark and British marines ashore at the same time.

The Englishmen pulled down the American flag in a saloon and stamped on it.

The result was a fight in which an American sailor was stabbed probably fatally. Many others were wounded.

The native police arrested forty of the combatants.

TO GO TO ATLANTA.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—Governor Budd today appointed the delegates to the Pan-American Congress to be held at Atlanta, Ga., from the 10th to the 19th of October, as follows: Amos Adams, San Jose; William Johnston, Courtland; J. A. Filcher, secretary State Board of Trade; David Lubin, Sacramento.

A RAID ON CHINESE.

WHEATLAND, Cal., Sept. 2.—A mob attepted to drive out Chinese employed as hop pickers by W. Proddans.

The latter explained to the mob that he employed whites and Indians, but could not secure a sufficient number to handle the crop.

A number of other whites said to be intoxicated, joined the raiders who were confronted with the guns of Proddans' men and commanded to retreat, which they did on hearing the click of the guns.

The Chinese are still working.

A NEVADA TRAGEDY.

YERINGTON, Nev., Sept. 2.—William Morrow was shot today and killed by his father-in-law, Mr. Logan.

Morrow and his wife were scuffling for the possession of a pistol.

Morrow was threatening to kill her, and Logan appeared.

Morrow threatened him and Logan fired.

Logan gave himself up.

Mrs. Morrow was shot through the leg.

LABOR DAY DOWN SOUTH.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Labor Day was celebrated by a parade of the labor organizations this morning and picnics in the mountains and at the seashore in the afternoon.

A TRAGEDY AT SANTA ROSA.

SANTA ROSA, Sept. 2.—Frank Bacigalupi has been cut in left side by Peter Lungaretti and will probably die.

Sunday morning Lungaretti met two young women named Gardelli and Bacigalupi.

Words passed between them and Lungaretti slapped them in the face.

Bacigalupi met Lungaretti last night and chided him with slapping the young women.

Hot words followed and the men exchanged a number of blows.

The men were separated by friends, but Lungaretti returned to the attack, drew a big knife and plunged it into Bacigalupi's side, making a cut over an inch long.

Lungaretti with a companion jumped into a cart and drove off.

He has not yet been found.

LEFT NO WILL.

Thomas Ewing Applies for Letters Upon the Estate of His Wife.

Mrs. Clara C. Ewing, the wife of Thomas Ewing of this city, who died at Springfield, Ill., on August 8th, left a considerable estate in this city. During her lifetime her husband had made a number of gifts to her which aggregated a value of $50,000. Ewing was a prominent mining operator here some years ago and a wealthy capitalist.

A petition was filed today by Ewing in the Superior court for letters of administration upon the estate of his wife. The real property is valued at $50,000 and personal property at $2,500. Ewing represents that the entire estate was the separate property of Mrs. Ewing and was all acquired by gift. He states that she left no will and that he is the only heir-at-law. The real estate is all in this city.

WANT SOME GOLD.

Non-Resident Devisees of Morris Goldberg to the Front.

Some of the non-resident devisees of Morris Goldberg are seeking some of the gold of the Fruitvale hermit, who left $250,000 to be distributed among thirty or forty legatees. They have learned that an order of partial distribution has been made in the estate and they have come to the front through their attorney, H. H. North, for an order directing the payment to them of a share of the coin now in the hands of the executors. There are seven represented in the petition, and they seek to have $14,500 distributed in the following amounts:

To Mrs. Mussa Shirman, $3,000; Mrs. Sarah Parseh, $2,500; Fanny O. Leopould, $1,000; M. C. Phillips, $2,000; Frances Phillips, $2,000; Philly Phillips, $2,000; Beatrice Sells, $2,000.

CAUGHT AS HE FLED.

THE HOUSE SURROUNDED.

ROBBERY CHARGED TO HIM.

He Is an Ex-Convict and Has an Unsavory Record.

Captain Wilson and Detective Shorey arrested Walter Ross this morning for robbery.

On Saturday night Ross and two companions entered a house on Morton street in San Francisco and at the point of a revolver forced the proprietress, Madge Wells, to give them what money she had, about $25, her jewelry and clothes.

One of the gang was arrested in San Francisco but the other two escaped. A description was sent to the Oakland officers and they recognized Ross as one of the men.

Ross was located at his mother's home on the San Leandro road near High street. The officers knowing his running ability were careful in their approach. Captain Wilson went to the rear door. He quietly tried it but found it locked. Sounds were plainly heard in the kitchen but it was several moments before the door was unfastened and Wilson was told that the young man was not at home.

Detective Holland had gone to the front door and while waiting for a response to his knock he carefully watched the sides of the house. His vigilance was rewarded by seeing Ross jump from a side window and attempt to run.

"I called to him to stop," said the detective, "and he had no time in obeying. I do not think he would have stopped so readily if he had been fully dressed, but in the haste he had not put on his coat, vest or hat."

The officers searched the place for evidence and brought to the city prison two telescope baskets filled with ladies' wearing apparel, besides four finger rings.

Ross is an old offender and is considered by the officers a desperate and dangerous man. He was sent to the penitentiary from this county for burglary and had only been out a short time.

He was intimate with the Hollands and Oppenheimer and was thought by the officers to have had a hand in the Melrose hold up in San Francisco, for which his brother George is now held in San Francisco.

Madge Wells, the victim of his robbery, was formerly a resident of Oakland. She was released from the city prison a few days ago, having served six months for petty larceny.

MEDIUMS.

ADVICE AND ASSISTANCE FOR all—Secure a charm and wear diamonds; his parlors are always filled with anxious people seeking reliable information, and every reply is most gratifying. All are pleased. Professor Eugene gives advice on business, speculations, investments, love, courtship, marriage and divorce, settles lovers' quarrels, reunites the separated and causes a speedy and happy marriage with the one of your choice; he locates mines and buried treasures, tells you of your friends and enemies, removes evil influences, gives advice pertaining to lawsuits, locates and recovers old estates. Developing mediums a specialty. The troubled and unfortunate should seek his counsel. Thousands of families long separated have been reunited by his efforts; thousands of hearts made glad through his truthful predictions; he is the only clairvoyant on earth recognized by the profession as their brightest star; all persons unsuccessful in business, who seem to be unlucky, should visit him, seek his aid, and start aright. Thousands have become wealthy through his advice; he is ever ready to assist those with capital to find a safe and good-paying investment. Young men starting in business will find it greatly to their advantage to consult him on all matters of financial interest to themselves. Professor Eugene should not be classed with the many cheap pretenders who infest cities and bring disrepute to the profession. FOR THE SICK ROOM.

Do not add to the trials of the patient by keeping constantly before him medicine bottles, glasses and spoons. Let all these reminders of his low estate be out of sight on a neatly arranged table behind a screen or in the alcove, which it is wise to have off every sick room. To keep medicine and suggestions of medicine before the invalid is about as humane as to treat a condemned prisoner to a daily glimpse of the scaffold.

The sick room should be odorless. The air must be let in freely and as often as possible. Pile extra blankets and comfortables over the invalid; tie up his head, that the wind may find no spot at which to attack him, and open the windows and doors wide. Disinfectants are generally disagreeable, but they may be used during the airing of the room, for the draught will destroy their unpleasant odor, and they will destroy the unpleasant odor of disease.

The bedclothes and the patient's linen must be changed every day. Fresh clothing and fresh sheets will do much to prevent the atmosphere from becoming "stuffy." The patient should be bathed as often as the physician permits. He should not, however, be bathed without the doctor's knowledge and direction, for baths are as effective as medicines, and their effects are sometimes as disastrous as that of the wrong medicine.

Never ask the patient what he wishes to eat, but keep an attentive ear open for any change words he may say on the subject. Feed him according to the doctor's directions. Never bring him much food at one time. It will destroy his appetite. Let the tray be very daintily arranged, and never let it remain in the sick room for an instant after the meal is over. Even a healthy person will be revolted by the sight of scraps of food and unwashed dishes.

The windows should be shaded with dark green Holland shades, which will temper the glare of light for the sufferer's eyes. At night there should be a shaded night-light in the room. A screen should always be placed so that no direct rays may fall upon the patient's eyes.

The nurse should be neatness, quickness, quietness and good cheer personified. Her slippers should be noiseless felt affairs. Her skirts should not rustle. Her gown must be neither too sombre nor too bright. Her apron must be spotless and unrumpled, her hair smooth and shining, her patience inexhaustible, and her good cheer perpetual. She must rule the rest of the family with a rod of iron, permitting no noisy visitors, no gloomy visitors, no visitors who will relate tales of business or of household worry.

HUMOROUS.

He—The lamp is going out.

She—Yes, it hasn't been filled since you came.—Life.

Carleton—Did you dally with the breakers at Asbury Park?

Montauk—Yes; I met three charming girls and they broke me in a week.—Brooklyn Eagle.

MEDIUMS.

ADVICE AND ASSISTANCE FOR all—Secure a charm and wear diamonds; his parlors are always filled with anxious people seeking reliable information, and every reply is most gratifying. All are pleased. Professor Eugene gives advice on business, speculations, investments, love, courtship, marriage and divorce, settles lovers' quarrels, reunites the separated and causes a speedy and happy marriage with the one of your choice; he locates mines and buried treasures, tells you of your friends and enemies, removes evil influences, gives advice pertaining to lawsuits, locates and recovers old estates. Developing mediums a specialty. The troubled and unfortunate should seek his counsel. Thousands of families long separated have been reunited by his efforts; thousands of hearts made glad through his truthful predictions; he is the only clairvoyant on earth recognized by the profession as their brightest star; all persons unsuccessful in business, who seem to be unlucky, should visit him, seek his aid, and start aright. Thousands have become wealthy through his advice; he is ever ready to assist those with capital to find a safe and good-paying investment. Young men starting in business will find it greatly to their advantage to consult him on all matters of financial interest to themselves. Professor Eugene should not be classed with the many cheap pretenders who infest cities and bring disrepute to the profession. His past successes in matters of great import are a positive guarantee of his powers to perform the wonders that have made him famous. All are invited to call. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Letters with stamps answered. Address F. EUGENE, 1206 Market street, San Francisco, parlors 102, 103 and 104, first floor. Mention this paper.

FOR THE SICK ROOM.

Do not add to the trials of the patient by keeping constantly before him medicine bottles, glasses and spoons. Let all these reminders of his low estate be out of sight on a neatly arranged table behind a screen or in the alcove, which it is wise to have off every sick room. To keep medicine and suggestions of medicine before the invalid is about as humane as to treat a condemned prisoner to a daily glimpse of the scaffold.

The sick room should be odorless. The air must be let in freely and as often as possible. Pile extra blankets and comfortables over the invalid; tie up his head, that the wind may find no spot at which to attack him, and open the windows and doors wide. Disinfectants are generally disagreeable, but they may be used during the airing of the room, for the draught will destroy their unpleasant odor, and they will destroy the unpleasant odor of disease.

The bedclothes and the patient's linen must be changed every day. Fresh clothing and fresh sheets will do much to prevent the atmosphere from becoming "stuffy." The patient should be bathed as often as the physician permits. He should not, however, be bathed without the doctor's knowledge and direction, for baths are as effective as medicines, and their effects are sometimes as disastrous as that of the wrong medicine.

Never ask the patient what he wishes to eat, but keep an attentive ear open for any chance words he may say on the subject. Feed him according to the doctor's directions. Never bring him much food at one time. It will destroy his appetite. Let the tray be very daintily arranged, and never let it remain in the sick room for an instant after the meal is over. Even a healthy person will be revolted by the sight of scraps of food and unwashed dishes.

The windows should be shaded with dark green Holland shades, which will temper the glare of light for the sufferer's eyes. At night there should be a shaded night-light in the room. A screen should always be placed so that no direct rays may fall upon the patient's eyes.

The nurse should be neatness, quickness, quietness and good cheer personified. Her slippers should be noiseless felt affairs. Her skirts should not rustle. Her gown must be neither too sombre nor too bright. Her apron must be spotless and unrumpled, her hair smooth and shining, her patience inexhaustible, and her good cheer perpetual. She must rule the rest of the family with a rod of iron, permitting no noisy visitors, no gloomy visitors, no visitors who will relate tales of business or of household worry.

HUMOROUS.

He—The lamp is going out.
She—Yes. It hasn't been filled since you came.—Life.

Carleton—Did you daily with the breakers at Asbury Park?
Montauk—Yes; I met three charming girls and they broke me in a week.—Brooklyn Eagle.

She—Surely, my dear, you will consider the matter carefully before consenting to Clara's marriage to old Mr. Cashman.
He—Certainly; I shall have his books examined by an expert.—Life.

Amateur Artist—I should like to present the last picture I painted to some charitable institution. Now which would you recommend?
Cruel lady friend—The blind asylum.—New York Journal.

"She has learned all she knows," said the mother of the musical infant prodigy, "in four lessons."
"Yes," replied the eminent musician, "but think of the hundreds of lessons it will take her to forget."—Washington Star.

FORECAST MADE AT SAN FRANCISCO FOR 36 HOURS ENDING 5 P. M. SEPTEMBER 4, 1895.

Northern California—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday, except foggy along the coast at night and cloudy along the northern coast; nearly stationary temperature, except somewhat warmer tonight in the interior of the central portion; fresh westerly winds.

Southern California—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday, except foggy along the coast at night; probably slightly warmer in the northeast portion Wednesday; fresh westerly winds.

SAN FRANCISCO AND VICINITY.

Fair, except foggy at night; stationary temperature; fresh to brisk westerly winds.

W. H. HAMMON, Forecast Official.

TUESDAY.....SEPTEMBER 3, 1895.

All national flags to be contracted for delivery after next July must have an additional star added for Utah. It is made on the presumption that Utah at that time will be a full fledged State. But the vote on the adoption of the Constitution has not yet been taken, nor has the formal declaration of admission to the Union been made. It is assumed that there will be no hitch in the final proceedings.

The next international congress of those devoted to the study of American antiquities, ethnology, native languages, history and geography will be held in the City of Mexico on the 15th of October. The last congress was held in Stockholm a year ago. The next is the eleventh meeting and is intended to commemorate the discovery of America. It is reported that the Mexicans are making great preparations for this Congress. President Diaz and his cabinet will welcome the archaeologists.

Not the Red Flag.

The British labor agitator who has recently come over to this country alluded in a recent speech with much enthusiasm to the red flag as the "emblem of socialism and universal brotherhood." There is no country in the world where the red flag would be more abhorred than here. Americans are content with their national flag. It is the symbol of freedom, progress and equality. They want no other, and they do not tolerate any other by way of precedence.

The stars and stripes have no affinity with the red flag as a symbol of social revolution, violence, robbery and murder. The foreigner who comes over here and begins to talk to working men about the blessings of anarchy, which the red flag symbolizes, invites the execration of all good men. Whatever may be the social grievances they will never be corrected by any such means.

Never in the history of the country has the national flag become so dear to the hearts of the people at this time. It is under that flag that labor has attained greater rewards than under any other in the world. The red flag was the symbol of the commune, under which the most bloody atrocities of modern times were committed. A flag that symbolizes the brotherhood of blood is not wanted in this country.

The Royal Gamblers.

According to one report by telegraph the Princess Colonna has secured a legal separation from her husband. This report was contradicted. The subsequent report which comes straight from Naples is that the wife has been given a decree of divorce by a court in that city, which allows her the full custody of her three children. The story that a settlement has been made on the Prince of 60,000 francs a year was also denied. There is good ground to believe the report is true.

Prince Colonna is an inveterate gambler and spent as much of his wife's income as he could get hold of. Royalty never seeks an alliance with plebian blood unless there is a large money consideration. These fellows are generally bankrupt in everything else but a title. This they sometimes put up in the matrimonial market for the money it will bring; while the girl is merely thrown into the balance as so much surplusage. Later she comes to the consciousness that she has been sold to a brute whom she cannot help but despise. But the paying of 60,000 francs a year of John Mackay's money to a royal scamp for having abused a woman—how does that sound in these days?

Now comes the report that Anna Gould has already paid $25,000 of gambling debts contracted by her titled husband. That is probably the beginning of the end. More gambling debts, then a flare up, followed by separation and as much of a divorce as can be procured in a French court. It is the the old story of the titled fortune hunter who sooner or later tires of his American wife when there is no more money in sight. The Huntington woman married a titled foreigner who was a notorious gambler. Just how many hundred thousand dollars were paid by the wife to square his debts does not appear on record.

Young American women who sell themselves for an empty title are not deserving of much sympathy. They begin by condoning the offences of the gambler and the roue—offences that they would not overlook in any suitor at home who had no title. Not only do they do this, but they put themselves in the way to be courted by these worthless fellows. When they are married nothing less than a broadside of description in the newspapers about the pomp and circumstance of the occasion will satisfy their ambition. When the moth dashes into the candle it comes out on the other side without any wings.

At the Agricultural Fair.

It was predicted in advance that not less than 20,000 persons would attend the State Fair at Sacramento this year. A great many of these will be drawn there by the electrical exhibition which will surpass anything ever seen in the State that has been created by water power. Literally the creative force and energy of the American river has been sent down to Sacramento, a distance of 22 miles. It is a striking illustration of the shifting of power centers that is going on all over the country. It is said that the inhabitants of Folsom are greatly disappointed that this electrical energy has not been employed in building up their town instead of being sent down to increase the prosperity of Sacramento.

The State Fair represents what is best in the agriculture of the State The choicest breeds of cattle, horses, sheep and other animals are exhibited. All the best varieties of fruit are seen there. In short, the Fair is an epitome of the agricultural wealth of the State. That is the leading industrial interest. It exceeds the aggregate value of all the mining, manufacturing and lumbering of California. The agricultural productions of the State this year will probably exceed one hundred million dollars. This is not all profit by a long way. If it were, California would be the most prosperous State in the Union. And yet with all the drawbacks and they are many, it will turn out that more money has been made this year in agricultural pursuits on an equal amount of capital, than in any other industrial calling. There is no evidence that the merchants and manufactures have done better, or that the lumber dealers have had any better times.

It is doubtful if the majority of wheat growers have made any money. Most of the crop is unsold, and at present prices, hardly more than a new dollar could be got back for the old one. Horses have touched the lowest valuation ever known here. A few days ago at an auction sale of horses bred in Alameda county, the average price did not much exceed $60. These well bred animals would have brought a few years ago on an average of $250 each. On cattle the shrinkage of values has been less because stocks have been depleted all over the Northwestern States. But right here in California where thoroughbred cattle brought such fancy prices a few years ago, they have dropped down to a nominal valuation. Alderneys and Jerseys have been sold during this year at the price which common stock brought a few years ago. But this shrinkage is common to the whole country.

There is no disposition to abandon agriculture because the returns in so many instances are not satisfactory. The earth will still nourish her population. Wheat, wool, corn and wine will still add to the wealth of the State. Homesteads will be in demand. The small farmer is turning his hundred acres to such account that he can live in comfort, pay off his debts and have a margin left for improvements. All these things are suggested by the great agricultural exhibition now in progress at Sacramento.

The Lunar Eclipse Tonight.

This evening there will be a total eclipse of the moon which will be visible here at about 9 o'clock. The first contact will occur at about 7 o'clock in the evening, or a little later at this point. At about 10 o'clock the moon will be in total eclipse, although the moon will not wholly disappear in the shadow. The reason ascribed by astronomers is that the earth is surrounded by an atmosphere which possesses the property of refracting the rays of the sunlight; and enough light is bent around the edge of the globe to make the shadow which the earth casts partly luminous, so that the face of the moon will probably appear like a dull copper disk.

All these points can be verified by those who are sufficiently interested to watch these lunar phases this evening, say from 9 to 10 o'clock. Of course if the fog comes in the eclipse will be spoiled for everybody along the coast. But in the interior there will be a clear atmosphere and many small telescopes will be pointed at the moon, which will put on mourning, as it were, for a short time.

In a long letter from Honolulu published in the Washington Star, it is affirmed that there is no disposition on the part of dissentients to revive monarchy; nor are there any indications of weakness or instability in the government. This local allusion follows:

"The observation is called out by interviews reported in the San Francisco papers with Congressman Hilborn of that city, who recently visited the islands, and while here expressed himself very favorably, both as to the stability of the government and the desirableness of annexation. Mr. Hilborn is now reported as saying that annexation is undesirable; that the republic of Hawaii will soon collapse, and that the queen will before long be restored. Possibly he has been misreported. It is difficult to believe a man of the supposed intelligence of a member of Congress would have formed such opinions on local politics from anything seen or heard in Honolulu."

A few months ago there was a great deal of enthusiasm in Paris about the World's Fair outlined for the year 1900. The first sign of reaction was indicated in Lyons and other provincial cities. The real value of such fairs beyond the cost was questioned. The smaller cities were disposed to lay over the proposition a wet blanket. The reaction has reached Paris. It is urged that the only results of a World's Fair will be an unhealthy stimulus to trade, followed by stagnation.

It is certain that Chicago derived some substantial advantages from the great fair held in that city. Probably the Southern States will be greatly benefited by the Atlanta exposition, at which cotton will lead all other agricultural productions. It may be that the former World's Fair held in Paris is associated in the minds of many with a great European war which began soon afterward, and which was so unfortunte to France.

Our old friend the sunflower is exalted once more. A good agricultural authority sets it up in this way: As a plant it has no superior for vigor, rapid growth and prolific yield of seed, leaves and stalk, all of which can be utilized. The seeds are especially good as feed for fowls, and when mixed with grains they are relished by all farm animals. Fifty bushels of seed to the acre is a fair yield, and this will produce 50 gallons of oil worth $1 a gallon. In China a valuable fiber, used in silk weaving is obtained from the stalks, and they are of service as fuel and a source of potash. The Orients mix their tobacco with cured sunflower leaves and make a yellow dye from the flowers, which are also rich in honey and wax. The sunflower grows riotously in the United States and stands all extremes of weather well. Plainly it is one of nature's gifts, but as yet unappreciated.

It is reported that Governor Budd is in something of a worry about the cholera. The State Board of Health is to have a meeting to take some measures to ward off the trouble. If the disease should rage in Honolulu it is probable that more or less cases would be brought to this coast by ships. It certainly is in order to use extra precautions just now. Hardly a greater calamity could occur than the introduction of Asiatic cholera.

While the Tehuantepec railroad is completed as to the grading, bridging and laying of rails, it can not be said that the road is opened to the traffic of the world until the ports on the Atlantic and Pacific side have been completed. This work as it has been outlined, will involve an expenditure of not less than $5,000,000 and will require from one to two years to finish the harbors for deep water ships.

A DANGEROUS HEIGHTH.

How Robert Louis Stevenson Rebuked an Egotist.

A characteristic anecdote has been told since their death of the two English authors—Robert Louis Stevenson and John Addington Symonds. Stevenson, though one of the kindest men in the world, was one of the frankest, and would often startle his companions by an outburst of candor which, like a flash of lightning, revealed their shortcomings.

He visited his friend Symonds when he was last in England, and bore goodhumoredly for a day or two with the perpetual morbid self-analysis and complaints of the injustice of fate with which that able man incessantly tormented himself and his friends.

At last, while they were speaking of Alpine travel, Symonds asked his guest what was the dizziest height to which he had ever climbed, and which had alarmed him most.

"The most dangerous height to which I ever climbed," said Stevenson, "was Mount Ego I reached the top and looked all over it. I never got over that dismal view! I wouldn't advise anybody," he added, significantly, "to give himself up to looking at it. Some day one would overreach one's self, and topple in."

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Gaping Ghyll, an unfathomed abyss near Ingleborough, in Yorkshire, was recently explored by M. Martel, the French cavern hunter. After a stream which falls into the cave had been diverted, he was let down to a depth of 330 feet and there found a chamber hollowed out in the limestone, 450 feet long by 130 broad and 100 feet high, with a level bottom covered with sands and pebbles. There were no bones either of men or animals, which is unusual with these caverns.

Near the battlefield of Marathon, at Kotrona, a prehistoric burial mound recently opened yielded eleven old Mycenaean vases, two of them of gold, and some gold earrings. At a place called Krikella, where the Gauls were driven back by the Greeks in 279 before Christ, and over 20,000 of them were slain, a bronze helmet has been found, and at Lycosura the Mosaic floor of the temple of Despoina has been laid bare. In the center two lifelike lions of natural size are depicted, surrounded by successive ornamental borders.

While the spire of Salisbury Cathedral is tottering, the roof of Winchester Cathedral threatens to fall through. It is the original wooden roof erected by William Wykeham, but has been weakened by the cutting of the timbers. When Salisbury Cathedral was begun, in 1220, there was no thought of erecting a spire on the central tower. That was an afterthought, and the architect who designed the spire strained the strength of the original substructure to the utmost. It has always had to be carefully watched, and the means taken to strengthen it by iron bands and ties have only added to the weight. Of late the stone work has been decaying rapidly, so that the spire is in great danger of collapsing.

Lord Rosebery has numerous interests on this side of the Atlantic, among others a cotton mill in the South. It is said that some of his ventures hav not been very successful, and that having several obligations to meet, he intends to come over shortly and investigate his affairs himself.

The British Admiral Lucas, now reported dying, enjoys the distinction of having been the first person to win the highly prized decoration of the Victoria Cross, only conferred for exceptional feats of gallantry. He received it while a midshipman in the Crimean war having seized a shell that had fallen on the deck of the ship Hecla and flung it overboard just a second before it exploded.

George Westinghouse, patentee of the brake which bears his name, has made over $20,000,000 from his invention.

In the absence of direct and specific accusation Librarian Spofford's integrity does not need even to be defended in this community where he is known and honored. When there is authorized official statement as to the complication of accounts which just now perplexes both the Treasury Department and the librarian, the public will probably discover that the whole trouble has its origin in that peculiar form of economy which so frequently moves the government to call upon one man to do two men's work.—Star.

Joel Benton is probably known personally to more editors than any other writer. He is to be met in the editorial sanctums of almost every periodical. The reason for this is that he writes on every conceivable subject and always has something on hand to offer to any class or character of publication. He makes regular tours of the editorial offices, with his pockets stuffed with MSS. calculated to fit any and every want of the editors.

When Justice Strong Was a Boy.

New York Tribune.

Even in his infancy Justice Strong's mind seems to have had a legal bent His father was a Presbyterian clergyman—a classmate at Yale and warm personal friend of Justice Stephen J. Field's father. According to one of the stories relating to the boyhood of the future associate justice, he abstracted a cake from the family table, which was spread for some festive occasion. The loss was not discovered until the family and guests were seated at the table, and nothing was said about it at the time. After the guests had departed, however, the reverend father of the young epicure said to him:

"Don't you know, my son, that in taking that cake you broke one of God's commandments?"

"'Question 82,'" responded the young hopeful, who had the catechism at his tongue's end, "'is any man able perfectly to keep the commandments of God?'

"'Answer 82. No mere man, since the fall, is able in this life perfectly to keep the commandments of God, but doth daily break them in thought, word and deed.'"

What reply, if any, was made to this by the boy's father is not a matter of record, but it will be generally admitted that the future jurist there and then fairly won his first case.

African Mahogany.

Woodworker.

Mahogany cut from the forests discovered by Stanley in his expedition for the rescue of Emin Pasha now reaches this country. These forests are said to be inexhaustible, and are probably of equal, perhaps of greater, value than the richest gold or diamond mines of the dark continent. Capitalists were interested in Stanley's account, and a flourishing trade in the timber has resulted. Prices of mahogany products were in a fair way to rise to excessive figures until the cutting began in Africa. This has only been within the past year, but prices have already fallen 20 per cent. A car load was recently delivered at Louisville at a net cost of $80 per 1000 feet, whereas it has been a common thing for mahogany to sell at auction in Liverpool, England, for $100 per 1000 feet. Heretofore the principal sources of supply have been the forests of Central America, Cuba, San Domingo and Brazil. Already 12,000,000 feet have been cut and exported from Africa, and the trade promises to yield an immense revenue to the British and French colonists who have seized the mahogany territory. This African mahogany has a pinkish tinge in contrast to the reddish yellow color of the American varieties. The trees are very large and logs received in the shipment mentioned were two feet to three and a half feet in size. They are squared before being exported.

The stars and stripes have no affinity with the red flag as a symbol of social revolution, violence, robbery and murder. The foreigner who comes over here and begins to talk to working men about the blessings of anarchy, which the red flag symbolizes, invites the execration of all good men. Whatever may be the social grievances they will never be corrected by any such means.

Never in the history of the country has the national flag been so dear to the hearts of the people at this time. It is under that flag that labor has attained greater rewards than under any other in the world. The red flag was the symbol of the commune, under which the most bloody atrocities of modern times were committed. A flag that symbolizes the brotherhood of blood is not wanted in this country.

The Royal Gamblers.

According to one report by telegraph the Princess Colonna has secured a legal separation from her husband. This report was contradicted. The subsequent report which comes straight from Naples is that the wife has been given a decree of divorce by a court in that city, which allows her the full custody of her three children. The story that a settlement has been made on the Prince of 60,000 francs a year was also denied. There is good ground to believe the report is true.

Prince Colonna is an inveterate gambler and spent as much of his wife's income as he could get hold of. Royalty never seeks an alliance with plebian blood unless there is a large money consideration. These fellows are generally bankrupt in everything else but a title. This they sometimes put up in the matrimonial market for the money it will bring; while the girl is merely thrown into the balance as so much surplusage. Later she comes to the consciousness that she has been sold to a brute whom she cannot help but despise. But the paying of 60,000 francs a year of John Mackay's money to a royal scamp for having abused a woman—how does that sound in these days?

Now comes the report that Anna Gould has already paid $25,000 of gambling debts contracted by her titled husband. That is probably the beginning of the end. More gambling debts, then a flare up, followed by separation and as much of a divorce as can be procured in a French court. It is the the old story of the titled fortune hunter who sooner or later tires of his American wife when there is no more money in sight. The Huntington woman married a titled foreigner who was a notorious gambler. Just how many hundred thousand dollars were paid by the wife to square his debts does not appear on record.

Young American women who sell themselves for an empty title are not deserving of much sympathy. They begin by condoning the offences of the gambler and the roue—offences that they would not overlook in any suitor at home who had no title. Not only do they do this, but they put themselves in the way to be courted by these worthless fellows. When they are married nothing less than a broadside of description in the newspapers about the pomp and circumstance of the occasion will satisfy their ambition. When the moth dashes into the candle it comes out on the other side without any wings.

At the Agricultural Fair.

It was predicted in advance that not less than 20,000 persons would attend the State Fair at Sacramento this year. A great many of these will be drawn there by the electrical exhibition which will surpass anything ever seen in the State that has been created by water power. Literally the creative force and energy of the American river has been sent down to Sacramento, a distance of 22 miles. It is a striking illustration of the shifting of power centers that is going on all over the country. It is said that the inhabitants of Folsom are greatly disappointed that this electrical energy has not been employed in building up their town instead of being sent down to increase the prosperity of Sacramento.

The State Fair represents what is best in the agriculture of the State. The choicest breeds of cattle, horses, sheep and other animals are exhibited. All the best varieties of fruit are seen there. In short, the Fair is an epitome of the agricultural wealth of the State. That is the leading industrial interest. It exceeds the aggregate value of all the mining, manufacturing and lumbering of California. The agricultural productions of the State this year will probably exceed one hundred million dollars. This is not all profit by a long way. If it were California would be the most prosperous State in the Union. And yet with all the drawbacks and they are many, it will turn out that more money has been made this year in agricultural pursuits on an equal amount of capital, than in any other industrial calling. There is no evidence that the merchants and manufactures have done better, or that the lumber dealers have had any better times.

It is doubtful if the majority of wheat growers have made any money. Most of the crop is unsold, and at present prices, hardly more than a new dollar could be got back for the old one. Horses have touched the lowest valuation ever known here. A few days ago at an auction sale of horses bred in Alameda county, the average price did not much exceed $60. These well bred animals would have brought a few years ago on an average of $250 each. On cattle the shrinkage of values has been less because stocks have been depleted all over the Northwestern States. But right here in California where thoroughbred cattle brought such fancy prices a few years ago, they have dropped down to a nominal valuation. Alderneys and Jerseys have been sold during this year at the price which common stock brought a few years ago. But this shrinkage is common to the whole country.

There is no disposition to abandon agriculture because the returns in so many instances are not satisfactory. The earth will still nourish her population. Wheat, wool corn and wine will still add to the wealth of the State. Homesteads will be in demand. The small farmer is turning his hundred acres to such account that he can live in comfort, pay off his debts and have a margin left for improvements. All these things are suggested by the great agricultural exhibition now in progress at Sacramento.

The Lunar Eclipse Tonight.

This evening there will be a total eclipse of the moon which will be visible here at about 9 o'clock. The first contact will occur at about 7 o'clock in the evening, or a little later at this point. At about 10 o'clock the moon will be in total eclipse, although the moon will not wholly disappear in the shadow. The reason ascribed by astronomers is that the earth is surrounded by an atmosphere which possesses the property of refracting the rays of the sunlight; and enough light is bent around the edge of the globe to make the shadow which the earth casts partly luminous, so that the face of the moon will probably appear like a dull copper disk.

All these points can be verified by those who are sufficiently interested to watch these lunar phases this evening, say from 9 to 10 o'clock. Of course if the fog comes in the eclipse will be spoiled for everybody along the coast. But in the interior there will be a clear atmosphere and many small telescopes will be pointed at the moon, which will put on mourning, as it were, for a short time.

In a long letter from Honolulu published in the Washington Star, it is affirmed that there is no disposition on the part of dissentients to revive monarchy, nor are there any indications of weakness or instability in the government. This local allusion follows:

"The observation is called out by interviews reported in the San Francisco papers with Congressman Hilborn of that city, who recently visited the islands, and while here expressed himself very favorably, both as to the stability of the government and the desirableness of annexation. Mr. Hilborn is now reported as saying that annexation is undesirable; that the republic of Hawaii will soon collapse, and that the queen will before long be restored. Possibly he has been misreported. It is difficult to believe a man of the supposed intelligence of a member of Congress would have formed such opinions on local politics from anything seen or heard in Honolulu."

A few months ago there was a great deal of enthusiasm in Paris about the World's Fair outlined for the year 1900. The first sign of reaction was indicated in Lyons and other provincial cities. The real value of such fairs beyond the cost was questioned. The smaller cities were disposed to lay over the proposition a wet blanket. The reaction has reached Paris. It is urged that the only results of a World's Fair will be an unhealthy stimulus to trade, followed by stagnation.

It is certain that Chicago derived some substantial advantages from the great fair held in that city. Probably the Southern States will be greatly benefited by the Atlanta exposition, at which cotton will lead all other agricultural productions. It may be that the former World's Fair held in Paris is associated in the minds of many with a great European war which began soon afterward and which was so unfortunate to France.

Our old friend the sunflower is exalted once more. A good agricultural authority sets it up in this way. As a plant it has no superior for vigor, rapid growth and prolific yield of seed leaves and stalk, all of which can be utilized. The seeds are especially good as feed for fowls, and when mixed with grains they are relished by all farm animals. Fifty bushels of seed to the acre is a fair yield, and this will produce 50 gallons of oil worth $1 a gallon. In China a valuable fiber, used in silk weaving is obtained from the stalks and they are of service as fuel and a source of potash. The Orients mix their tobacco with cured sunflower leaves and make a yellow dye from the flowers, which are also rich in honey and wax. The sunflower grows riotously in the United States and stands all extremes of weather well. Plainly it is one of nature's gifts, but as yet unappreciated.

It is reported that Governor Budd is in something of a worry about the cholera. The State Board of Health is to have a meeting to take some measures to ward off the trouble. If the disease should rage in Honolulu it is probable that more or less cases would be brought to this coast by ships. It certainly is in order to use extra precautions just now. Hardly a greater calamity could occur than the introduction of Asiatic cholera.

While the Tehuantepec railroad is completed as to the grading, bridging and laying of rails, it can not be said that the road is opened to the traffic of the world until the ports on the Atlantic and Pacific side have been completed. This work as it has been outlined, will involve an expenditure of not less than $5,000,000 and will require from one to two years to finish the harbors for deep water ships.

A DANGEROUS HEIGHTH.

How Robert Louis Stevenson Rebuked an Egotist.

A characteristic anecdote has been told since their death of the two English authors—Robert Louis Stevenson and John Addington Symonds Stevenson, though one of the kindest men in the world, was one of the frankest, and would often startle his companions by an outburst of candor which, like a flash of lightning, revealed their shortcomings.

He visited his friend Symonds when he was last in England and bore goodhumoredly for a day or two with the perpetual morbid self-analysis and complaints of the injustice of fate with which that able man incessantly tormented himself and his friends.

At last while they were speaking of Alpine travel, Symonds asked his guest what was the dizziest height to which he had ever climbed, and which had alarmed him most.

"The most dangerous height to which I ever climbed," said Stevenson, 'was Mount Ego. I reached the top and looked all over it. I never got over that dismal view. I wouldn't advise anybody,' he added, significantly, 'to give himself up to looking at it. Some day one would overreach one's self, and topple in."

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Gaping Ghyll, an unfathomed abyss near Ingleborough, in Yorkshire, was recently explored by M. Martel, the French cavern hunter. After a stream which falls into the cave had been diverted, he was let down to a depth of 330 feet and there found a chamber hollowed out in the limestone 450 feet long by 130 broad and 100 feet high with a level bottom covered with sands and pebbles. There were no bones either of men or animals, which is unusual with these caverns.

Near the battlefield of Marathon at Kotrona, a prehistoric burial mound recently opened yielded eleven old Mycenaean vases two of them of gold, and some gold earrings. At a place called Krikella, where the Gauls were driven back by the Greeks in 279 before Christ, and over 20,000 of them were slain, a bronze helmet has been found, and at Lycosura the Mosaic floor of the temple of Despoina has been laid bare. In the center two lifelike lions of natural size are depicted, surrounded by successive ornamental borders.

While the spire of Salisbury Cathedral is tottering, the roof of Winchester Cathedral threatens to fall through. It is the original wooden roof erected by William Wykeham but has been weakened by the cutting of the timbers. When Salisbury Cathedral was begun, in 1220, there was no thought of erecting a spire on the central tower. That was an afterthought, and the architect who designed the spire strained the strength of the original substructure to the utmost. It has always had to be carefully watched, and the means taken to strengthen it by iron bands and ties have only added to the weight. Of late the stone work has been decaying rapidly, so that the spire is in great danger of collapsing.

Lord Rosebery has numerous interests on this side of the Atlantic, among others a cotton mill in the South. It is said that some of his ventures have not been very successful, and that having several obligations to meet, he intends to come over shortly and investigate his affairs himself.

The British Admiral Lucas, now reported dying, enjoys the distinction of having been the first person to win the highly prized decoration of the Victoria Cross, only conferred for exceptional feats of gallantry. He received it while a midshipman in the Crimean war having seized a shell that had fallen on the deck of the ship Hecla and flung it overboard just a second before it exploded.

In the absence of direct and specific accusation Librarian Spofford's integrity does not need even to be defended in this community where he is known and honored. When there is authorized official statement as to the complication of accounts which just now perplexes both the Treasury Department and the librarian, the public will probably discover that the whole trouble has its origin in that peculiar form of economy which so frequently moves the government to call upon one man to do two men's work.—Star.

When Justice Strong Was a Boy.

New York Tribune.

Even in his infancy Justice Strong's mind seems to have had a legal bent. His father was a Presbyterian clergyman—a classmate at Yale and warm personal friend of Justice Stephen J. Field's father. According to one of the stories relating to the boyhood of the future associate justice, he abstracted a cake from the family table, which was spread for some festive occasion. The loss was not discovered until the family and guests were seated at the table, and nothing was said about it at the time. After the guests had departed, however, the reverend father of the young epicure said to him:

"Don't you know, my son, that in taking that cake you broke one of God's commandments?"

"Question 82," responded the young hopeful, who had the catechism at his tongue's end, "Is any man able perfectly to keep the commandments of God?"

"Answer 82. No more man, since the fall is able in this life perfectly to keep the commandments of God, but doth daily break them in thought, word and deed."

What reply, if any, was made to this by the boy's father is not a matter of record, but it will be generally admitted that the future jurist there and then fairly won his first case.

African Mahogany.

Woodworker.

Mahogany cut from the forests discovered by Stanley in his expedition for the rescue of Emin Pasha now reaches this country. These forests are said to be inexhaustible and are probably of equal, perhaps of greater, value than the richest gold or diamond mines of the dark continent. Capitalists were interested in Stanley's account, and a flourishing trade in the timber has resulted. Prices of mahogany products were in a fair way to rise to excessive figures until the cutting began in Africa. This has only been within the past year, but prices have already fallen 20 per cent. A car load was recently delivered at Louisville at a net cost of $80 per 1000 feet, whereas it has been a common thing for mahogany to sell at auction in Liverpool, England, for $100 per 1000 feet. Heretofore the principal sources of supply have been the forests of Central America, Cuba, San Domingo and Brazil. Already 12,000,000 feet have been cut and exported from Africa, and the trade promises to yield an immense revenue to the British and French colonists who have seized the mahogany territory. This African mahogany has a pinkish tinge in contrast to the reddish yellow color of the American varieties. The trees are very large and logs received in the shipment mentioned were two feet to three and a half feet in size. They are squared before being exported.

CYCLING IS ALL RIGHT.

It Is Beneficial to Health if Common Sense Rules Are Observed.

Dr. S. H. Buteau Gives Good Advice of Especial Interest to Female Riders.

Don't be afraid to go out for a bicycle ride. It's all right and it won't lead to your having what Con Crowley calls "Spinal Maginnis," despite what some of the doctors are saying.

As a matter of fact, there are more physicians who declare wheeling is beneficial than insist it is injurious. So, as it is a case of "who shall decide where doctors disagree," the best way out of the difficulty is to go right on cycling if you enjoy it and do not detect any impairment of your health.

That some of the leading medicos of the town are themselves confirmed wheelmen is a pretty good evidence that there is but little radically wrong with the sport and when you corner one of these riders you will find that he places but little faith in the sensational statements that have been made during the past few days regarding the ill effects of cycling. One of the most pronounced on the subject is Dr. S. H. Buteau, who in conversation with a Tribune man today said:

"All this talk about bicycling being a forerunner of disease and death is nonsense. It is a sport that not only provides recreation for the mind but is beneficial to the health. There are certain rules and conditions that must be observed, as is the case in all forms of exercise, but if ordinary care to taken there is no reason why wheeling should not take the lead among the outdoor sports.

"There are some people who should not ride. For instance, any one with heart trouble. The reason for this is apparent—the exercise is somewhat violent. Then again, a person with pronounced lung trouble should eschew cycling, for it demands an unusual exercise of the lungs. This, however, is in the case where the trouble already exists, where there is a hereditary tendency cycling will do good if done in moderation for it means exercise in the open air and the promotion of a healthy condition of the lungs.

"The person who has kidney trouble should not ride, as the jarring no matter how slight it might be, would, by being continuous, produce an aggravation. So much for those who should not ride, now for those who should.

THOSE WHO SHOULD RIDE.

"There is nothing better for nervous people. By this term I classify those who are irritable or who suffer from melancholia or hysteria. It is the exhilaration of the exercise that will benefit them and it seems especially adapted to such ailments. Another individual who should ride is the man who is overworked mentally. When cycling, his attention is constantly diverted to the panorama he passes, such as the roads, sidewalks, crossings, vehicles and so forth and in this way his mind is relieved and finds rest from special fixed ideas which have been occupying him.

"There is a good deal, though, in the way a person rides. If the saddle is too low it causes a cramping of the chest and straining of the back and impedes the full action of the muscles of the leg. The seat should be high enough to allow the leg to be well extended, as relaxation is then obtained during the downward stroke of the pedals. As far as women are concerned, I can not speak too strongly against their wearing corsets when on wheels. Outside of the sacrifice of comfort it means that many of their muscles are tied up and can not enjoy the freedom which is then especially needed. A spring saddle is of course far preferable to a rigid one, one. A woman should consult her doctor as to when she should or should not ride; as a general thing, though, I will say it is beneficial to her.

DO NOT GO TOO FAR.

"Moderation can not be too strongly advocated. A man should not only not ride more than fifty miles at a time as an outside limit, but he should take four or five hours to do it. Although there are many women who could make the trip equally as easily as a man, still as a general thing twenty-five miles should be the limit for a female rider. I would advocate the riding of about ten miles a day—half that distance early in the morning and the balance towards evening.

"All this talk about the death of Giles through spinal meningitis caused by wheeling amounts to little. There are many thousands of cyclists in the United States, and in Paris alone about 40,000 people have been riding for the past two years, yet there has never been a case reported to the medical fraternity of death or disease brought on directly by the sport. Simply because by a coincidence an individual who was a wheelman died of spinal meningitis, in the absence of other proof, it is foolish to attribute his demise to that cause.

"There is a good deal of nonsense being voiced, too, about the jarring of the spine. Why, the thickest cushioned part of the spinal column is the anterior on which the weight is thrown in a slight inclination while bicycle riding, hence, in bending over his wheel, while traversing a rough road, a rider receives less shock than he would if he remained rigid and it is undoubtedly this feeling of ease that makes a cyclist unconsciously stoop as he passes over a piece of rough ground. I do not advise general riding in that posture, though, for it cramps the lungs; the point I wish to convey is that it is arrant nonsense to declare that that position affects the nerves and brain. Spinal meningitis as a matter of fact, has often been found in individuals without any apparent direct cause.

"In conclusion," added the doctor, "I will say that with ordinary care, such as not overdoing it or running risks when the health is poor, bicycling is one of the best outdoor sports in which a person can indulge. It seems a pity that after we have for so many years been endeavoring to get woman to take some outdoor exercise that just as she is doing it some alarmists should come to the front and try and prevent the recreation. I hope no one will be frightened off by the absurd statements that have been printed, and I am sure that in this expression of my views I am simply voicing the sentiments of a large number of my colleagues."

AS OTHERS SEE US.

An Oakland young man who used his bicycle too much has died of cerebro-spinal meningitis as a consequence, and several doctors predict through the columns of the Examiner, a vast number of deaths and a great increase in disease in consequence of bicycle riding, one of said doctors going so far as to express fear that the human race may, in a generation or two, peter out altogether in consequence thereof.

We do not take this alarming view of the situation. It is evident that the Fool Killer has got himself a bicycle and is on the road. That was to be expected. It will be a case of the survival of the fittest in the matter of bicycle riding as in the other affairs of life. Cyclists who do not know how to take care of themselves, and have none to advise them, or who are tendered good advice and refuse to take it will die of meningitis or some other disease that is a natural consequence of excessive or otherwise improper use of the bicycle.

Every new fad has its victim, but after a while the fad dies out altogether or becomes one of the social institutions, and claims no more than the average number of victims decreed by the beneficent law of nature, of which the above named Fool Killer is the chief executive officer. People to this day kill themselves with cold baths and Indian clubs and even with pedestrianism or cold water.

The bicycle craze will regulate itself. Riders will soon learn what can and what cannot be safely done on the wheel, and then only the average amount of harm will occur.—San Francisco Report.

An Oakland youth died day before yesterday of cerebro spinal meningitis which a physician attributed to excessive bicycle riding, and now a hullabaloo about the danger that lurks in the insidious wheel is on, savants are loud-mouthed in discussion and the clamor is not stilled. Men are found to insist that the bicycle should be retired to desuetude, and others are heard to maintain that one cannot get too much of it. The whole debate is preposterous. As well might men contend that because somebody killed himself by gluttony, it is not well to eat, as to make single instances like the foregoing the basis of a general arraignment of the bicycle. The case is an evidence of nothing except the truth of the old proposition that temperance is profitable in all things. If an Oakland youth died from immoderate cycling, thousands of people have gained health by the moderate use of the wheel. Ride a wheel, of course, if you want to be up with the times, in "that's the way the world is moving," but ride it like an intelligent human being, and not like a madman.—A. J. W. in Fresno Republican.

A clergyman of the Oakland presbytery argued the other day before it that on the day of Pentecost 3000 sinners were converted at one time while it now required 100 Christians 365 days to convert seven sinners, making an average of 11 2-3 Christians to a sinner. He urged that Oakland needs a revival.—Alameda Telegram.

The Berkeley Gazette says "it is a pretty sight to see a dozen girls, more or less, of a Sunday morning, dressed in neat working gowns and other wear according, riding into Oakland on the electric cars with their lunch baskets and a few flowers, going to work in the factories of that pious city. While the girls are silent to a certain degree, they quietly say it is a matter of foreput with them, but the Gazette consoles itself with the thought that 'they look pretty however.'"—Alameda Telegram.

There is a lively war on between Major Davie and the Board of Public Works and City Engineer Wilson. It is safe to say that the people of Oakland are thus regret their worshipping at the Populistic altar.—Livermore Herald.

The Livermore Herald is stirring up the question of county division generously advocating Niles as a county seat. Oakland at present hogs everything, and has no eye to the wants or wishes of the balance of the county. We hope Livermoreans will succeed. If they do it will put fresh heart into the Gilroy scheme to divide Santa Clara county and get it in and out of the clutches of the Garden City octopus.—Gilroy Gazette.

It is amusing to hear Brother Oakes talk about indisputable claims. This is the first time we were made aware that Haywards had what might be called a clinch on the county seat of the new county that is bound to be formed in the near future. Perhaps Brother Oakes believes that the agitation last fall about moving the county seat from Oakland to Haywards gave him the right to claim it. How about a majority vote? Suppose that the people of Washington and Murray townships should combine on Niles? Eden has about 1515 votes and Washington and Murray 2131. This would allow for a large scattering vote.

So you see that if Haywards adopts obstruction tactics there is a way to carry it over her veto.

There is no disputing the fact that Niles is nearer the geographical center.—Livermore Herald.

It is an anomalous state of affairs that neither the municipalities of Oakland or Alameda nor the county authorities claim jurisdiction over the Webster street road to make it a highway such as its importance demands, but that an association of citizens must take up the improvement at private subscription. Where the public must so generally be benefited by this improvement, it is strange that there should be such a long delay and so much quibbling.—Alameda Telegram.

The Commercial Telephone Company of Alameda county, which has an application pending for a franchise in this city, has obtained its first foothold in Oakland, the subject having been reopened and the request granted after having been once refused. The outlook is good for an opposition which promises to reduce rates one-half and put in only long distance 'phones. A rate war will be in order now.—Telegram.

J. R. Wharton, an Englishman who resides in Oakland, at the special request of the Marquis of Queensberry, has hunted up the genealogy of Lady Sholto Douglas, and has declared that she is fit to take her place in the ranks of British aristocracy. That is certainly very uncomplimentary to the young woman. However, this genealogical business is a fraud and a fake, pure and simple. The Lord and his wife both come through the same strains—they are equally descendants of that contemptible sneak thief, Adam, who stole the apple and then turned State's evidence against Eve, and of his jaglets, Noah, who lay drunk and naked in his vineyard after swilling a lot of foot wine.—San Jose Mercury.

Says the Berkeley Gazette on the subject of "Good Roads:" Comparisons may be odious, but let us make one of a neighbor near by. Alameda is referred to. Observe her fine streets, and upon their borders the fine houses and gardens. How pretty and attractive to look at. Another thing to the financial man there is money in such property and it will attract.—Alameda Telegram.

Oakland is called the City of Churches and is supposed to have many charitable people in its midst. It is, therefore, not very strange for an outsider to wonder why it was that a traveling circus could take $14,000, and a first-class entertainment for charity, such as the phantasma exhibition, could not take in enough to pay expenses, and that a larger part of the spectators "beat" its way in at a side door and evaded the payment of admission. Oakland likes to boast of her charity, but it is of a very doubtful quantity expressed in dollars and cents. The recent Fabiola festival, which also occurred in Oakland, was nearly all display, and by the time that was paid for the amount left for charity was very small.—Alameda Telegram.

IT IS A FUN-MAKER,

"U and I" Pleases All the Patrons of the Oakland.

A Number of Good Shows Now on at the Local Play Houses.

The last week's engagement of Jas. F. Post and Stewart's Comic Players commenced last night at the Oakland Theater, when they appeared in the side-splitting farce comedy, "U & I," rejuvenated right up to date. This company drew crowded houses all last week. Saturday and Sunday nights the house was packed to the doors.

"U & I" is a farce comedy containing a really good plot. It is a neat, clean and very interesting performance. The action is quick, the dialogue witty and the situations funny. The musical numbers and specialties introduced during the action of the comedy are a treat. The programme includes solos duetts and a whistling trio. Following are the specialties: Duster dance, Babette, Nancy Hanks and Maud S., Irish reel, Babette and Clubber; song, "U and I," Ungerblatz and Innes; grand duets Van Gouldvilt and Alle. Vermicelli, Robbers Bold, entire company; Strange Ideas, Prof. Ungerblatz; Della Clarey, O'Donovan Innes, Amalgamation Medley entire company; Ah Sing dancing trio, Babbette, Ungerblatz and Innes; The Society Nightingale, Miss Vila Sayne.

Next week May Nannary with a strong company will commence a season at the Oakland. The opening play will be "Quenna" in which the talented young artist made a star hit last season.

THE MACDONOUGH.

The John Drew engagement, which is the next attraction at the Macdonough, will be one of those events in the theatrical history of Oakland that will cause many pleasant reminiscences to surround it in the future. The company, headed by John Drew will give a splendid repertoire and several delightful performances will be the result.

THE BALDWIN.

John Drew commenced his third week at the Baldwin last night. The bill was "The Masked Ball." It is the best thing for genuine fun that the company has yet presented.

THE COLUMBIA.

"A Woman of No Importance," one of Oscar Wilde's clever society dramas, was the attraction at the Columbia last evening. "The Mayor's Appointment" was a delicious curtain raiser. The members of the Stock well company are equal to the play and a very delightful performance is the result.

THE ORPHEUM.

The fall and winter season of vaudeville was inaugurated last night at the Orpheum. The new bill is especially clever and the artists who appear are on a par with anything given for weeks at the attractive resort. Among the new faces are the Mexican equilibrist, whose feats are simply marvelous. He is by far the best in his line that has appeared on the stage in San Francisco for a long time.

MOROSCO'S.

"Across the Potomac," one of Augustus Pitou's stirring dramas of the civil war, holds the boards this week at Morosco's. It is a well staged production and the competent stock company fills the caste in excellent style. The play will have a good run this week.

BUSH STREET THEATER.

"Captain Cook," a romantic historical opera, was produced for the first time in San Francisco last night at the Bush Street Theater. The music is by Noah Brandt and the libretto by Sands Forman. The opera has some good music and some good features that will make it popular. There was an excellent house.

THE TIVOLI.

The Tivoli inaugurated a season of Italian grand opera last night with "Faust." The magnificent staging of the production was a feature. The house was packed to the doors and the revival of Gounod's great work was enthusiastically received.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The great exposition at the Mechanics' Pavilion grows upon the public. Thousands who daily find their way there are given much to enjoy and interest them. The School orchestra of fifty pieces is one of the great attractions. There are thousands of exhibits, and as a whole the display has never been equalled in the history of industrial expositions in this State.

Yesterday was the fortieth anniversary of the marriage of Captain and Mrs. B. F. Bliss and last evening their friends took possession of their home on Third street. The bride and groom had been visiting in Alameda all day and upon their return found the house lighted and elaborately decorated with ferns and roses. In the dining room a long table was spread and the whole thing had the effect of making Captain and Mrs. Bliss think they had entered the wrong house. Al Foster amused the guests with comic songs and recitations and Professor Louis Swasey charmed all with his unequaled banjo playing. After a delicious supper the young folks danced until midnight. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Al Foster, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lagorio, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gracier, Mr. and Mrs. L. MABEL.

When Mabel laughed, my heart laughed too,
And sorrow, fleet-winged, cleaving through
The saddened air, betook its way
Like night-shades swept before the day—
When Mabel laughed.

When Mabel smiled, it seemed to me
The earth was gladder. From the tree
The linnet's voice surged sweetly o'er
The nodding meadow's scented store—
When Mabel smiled.

When Mabel sighed, the silvered streams
Moved sadder, and the sun's rich beams
Were chilled, as though an icy blast
Had filtered them as down they passed—
When Mabel sighed.

When Mabel died my heart died too,
And sorrows rushed on me anew,
Like autumn leaves that march along
O'er summer's change, a million strong;
The earth grew bleak as endless wold;
The linnet's throat went harsh and cold
Of breaking hearts; all sounds seemed shrill
And out of tune; hope's pulse stood still—
When Mabel died.

But Mabel laughs—on spirit wings
I pierce the haze, and hear the strings
Of singing lutes; and from the train
Of seraphs bursts a gladsome strain—
When Mabel laughs.

TWO DAMAGE SUITS.

Victims of Railroad Accidents Want Recompense.

W. H. Hutton has brought suit to recover $20,000 damages from the Southern Pacific Company for injuries that he alleges were sustained in the collision on the Seventh street local in October, at Oak street station, two years ago. Hutton was a gymnastic instructor. He says he was thrown forty feet when the "flyer" and the regular train came together and the injuries he sustained have prevented him from following his profession ever since.

Margaret E. Taylor wants $10,000 damages from the Oakland, San Leandro and Haywards Electric road. She claims she was greatly injured by being thrown to the ground at Third and Washington streets on April 11 last by the sudden starting of a car, from which she was alighting.

CYCLING IS ALL RIGHT.

It Is Beneficial to Health if Common Sense Rules Are Observed.

Dr. S. H. Buteau Gives Good Advice of Especial Interest to Female Riders.

Don't be afraid to go out for a bicycle ride. It's all right and it won't lead to your having what Con Crowley calls "Spinal Maginnis," despite what some of the doctors are saying.

As a matter of fact, there are more physicians who declare wheeling is beneficial than insist it is injurious. So, as it is a case of "who shall decide where doctors disagree," the best way out of the difficulty is to go right on cycling if you enjoy it and do not detect any impairment of your health.

That some of the leading medicos of the town are themselves confirmed wheelmen is a pretty good evidence that there is but little radically wrong with the sport and when you corner one of these riders you will find that he places but little faith in the sensational statements that have been made during the past few days regarding the ill effects of cycling. One of the most pronounced on the subject is Dr. S. H. Buteau, who in conversation with a Tribune man today said:

"All this talk about bicycling being a forerunner of disease and death is nonsense. It is a sport that not only provides recreation for the mind but is beneficial to the health. There are certain rules and conditions that must be observed, as is the case in all forms of exercise, but if ordinary care is taken there is no reason why wheeling should not take the lead among the outdoor sports.

"There are some people who should not ride. For instance, any one with heart trouble. The reason for this is apparent—the exercise is somewhat violent. Then again, a person with pronounced lung trouble should eschew cycling, for it demands an unusual exercise of the lungs. This, however, is in the case where the trouble already exists; where there is a hereditary tendency cycling will do good if done in moderation, for it means exercise in the open air and the promotion of a healthy condition of the lungs.

"The person who has kidney trouble should not ride, as the jarring no matter how slight it might be, would, by being continuous, produce an aggravation. So much for those who should not ride; now for those who should.

THOSE WHO SHOULD RIDE.

"There is nothing better for nervous people. By this term I classify those who are irritable or who suffer from melancholia or hysteria. It is the exhilaration of the exercise that will benefit them and it seems especially adapted to such ailments. Another individual who should ride is the man who is overworked mentally. When cycling, his attention is constantly diverted to the panorama he passes, such as the roads, sidewalks, crossings, vehicles and so forth and in this way his mind is relieved and finds rest from special fixed ideas which have been occupying him.

"There is a good deal, though, in the way a person rides. If the saddle is too low it causes a cramping of the chest and straining of the back and impedes the full action of the muscles of the leg. The seat should be high enough to allow the leg to be well extended, as relaxation is then obtained during the downward stroke of the pedals. As far as women are concerned, I can not speak too strongly against their wearing corsets when on wheels. Outside of the sacrifice of comfort it means that many of their muscles are tied up and can not enjoy the freedom which is then especially needed. A spring saddle is of course far preferable to a rigid one, one. A woman should consult her doctor as to when she should or should not ride; as a general thing, though, I will say it is beneficial to her.

DO NOT GO TOO FAR.

"Moderation can not be too strongly advocated. A man should not only not ride more than fifty miles at a time as an outside limit, but he should take four or five hours to do it. Although there are many women who could make the trip equally as easily as a man, still as a general thing twenty-five miles should be the limit for a female rider. I would advocate the riding of about ten miles a day—half that distance early in the morning and the balance towards evening.

"All this talk about the death of Giles through spinal meningitis caused by wheeling amounts to little. There are many thousands of cyclists in the United States, and in Paris alone about 40,000 people have been riding for the past two years, yet there has never been a case reported to the medical fraternity of death or disease brought on directly by the sport. Simply because by a coincidence an individual who was a wheelman died of spinal meningitis, in the absence of other proof, it is foolish to attribute his demise to that cause.

"There is a good deal of nonsense being voiced, too, about the jarring of the spine. Why, the thickest cushioned part of the spinal column is the anterior on which the weight is thrown in a slight inclination while bicycle riding, hence, in bending over his wheel, while traversing a rough road, a rider receives less shock than he would if he remained rigid and it is undoubtedly this feeling of ease that makes a cyclist unconsciously stoop as he passes over a piece of rough ground. I do not advise general riding in that posture, though, for it cramps the lungs; the point I wish to convey is that it is arrant nonsense to declare that that position affects the nerves and brain. Spinal meningitis as a matter of fact, has often been found in individuals without any apparent direct cause.

"In conclusion," added the doctor, "I will say that with ordinary care, such as not overdoing it or running risks when the health is poor, bicycling is one of the best outdoor sports in which a person can indulge. It seems a pity that after we have for so many years been endeavoring to get woman to take some outdoor exercise that just as she is doing it some alarmists should come to the front and try and prevent the recreation. I hope no one will be frightened off by the absurd statements that have been printed, and I am sure that in this expression of my views I am simply voicing the sentiments of a large number of my colleagues."

AS OTHERS SEE US.

An Oakland young man who used his bicycle too much has died of cerebro-spinal meningitis as a consequence, and several doctors predict through the columns of the Examiner, a vast number of deaths and a great increase in disease in consequence of bicycle riding, one of said doctors going so far as to express fear that the human race may, in a generation or two, peter out altogether in consequence thereof.

We do not take this alarming view of the situation. It is evident that the Fool Killer has got himself a bicycle and is on the road. That was to be expected. It will be a case of the survival of the fittest in the matter of bicycle riding as in the other affairs of life. Cyclists who do not know how to take care of themselves, and have none to advise them, or who are tendered good advice and refuse to take it, will die of meningitis or some other disease that is a natural consequence of excessive or otherwise improper use of the bicycle.

Every new fad has its victim, but after a while the fad dies out altogether or becomes one of the social institutions, and claims no more than the average number of victims decreed by the beneficent law of nature, of which the above named Fool Killer is the chief executive officer. People to this day kill themselves with cold baths and Indian clubs and even with pedestrianism or cold water.

The bicycle craze will regulate itself. Riders will soon learn what can and what cannot be safely done on the wheel, and then only the average amount of harm will occur.—San Francisco Report.

An Oakland youth died day before yesterday of cerebro spinal meningitis which a physician attributed to excessive bicycle riding, and now a hullabaloo about the danger that lurks in the insidious wheel is on. savants are loudmouthed in discussion and the clamor is not stilled. Men are found to insist that the bicycle should be retired to desuetude, and others are heard to maintain that one cannot get too much of it. The whole debate is preposterous. As well might men contend that, because somebody killed himself by gluttony, it is not well to eat, as to make single instances like the foregoing the basis of a general arraignment of the bicycle. The case is an evidence of nothing except the truth of the old proposition that temperance is profitable in all things. If an Oakland youth died from immoderate cycling, thousands of people have gained health by the moderate use of the wheel. Ride a wheel, of course, if you want to be up with the times, for "that's the way the world is moving," but ride it like an intelligent human being, and not like a madman.—A. J. W. in Fresno Republican.

A clergyman of the Oakland presbytery argued the other day before it that on the day of Pentecost 3000 sinners were converted at one time while it now required 100 Christians 365 days to convert seven sinners, making an average of 51 2-3 Christians to a sinner. He urged that Oakland needs a revival.—Alameda Telegram.

The Berkeley Gazette says it is a pretty sight to see a dozen girls, more or less, of a Sunday morning, dressed in neat working gowns and other wear according, riding into Oakland on the electric cars with their lunch baskets and a few flowers, going to work in the canneries of that pious city. While the girls are reticent to a certain degree, they quietly say it is a matter of foreput with them, but the Gazette consoles itself with the thought that "they look pretty however."—Alameda Telegram.

There is a lively war on between Mayor Davie and the Board of Public Works and City Engineer Wilson. It is safe to say that the people of Oakland are duly regret their worshipping at the Populistic altar.—Livermore Herald.

The Livermore Herald is stirring up the question of county division, generously advocating Niles as a county seat. Oakland at present hogs everything and has no eye to the wants or wishes of the balance of the county. We hope Livermoreans will succeed. If they do it will put fresh heart into the Gilroy scheme to divide Santa Clara county and get this end out of the clutches of the Garden City octopus.—Gilroy Gazette.

It is amusing to hear Brother Oakes talk about indisputable claims. This is the first time we were made aware that Haywards had what might be called a claim on the county seat of the new county that is bound to be formed in the near future. Perhaps Brother Oakes believes that the agitation last fall about moving the county seat from Oakland to Haywards gave him the right to claim it. How about a majority vote? Suppose that the people of Washington and Murray townships should combine on Niles? Eden has about 1515 votes and Washington and Murray 2154. This would allow for a large scattering vote.

So you see that if Haywards adopts obstruction tactics there is a way to carry it over her veto.

There is no disputing the fact that Niles is nearer the geographical center.—Livermore Herald.

It is an anomalous state of affairs that neither the municipalities of Oakland or or Alameda nor the county authorities claim jurisdiction over the Webster street road to make it a highway such as its importance demands, but that an association of citizens must take up the improvement at private subscription. Where the public must so generally be benefited by this improvement, it is strange that there should be such a long delay and so much quibbling.—Alameda Telegram.

The Commercial Telephone Company of Alameda county, which has an application pending for a franchise in this city, has obtained its first foothold in Oakland, the subject having been reopened and the request granted after having been once refused. The outlook is good for an opposition which promises to reduce rates one-half and put in only long distance 'phones. A rate war will be in order now.—Telegram.

J. R. Wharton, an Englishman who resides in Oakland, at the special request of the Marquis of Queensberry, has hunted up the genealogy of Lady Sholto Douglas, and has declared that she is fit to take her place in the ranks of British aristocracy. That is certainly very uncomplimentary to the young woman. However, this genealogical business is a fraud and a fake, pure and simple. The Lord and his wife both come through the same strains—they are equally descendants of that contemptible sneak thief, Adam, who stole the apple and then turned State's evidence against Eve, and of his jaglets, Noah, who lay drunk and naked in his vineyard after swilling a lot of foot wine.—San Jose Mercury.

Says the Berkeley Gazette on the subject of "Good Roads:" Comparisons may be odious, but let us make one of a neighbor near by. Alameda is referred to. Observe her fine streets, and upon their borders the fine houses and gardens. How pretty and attractive to look at. Another thing to the financial man there is money in such property and it will attract.—Alameda Telegram.

Oakland is called the City of Churches and is supposed to have many charitable people in its midst. It is, therefore, not very strange for an outsider to wonder why it was that a traveling circus could take $14,000, and a first-class entertainment for charity, such as the phantasma exhibition, could not take in enough to pay expenses, and that a larger part of the spectators "beat" its way in at a side door and evaded the payment of admission. Oakland likes to boast of her charity, but it is of a very doubtful quantity expressed in dollars and cents. The recent Fabiola festival, which also occurred in Oakland, was nearly all display, and by the time that was paid for the amount left for charity was very small.—Alameda Telegram.

IT IS A FUN-MAKER.

"U and I" Pleases All the Patrons of the Oakland.

A Number of Good Shows Now on at the Local Play Houses.

The last week's engagement of Jas. F. Post and Stewart's Comic Players commenced last night at the Oakland Theater, when they appeared in the side-splitting farce comedy, "U & I," rejuvenated right up to date. This company drew crowded houses all last week. Saturday and Sunday nights the house was packed to the doors.

"U & I" is a farce comedy containing a really good plot. It is a neat, clean and very interesting performance. The action is quick, the dialogue witty and the situations funny. The musical numbers and specialties introduced during the action of the comedy are a treat. The programme includes solos, ducets and a whistling trio. Following are the specialties: Duster dance, Babette, Nancy Hanks and Maud St.; Irish reel, Babette and Clubber; song, "U and I," Ungerblatz and Innes; grand ducts, Van Gouldvilt and Miss Vermicelli; Robbers Bold, entire company; Strange Ideas, Prof. Ungerblatz; Della Clancy, O'Donnovan Innes; Amalgamation Medley, entire company; Ah Sing dancing trio, Babbette, Ungerblatz and Innes; The Society Nightingale, Miss Vila Sayne.

Next week May Nannary with a strong company will commence a season at the Oakland. The opening play will be "Queena," in which the talented young artist made a star hit last season.

THE MACDONOUGH.

The John Drew engagement, which is the next attraction at the Macdonough, will be one of those events in the theatrical history of Oakland that will cause many pleasant reminiscences to surround it in the future. The company, headed by John Drew, will give a splendid repertoire and several delightful performances will be the result.

THE BALDWIN.

John Drew commenced his third week at the Baldwin last night. The bill was "The Masked Ball." It is the best thing for genuine fun that the company has yet presented.

THE COLUMBIA.

"A Woman of No Importance," one of Oscar Wilde's clever society dramas, was the attraction at the Columbia last evening. "The Mayor's Appointment" was a delicious curtain raiser. The members of the Stockwell company are equal to the play and a very delightful performance is the result.

THE ORPHEUM.

The fall and winter season of vaudeville was inaugurated last night at the Orpheum. The new bill is especially clever and the artists who appear are on a par with anything given for weeks at the attractive resort. Among the new faces are the Mexicen equilibrist, whose feats are simply marvelous. He is by far the best in his line that has appeared on the stage in San Francisco for a long time.

MOROSCO'S.

"Across the Potomac," one of Augustus Pitou's stirring dramas of the civil war, holds the boards this week at Morosco's. It is a well staged production and the competent stock company fills the caste in excellent style. The play will have a good run this week.

BUSH STREET THEATER.

"Captain Cook," a romantic historical opera, was produced for the first time in San Francisco last night at the Bush Street Theater. The music is by Noah Brandt and the libretto by Sands Forman. The opera has some good music and some good features that will make it popular. There was an excellent house.

THE TIVOLI.

The Tivoli inaugurated a season of Italian grand opera last night with "Faust." The magnificent staging of the production was a feature. The house was packed to the doors and the revival of Gounod's great work was enthusiastically received.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The great exposition at the Mechanics' Pavilion grows upon the public. The thousands who daily find their way there are given much to enjoy and interest them. The School orchestra of fifty pieces is one of the great attractions. There are thousands of exhibits, and as a whole the display has never been equalled in the history of industrial expositions in this State.

Yesterday was the fortieth anniversary of the marriage of Captain and Mrs. B. B. Bliss and last evening their friends took possession of their home on Third street. The bride and groom had been visiting in Alameda all day and upon their return found the house lighted and elaborately decorated with ferns and roses. In the dining room a long table was spread and the whole thing had the effect of making Captain and Mrs. Bliss think they had entered the wrong house. Al Foster amused the guests with comic songs and recitations and Professor Louis Swasey charmed all with his unequaled banjo playing. After a delicious supper the young folks danced until midnight. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Al Foster, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lagorea, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gracier, Mr. and Mrs. L. The meeting last night was enthusiastic and the members hope that at the next meeting they will be able to report the collection of $7000.

MABEL.

When Mabel laughed, my heart laughed too,
And sorrow, fleet-winged, cleaving through
The saddened air, betook its way
Like night-shades swept before the day—
When Mabel laughed.

When Mabel smiled, it seemed to me
The earth was gladder. From the tree
The linnet's voice surged sweetly o'er
The nodding meadow's scented store—
When Mabel smiled.

When Mabel sighed, the silvered streams
Moved sadder; and the sun's rich beams
Were chilled, as though an icy blast
Had filtered them as down they passed—
When Mabel sighed.

When Mabel died my heart died too,
And sorrows rushed on me anew.
Like autumn leaves that march along
O'er summer's change, a million strong;
The earth grew bleak as endless wold;
The linnet's throat went harsh and told
Of breaking hearts; all sounds seemed shrill
And out of tune; hope's pulse stood still—
When Mabel died.

But Mabel laughs—on spirit wings
I pierce the haze, and hear the strings
Of singing lutes; and from the train
Of seraphs bursts a gladsome strain—
When Mabel laughs.

TWO DAMAGE SUITS.

Victims of Railroad Accidents Want Recompense.

W. H. Hutton has brought suit to recover $20,000 damages from the Southern Pacific Company for injuries that he alleges were sustained in the collision on the Seventh street local in October, at Oak street station, two years ago. Hutton was a gymnastic instructor. He says he was thrown forty feet when the "flyer" and the regular train came together and the injuries he sustained have prevented him from following his profession ever since.

Margaret E. Taylor wants $10,000 damages from the Oakland, San Leandro and Haywards Electric road. She claims she was greatly injured by being thrown to the ground at Third and Washington streets on April 11th last by the sudden starting of a car, from which she was alighting.

MEN OF MILLIONS.

The Count of Monte Cristo Pales Besides These Nabobs.

LI HUNG CHANG RANKS FIRST.

He Owns Pawnshops and Rice Fields and Is Worth $500,000,000.

COL. NORTH'S GREAT LUCK.

The Duke of Westminster's Fortune Mostly in London.

Who are the richest men in the world? It is doubtful whether one person in a hundred could answer this question offhand. Certainly few would put at the top the name of Li Hung Chang, the great chancellor of the Chinese Empire, yet that is where he belongs. After careful search and investigation, the New York Sunday World has arrived at the following list, which may be accepted as authentic:

Li Hung Chang	$ 500,000,000
John D. Rockefeller	180,000,000
Duke of Westminster	100,000,000
Colonel North	100,000,000
Cornelius Vanderbilt	100,000,000
Woh Qua	100,000,000
Total	$1,080,000,000

Think of it! Over a billion dollars. Enough to buy a bicycle for every man in the country. Yet it is doubtful if any of the modern Croesuses gets any more pleasure out of life than does the average man, who works hard for six days, and sleeps and eats well, and rests on the seventh. No nightmares over great hoards of gold, and lying awake to checkmate the schemes of other millionaires.

A man can only eat so much, whether he is a prince or a pauper. In fact, the latter's appetite is ordinarily far and away ahead of the former's. Then the pleasure of sleeping in a solid gold bed, certainly after one's eyes are closed, is in no way superior to dozing on a $2 cot.

LI HUNG CHANG'S MILLIONS.

But two of these multi-millionaires inherited their fortunes. One is the Duke of Westminster, the other is Cornelius Vanderbilt. Li Hung Chang alone is in danger of losing his, but then his head might go, too, and a person without that necessary ornament wouldn't enjoy even a cracker.

As viceroy of the Chinese Empire he was for years in a position to accumulate wealth of every sort. With his five hundred millions he is the owner of great rice fields and innumerable pawn shops which are the most profitable. In the districts where he resides he is looked upon as a veritable god. Hundreds of slaves and servants wait on him, and except when he is called to court to visit his employer, the emperor, he passes his time studying. Everybody knows that the Chinaman has to earn his spurs by brain work.

In China any young man who attends strictly to business has no horror of losing his place. He has to pass examination, but they decide simply whether or not he is to climb the ladder or stay where he is.

Li Hung Chang is a self made man and climbed the ladder himself. The wealth he has accumulated is the reward of his industry. Rumor says that a large part of his money is invested in English consols and American railway securities.

Of course the last war with Japan put him in a queer position. Undoubtedly he will stop where he is if he can. In any event were he to go away, he can land on several continents and still find wealth enough there awaiting him. While the money Li Hung Chang has accumulated has strings on it, so to speak, it is in his own name and is increasing, so reputable authorities say, at the rate of over $50,000 a day.

THE NITRATE KING.

Colonel North is an Englishmen. He is not a man of great refinement. When he was fourteen years old he could not read or write. Like many of his sort he knocked about the world, serving sometimes as a common sailor aboard ships which carried material from the old country to the new. He is a Yorkshire man and arrived in Chili when he was but twenty-three years old. Originally a boiler riveter he found employment in the town of Huasco. At this time the nitrate fields of Peru were beginning to be talked about as fields for speculation. He had a talent for mechanics and mastered every detail of the business. After he had seen the fortune in the stuff, he raised capital, invested it and founded the fortune which it today rated at a hundred millions.

He secured control of the nitrate beds and arranged for a water supply in that region. He needed ships and railways for transporting the stuff and also arranged for the capital necessary to build them.

Seeing the vast fortune which was to be his, he availed himself of his opportunity, and when war broke out between Chili and Peru found an opening for accumulating more wealth. He got control of the railway, water and gas works and other corporations, which he managed most successfully and made paying properties. After the vast flow of wealth which tumbled into his pockets, he returned to England, leaving his business in good hands, and then proceeded to enjoy himself.

Although he is a chief figure at the race tracks now, he is too busy a man to simply sit down and look on. He is interested in many new schemes, most of which have proved more than profitable. His recent defeat for election to Parliament he takes calmly. He scatters money lavishly. The Prince of Wales has become his intimate friend. His racing stables are among the best in England. His country house is in Marvel.

THE DUKE OF WESTMINSTER.

The Duke of Westminster, who has enormous interests in London property, is not only the richest of Great Britain's peers, but also one of the best liked men in England. His popularity among all classes has been gained not altogether in politics or in the tangled webs of diplomacy, but in the hunting fields. He would as soon race with his tenants as with a lot of princelings. Once he was master of the "Glorious Cheshire Hounds," and once won the blue ribbon of the day. No other living man is a better judge of horses.

Grosvenor is his family name, and his descent is traced to an illustrious house which flourished in the times of the Norman conquests. He is over seventy years old, but is as young, apparently, as a spring chicken. His father was a Marquis, and he himself was created a duke in 1874. His income is variously estimated at from five to seven hundred thousand pounds a year. If even the smaller figure is accepted, it means that two millions and a half of dollars are his annual income. He owns the land on which many of the principal markets are situated. His ancestral seats are many and his hospitality is unbounded.

Some years ago he inherited an additional fortune of $30,000 a year from his mother, who was nearly ninety years old when she died. The heir to his wealth is a grandson, a boy of eighteen, who is now at Cambridge. The vast property he owns in London was bought by one of his ancestors in the sixteenth century, when it was only an outlying farm of London. It was Gladstone who made him a duke, but since then he and the Grand Old Man have differed and are not friends politically.

THE OIL MAGNATE.

Years ago, when the oil excitement was the talk of the country, fortunes were made and lost. The days of Coaloil Johnny may never return again, but in all the history of the world there never was an instance when paupers became millionaires so rapidly as then. John D. Rockefeller made his vast fortune, which is estimated at over $180,000,000 out of oil as easily as the farmer's wife gets pin money from her chickens. His golden eggs were laid by obliging refiners, who had to do as he said or go to smash.

Originally four brothers came from Germany in the middle of the last century and settled in New Jersey. They formed quite a settlement in Plainfield, but towards the close of the last century they began to separate. One branch went to New England, another came to this State, while a third went to Pennsylvania. John D. Rockefeller and brothers come from the New England branch. The New York Rockefellers are poor. There are lots of Rockefellers in New Jersey but they have not yet acquired wealth. One great grandson of one of the four brothers is still living in Plainfield. He is almost a hundred years old. Godfried Rockefeller, who travelled by wagon with his family to Shamokin, Pa., died in 1818 in ignorance of the black oil treasure under his farm.

After knocking about, John D. Rockefeller, whose father was a physician, started a commission business. He was then twenty-two years old. Oil was the principal article in which he dealt. He started a refinery in Cleveland, Ohio, and organized a company which is now the Standard Oil Company. From this beginning he has achieved immense power and wealth. He is a strict Baptist and his given two millions to the Chicago University. With his family he lives quietly in this city, a most unassuming man.

In spite of Rockefeller's enormous wealth his charities are large, and his wife and two charming daughters as well give away many thousands of dollars each year to persons who they think deserving of more than alms. An instance occurred some weeks ago, where the four children of a former schoolmate of Mrs. Rockefeller were sent to one of the best boarding schools in Ohio. Many struggling churches, and not all of them Baptist either, have been not only put on their metaphorical feet, but kept standing by Rockefeller money.

Mr. Rockefeller's family is very musical, and there is a home quartette, consisting of father, mother, and daughters, and four stringed instruments, and the works of Brahms, Chopin and Saint-Saens are interpreted by them in a manner that would be creditable to many symphony clubs.

Miss Edith Rockefeller has a private hansom, and, when in town, may be seen shopping almost any day or visiting the hospitals or her friends. The family care little for society and live almost plainly in a large but comfortable house.

THE RICHEST VANDERBILT.

Cornelius Vanderbilt is probably the thriftiest of the sons of William H., and has actually more money than he knows what to do with. His magnificent house facing Central Park is eagerly sought by almost every visitor to this city. His daughter Gertrude is, after Miss Rockefeller, the greatest heiress in the country. In spite of the newspaper stories about her wonderful beauty, she is really a plain-looking girl, but she has been educated abroad, and has an undeniable charm. This perhaps comes from her common sense as much as anything else.

The Vanderbilt money is inherited, and the system bearing the name, is supposed to be worth near three hundred millions, of which this favored son owns a third. While he is somewhat of a society man, Cornelius Vanderbilt does not care for that kind of life except for the pleasure it gives his family. He finds most pleasure in the quiet of his library. He wants to be left severely alone. He enjoys particularly a month's walk in the Swiss Tyrol or a vacation in the wildernesses of the Norwegian forests.

While he is a subscriber to all the social gayeties at Newport, Trouville and other resorts, he does it more for the social position of his children than for himself.

The wealth of Cornelius Vanderbilt is estimated by those who know him intimately as eighty millions. While he apparently realizes the responsibility of the control of this vast sum of money, he knows, too, that its possession carries with it the possibility of great good, and his quiet charities and real kindnesses of heart are known to thousands.

The Breakers, the gorgeous cottage he occupies at Newport, is as handsome a country place as can be found anywhere. It is a veritable palace. Mr. Vanderbilt and his family generally spend a few months of the year abroad.

WOH QUA, TEA CROESUS.

Woh Qua, the great Canton tea merchant, has a fortune estimated at a hundred millions. For years the trade in tea has been centered in him. From the smallest settlement in Maine to the largest capital of Europe, tea is everywhere a daily beverage. Whether it comes by caravan across Siberia or by boat around the Horn and the Cape of Good Hope, it is as much a necessity as bread. Years ago Woh Qua, who had worked himself up in the firm with which he was connected, looked ahead fifty years and saw the vast possibilities of the business. Every canton and district were mapped out in his mind as accurately as ever was the field whereon hostile armies were to meet.

He knew not only the state of the crops, but how they could be transported to the different markets. He was an invaluable man. From the junior partner he assumed control. He was shrewd and soon found himself in possession and control of the business, which for years was unrivalled anywhere.

Every agent paid him a commission. Every pound of tea grown in the Celestial Empire had sooner or later to come to him or to his agents. It was a wonderful scheme. Incidentally he started a banking business in connection with his different agencies.

English merchants offered him a gorgeous time if he would come to the Continent. But he steadfastly refused all these offers. The next Paris Exposition may cause him to change his mind; at least, so he wrote George Francis Train the other day. In any event he is one of the richest men in the world and does not care who knows it.

The Sage of Madison Square is well acquainted with Woh Qua, and describes him as a most polished gentleman who speaks several languages, and who, through intercouse with the brainiest of the world's traders, has acquired a vast fund of knowledge. He lives in a magnificent villa on the edge of Canton and entertains persons of all nationalities. If an Englishman is his guest he will be made to feel at home by getting as fine a roast of beef as the English club ever furnished. A cellar of European wines is part of his commissariat department.

A good share of his money like part of the fortune of Li Hung Chang, is invested abroad. His vessels are numbered by the thousand, and as a matter of fact he commands more ships than the admiral of any principality. His children have had their education finished in Europe, and are more than half civilized—or rather modernized.

There are, of course, other great individual fortunes, such as those of Baron Hirsch, the Astors, and the Rothschilds. The two latter, however, are jointly owned by half a dozen members of the family, and while the sum itself is great, it would not make each member as rich as either of the six men mentioned above if it were to be apportioned among them. Anybody can be wealthy who chooses to save his money, but the kind assistance of fickle fortune is a great aid. With the exception of the Duke of Westminster and possibly Li Hung Chang, the other nabobs are comparatively young men.

How much will they be worth when they die?

COTTOLENE.

FRY it in Cottolene

Fry your food in Cottolene instead of lard and it will be free from that greasiness and "richness" so distressing to dyspeptics; the flavor will be delicious instead of rancid, and your food will do you good. Put it in a cold pan, heating it with the pan. Cottolene reaches the cooking point much quicker than lard—care should therefore be taken not to overheat it. Follow these instructions—you will never use lard again.

Genuine Cottolene has trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin. Made only by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco, Portland, Oregon, New York, Boston.

A Good Place to Drink.

There is a great deal of regret experienced because of the great raise that has just taken place in the price of eggs, wholesale as well as retail. But this raise does not effect the price of a sherry and egg at the Oakland Chowder House, run by Charles A. Appeldorn, 858 Washington street, where a glass of the best sherry and one of the purest of eggs may now and at any time be bought for five cents.

MEN OF MILLIONS.

The Count of Monte Cristo Pales Besides These Nabobs.

LI HUNG CHANG RANKS FIRST.

He Owns Pawnshops and Rice Fields and Is Worth $500,000,000.

COL. NORTH'S GREAT LUCK.

The Duke of Westminster's Fortune Mostly In London.

Who are the richest men in the world? It is doubtful whether one person in a hundred could answer this question offhand. Certainly few would put at the top the name of Li Hung Chang, the great chancellor of the Chinese Empire, yet that is where he belongs. After careful search and investigation, the New York Sunday World has arrived at the following list, which may be accepted as authentic:

Li Hung Chang	$ 500,000,000
John D. Rockefeller	180,000,000
Duke of Westminster	200,000,000
Colonel North	100,000,000
Cornelius Vanderbilt	100,000,000
Woh Qua	100,000,000
Total	$1,080,000,000

Think of it! Over a billion dollars. Enough to buy a bicycle for every man in the country. Yet it is doubtful if any of the modern Croesuses gets any more pleasure out of life than does the average man, who works hard for six days, and sleeps and eats well, and rests on the seventh. No nightmares over great hoards of gold, and lying awake to checkmate the schemes of other millionaires.

A man can only eat so much, whether he is a prince or a pauper. In fact, the latter's appetite is ordinarily far and away ahead of the former's. Then the pleasure of sleeping in a solid gold bed, certainly after one's eyes are closed, is in no way superior to dozing on a $2 cot.

LI HUNG CHANG'S MILLIONS.

But two of these multi-millionaires inherited their fortunes. One is the Duke of Westminster, the other is Cornelius Vanderbilt. Li Hung Chang alone is in danger of losing his, but then his head might go, too, and a person without that necessary ornament wouldn't enjoy even a cruiser.

As viceroy of the Chinese Empire he was for years in a position to accumulate wealth of every sort. With his five hundred millions he is the owner of great rice fields and innumerable pawn shops which are the most profitable. In the districts where he resides he is looked upon as a veritable god. Hundreds of slaves and servants wait on him, and except when he is called to court to visit his emperor, the emperor, he passes his time studying. Everybody knows that the Chinaman has to earn his spurs by brain work.

In China any young man who attends strictly to business has no horror of losing his place. He has to pass examination, but they decide simply whether or not he is to climb the ladder or stay where he is.

Li Hung Chang is a self made man and climbed the ladder himself. The wealth he has accumulated is the reward of his industry. Rumor says that a large part of his money is invested in English consols and American railway securities.

Of course the last war with Japan put him in a queer position. Undoubtedly he will stop where he is if he can. In any event were he to go away, he can land on several continents and still find wealth enough there awaiting him. While the money Li Hung Chang has accumulated has strings on it, so to speak, it is in his own name and is increasing, so reputable authorities say, at the rate of over $50,000 a day.

THE NITRATE KING.

Colonel North is an Englishman. He is not a man of great refinement. When he was fourteen years old he could not read or write. Like many of his sort he knocked about the world, serving sometimes as a common sailor aboard ships which carried material from the old country to the new. He is a Yorkshire man and arrived in Chili when he was but twenty-three years old. Originally a boiler riveter he found employment in the town of Huasco. At this time the nitrate fields of Peru were beginning to be talked about as fields for speculation. He had a talent for mechanics and mastered every detail of the business. After he had seen the fortune in the stuff, he raised capital, invested it and founded the fortune which is today rated at a hundred millions.

He secured control of the nitrate beds and arranged for a water supply in that region. He needed ships and railways for transporting the stuff and also arranged for the capital necessary to build them.

Seeing the vast fortune which was to be his, he availed himself of his opportunity, and when war broke out between Chili and Peru found an opening for accumulating more wealth. He got control of the railway, water and gas works and other corporations, which he managed most successfully and made paying properties. After the vast flow of wealth which tumbled into his pockets, he returned to England, leaving his business in good hands, and then proceeded to enjoy himself.

Although he is a chief figure at the race tracks now, he is too busy a man to simply sit down and look on. He is interested in many new schemes, most of which have proved more than profitable. His recent defeat for election to Parliament he takes calmly. He scatters money lavishly. The Prince of Wales has become his intimate friend. His racing stables are among the best in England. His country house is in Marvel.

THE DUKE OF WESTMINSTER.

The Duke of Westminster, who has enormous interests in London property, is not only the richest of Great Britain's peers, but also one of the best liked men in England. His popularity among all classes has been gained not altogether in politics or in the tangled webs of diplomacy, but in the hunting fields. He would as soon race with his tenants as with a lot of princelings. Once he was master of the "Glorious Cheshire Hounds," and once won the blue ribbon of the day. No other living man is a better judge of horses.

Grosvenor is his family name, and his descent is traced to an illustrious house which flourished in the times of the Norman conquests. He is over seventy years old, but is as young, apparently, as a spring chicken. His father was a Marquis, and he himself was created a duke in 1871. His income is variously estimated at from five to seven hundred thousand pounds a year. If even the smaller figure is accepted, it means that two millions and a half of dollars are his annual income. He owns the land on which many of the principal markets are situated. His ancestral seats are many and his hospitality is unbounded.

Some years ago he inherited an additional fortune of $300,000 a year from his mother, who was nearly ninety years old when she died. The heir to his wealth is a grandson, a boy of eighteen, who is now at Cambridge. The vast property he owns in London was bought by one of his ancestors in the sixteenth century, when it was only an outlying farm of London. It was Gladstone who made him a duke, but since then he and the Grand Old Man have differed and are not friends politically.

THE OIL MAGNATE

Years ago, when the oil excitement was the talk of the country, fortunes were made and lost. The days of Coaloil Johnny may never return again, but in all the history of the world there never was an instance when paupers became millionaires so rapidly as then. John D. Rockefeller made his vast fortune, which is estimated at over $150,000,000 out of oil as easily as the farmer's wife gets pin money from her chickens. His golden eggs were laid by obliging refiners, who had to do as he said or go to smash.

Originally four brothers came from Germany in the middle of the last century and settled in New Jersey. They formed quite a settlement in Plainfield, but towards the close of the last century they began to separate. One branch went to New England, another came to this State, while a third went to Pennsylvania. John D. Rockefeller and brothers come from the New England branch. The New York Rockefellers are poor. There are lots of Rockefellers in New Jersey but they have not yet acquired wealth. One great grandson of one of the four brothers is still living in Plainfield. He is almost a hundred years old. Godfried Rockefeller, who travelled by wagon with his family to Shamokin, Pa., died in 1918 in ignorance of the black oil treasure under his farm.

After knocking about, John D. Rockefeller, whose father was a physician, started a commission business. He was then twenty-two years old. Oil was the principal article in which he dealt. He started a refinery in Cleveland, Ohio and organized a company which is now the Standard Oil Company. From this beginning he has achieved immense power and wealth. He is a strict Baptist and has given two millions to the Chicago University. With his family he lives quietly in this city, a most unassuming man.

In spite of Rockefeller's enormous wealth his charities are large, and his wife and two charming daughters as well give away many thousands of dollars each year to persons who they think deserving of more than alms. An instance occurred some weeks ago, where the four children of a former schoolmate of Mrs. Rockefeller were sent to one of the best boarding schools in Ohio. Many struggling churches, and not all of them Baptist either, have been not only put on their metaphorical feet, but kept standing by Rockefeller money.

Mr. Rockefeller's family is very musical, and there is a home quartette, consisting of father, mother, and daughters, and four stringed instruments, and the works of Brahms, Chopin and Saint-Saens are interpreted by them in a manner that would be creditable to many symphony clubs.

Miss Edith Rockefeller has a private hansom, and, when in town, may be seen shopping almost any day or visiting the hospitals or her friends. The family care little for society and live almost plainly in a large but comfortable house.

THE RICHEST VANDERBILT.

Cornelius Vanderbilt is probably the shrewdest of the sons of William H., and has actually more money than he knows what to do with. His magnificent house facing Central Park is eagerly sought by almost every visitor to this city. His daughter Gertrude is, after Miss Rockefeller, the greatest heiress in the country. In spite of the newspaper stories about her wonderful beauty, she is really a plain-looking girl, but she has been educated abroad, and has an undeniable charm. This perhaps comes from her common sense as much as anything else.

The Vanderbilt money is inherited, and the system bearing the name, is supposed to be worth near three hundred millions, of which this favored son owns a third. While he is somewhat of a society man, Cornelius Vanderbilt does not care for that kind of life except for the pleasure it gives his family. He finds most pleasure in the quiet of his library. He wants to be left severely alone. He enjoys particularly a month's walk in the Swiss Tyrol or a vacation in the wildernesses of the Norwegian forests.

While he is a subscriber to all the social gazettes at Newport, Trouville and other resorts, he does it more for the social position of his children than for himself.

The wealth of Cornelius Vanderbilt is estimated by those who know him intimately as eighty millions. While he apparently realizes the responsibility of the control of this vast sum of money, he knows, too, that its possession carries with it the possibility of great good, and his quiet charities and real kindnesses of heart are known to thousands.

The Breakers, the gorgeous cottage he occupies at Newport, is as handsome a country place as can be found anywhere. It is a veritable palace. Mr. Vanderbilt and his family generally spend a few months of the year abroad.

WOH QUA, TEA CROESUS.

Woh Qua, the great Canton tea merchant, has a fortune estimated at a hundred millions. For years the trade in tea has been centered in him. From the smallest settlement in Maine to the largest capital of Europe, tea is everywhere a daily beverage. Whether it comes by caravan across Siberia or by boat around the Horn and the Cape of Good Hope, it is as much a necessity as bread. Years ago Woh Qua, who had worked himself up in the firm with which he was connected, looked ahead fifty years and saw the vast possibilities of the business. Every canton and district were mapped out in his mind as accurately as ever was the field whereon hostile armies were to meet.

He knew not only the state of the crops, but how they could be transported to the different markets. He was an invaluable man. From the junior partner he assumed control. He was shrewd and soon found himself in possession and control of the business, which for years was unrivalled anywhere.

Every agent paid him a commission. Every pound of tea grown in the Celestial Empire had sooner or later to come to him or to his agents. It was a wonderful scheme. Incidentally he started a banking business in connection with his different agencies.

English merchants offered him a gorgeous time if he would come to the Continent. But he steadfastly refused all these offers. The next Paris Exposition may cause him to change his mind; at least, so he wrote George Francis Train the other day. In any event he is one of the richest men in the world and does not care who knows it.

The Sage of Madison Square is well acquainted with Woh Qua, and describes him as a most polished gentleman who speaks several languages, and who, through intercourse with the brainiest of the world's traders, has acquired a vast fund of knowledge. He lives in a magnificent villa on the edge of Canton and entertains persons of all nationalities. If an Englishman is his guest he will be made to feel at home by getting as fine a roast of beef as the English club ever furnished. A cellar of European wines is part of his commissariat department.

A good share of his money like part of the fortune of Li Hung Chang, is invested abroad. His vessels are numbered by the thousand, and as a matter of fact he commands more ships than the admiral of any principality. His children have had their education finished in Europe, and are more than half civilized—or rather modernized.

There are, of course, other great individual fortunes, such as those of Baron Hirsch, the Astors, and the Rothschilds. The two latter, however, are jointly owned by half a dozen members of the family, and while the sum itself is great, it would not make each member as rich as either of the six men mentioned above if it were to be apportioned among them. Anybody can be wealthy who chooses to save his money, but the kind assistance of fickle fortune is a great aid. With the exception of the Duke of Westminster and possibly Li Hung Chang, the other nabobs are comparatively young men.

How much will they be worth when they die?

COTTOLENE.

FRY it in Cottolene

Fry your food in Cottolene instead of lard and it will be free from that greasiness and "richness" so distressing to dyspeptics; the flavor will be delicious instead of rancid, and your food will do you good. Put it in a cold pan, heating it with the pan. Cottolene reaches the cooking point much quicker than lard—care should therefore be taken not to overheat it. Follow these instructions—you will never use lard again.

Genuine Cottolene has trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cottonplant wreath—on every tin. Made only by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco, Portland, Oregon, New York, Boston.

A Good Place to Drink.

There is a great deal of regret experienced because of the great raise that has just taken place in the price of eggs, wholesale as well as retail. But this raise does not effect the price of a sherry and egg at the Oakland Chowder House, run by Charles A. Appelcorn, 858 Washington street, where a glass of the best sherry and one of the purest of eggs may now and at any time be bought for five cents.

THE GATES WILL STAY.

No Truth in the Rumor That They Will Soon Be Removed.

Pintsch Gas Will Soon Be In Use on All the Local Trains.

WEST OAKLAND, Sept. 3.—The rumors circulated of late about this section to the effect that the gates will shortly be taken off the Seventh street locals are without foundation. The statements that the locations of the stations would be changed are also untrue. The story is supposed to have originated from an employe of the company who meant it more as a joke than anything else.

A railroad official said this morning that he did not believe there would be any changes whatever. He stated that the gates are giving entire satisfaction.

Meantime the opponents of the gates are raising subscriptions to test the matter in the courts. They declare their intention of arresting the gatemen if they refuse to let them ride free when the time for action arrives. The test will be made on the Bassett ordinance, which was passed by the City Council about three months ago. The reason why it has not been enforced is that its advocates are short of funds.

MORE GAS.

The Pintsch gas, which is being used to light the cars of the Seventh street local is now to be placed in the cars of the Alameda and Berkeley locals. Tanks containing 113 cubic feet of gas are being put under the cars and by the 1st of October the company expects to have the new system in operation on all its local service. The gas light is a great improvement over the coal oil light and gives general satisfaction.

THE FORCE REDUCED.

The squad of detectives at the railroad yards now numbers but seven men. The company formerly had nine stationed at the yards, but as crime has been very scarce there of late the force was reduced. The officers now on duty are: Chief Wm. E. Wallace, Thomas Collins, C. L. French, William Patterson, "Scotty" Smith, Patrick Mackey and A. H. Graves. Five are on night duty and during the day there are two on watch.

TRAMPS BY THE CAR LOAD.

Nearly every freight train that arrives at the yards has a full car load of tramps on board. Scarcely a night passes that Chief Detective Wallace does not have to send a dozen or so out of the yards. They come here from all over the country and the railroad detectives are kept busy.

BUTCHER SCHULTZ ILL.

Frederick Schultz, the Center street butcher, met with a peculiar accident a few days ago which has kept him in bed ever since. Mr. Schultz was carrying a heavy beef into his store from the hooks outside when a vein in one of his legs broke. It was followed by a rush of blood and in a very short time Schultz was weak. A doctor was summoned and Schultz was ordered to bed.

HAD A GOOD TIME.

Sunset Rebekah Lodge, No. 100, gave a dime social at Bartlett hall Friday evening which was largely attended by members of the order and their friends. An interesting programme was carried out.

CAREFUL AND PROMPT.

The People's Express Company Is Always on Time.

No traveler nowadays leaves home expecting to enjoy himself, and at the same time look after his luggage whenever he is compelled to change cars or when he reaches his destination. The work of looking after luggage is now done by specialists in their line. Among these the People's Express and Transfer Company is in the lead. It calls for your trunks at your home or your hotel and checks them for you to any part of the United States. When you reach your destination your baggage is there also. This company also tends to the shipping and trans-shipping of goods to San Francisco with equal dispatch. The office is 418 Ninth street. The telephone is 326.

LEGAL.

ADJUDICATION OF INSOLVENCY.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Alameda, State of California.

In the matter of Joseph A. Miller, insolvent debtor.

Joseph A. Miller having filed in this court his petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that he is an insolvent debtor, the said Joseph A. Miller is hereby declared to be insolvent.

The sheriff of Alameda county is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said insolvent debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account, and papers, and, to keep the same safely until the appointment of an assignee herein.

All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said insolvent debtor, or to deliver any property belonging to the said insolvent debtor to him, or to any person, firm or corporation or association for his use.

The said debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property, until the further order of this court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered that all the creditors of said debtor whose claims shall have been place on file in the office of the clerk of this court at least two days prior to the 4th day of September, 1895, be and appear before the Hon. F. B. Ogden, judge of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, in open court, at the court room of said court, Department No. 2, in the County of Alameda, on the said 4th day of September, 1895, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, to prove their debts and choose an assignee of the estate of said debtor.

It is further ordered that this order be published in the Oakland Tribune, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the County of Alameda, as often as the said newspaper is printed before the said day set for the meeting of creditors.

And it is further ordered that, in the meantime, all proceedings against the said insolvent debtor be stayed.

Dated August 26th, 1895.

F. B. OGDEN,
Judge of Superior Court.

E. M. Gibson, Welles Whitmore and Ben F. Woolner, attorneys for petitioner.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Alameda, State of California.
Department No. 3.
No. 11,310.

CARRIE M. ANDROSS, plaintiff,
vs.
WINFIELD S. ANDROSS, defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and the complaint filed in said County of Alameda, in the office of said clerk of said Superior Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Winfield S. Andross, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after service on you of this summons, if served within this county, otherwise within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment and a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant on the grounds of wilful desertion of plaintiff by defendant and for the wilful neglect of defendant to provide the common necessities of life for plaintiff and for general relief, special references being made to the complaint on file herein for further particulars.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, this, 27th day of August, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

FRANK C. JORDAN, Clerk,
By F. D. Adams, Deputy Clerk.
L. H. Van Schaick, attorney for plaintiff, 606 Montgomery st., San Francisco.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT IN AND for the County of Alameda, State of California.

In the matter of the estate of Johanna Crosbie, deceased.
Department 4. No. 3825.

Order to show cause why order of sale of real estate should not be made.

William Crosbie, the administrator of the estate of said Johanna Crosbie, deceased, having filed his petition herein, duly verified, praying for an order of sale of real estate of said decedent, for the purposes therein set forth,

It is Therefore Ordered by the said court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on Monday the 2d day of September, 1895, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day at the courtroom of Department No. 4, probate, of said Superior Court at the Court House in the City of Oakland, County of Alameda, State of California, to show cause why an order of sale should not be granted to the said administrator to sell so much of the real estate of said deceased as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four successive weeks in the Oakland Tribune, a daily newspaper printed and published in said county.

Dated, this 6th day of August, A. D., 1895.

A. L. FRICK, Judge.

OUTINGS

THE GATES WILL STAY.

Pintsch Gas Will Soon Be in Use on All the Local Trains.

WEST OAKLAND, Sept. 3.—The rumors circulated of late about this section to the effect that the gates will shortly be taken off the Seventh street locals are without foundation. The statements that the locations of the stations would be changed are also untrue. The story is supposed to have originated from an employe of the company who meant it more as a joke than anything else.

A railroad official said this morning that he did not believe there would be any changes whatever. He stated that the gates are giving entire satisfaction.

Meantime the opponents of the gates are raising subscriptions to test the matter in the courts. They declare their intention of arresting the gatemen if they refuse to let them ride free when the time for action arrives. The test will be made on the Bassett ordinance, which was passed by the City Council about three months ago. The reason why it has not been enforced is that its advocates are short of funds.

MORE GAS.

The Pintsch gas, which is being used to light the cars of the Seventh street local is now to be placed in the cars of the Alameda and Berkeley locals. Tanks containing 119 cubic feet of gas are being put under the cars and by the 1st of October the company expects to have the new system in operation on all its local service. The gas light is a great improvement over the coal oil light and gives general satisfaction.

THE FORCE REDUCED.

The squad of detectives at the railroad yards now numbers but seven men. The company formerly had nine stationed at the yards, but as crime has been very scarce there of late the force was reduced. The officers now on duty are: Chief Wm. E. Wallace, Thomas Collins, C. L. French, William Patterson, "Scotty" Smith, Patrick Mackey and A. H. Graves. Five are on night duty and during the day there are two on watch.

TRAMPS BY THE CAR LOAD.

Nearly every freight train that arrives at the yards has a full car load of tramps on board. Scarcely a night passes that Chief Detective Wallace does not have to send a dozen or so out of the yards. They come here from all over the country and the railroad detectives are kept busy.

BUTCHER SCHULTZ ILL.

Frederick Schultz, the Center street butcher, met with a peculiar accident a few days ago which has kept him in bed ever since. Mr. Schultz was carrying a heavy beef into his store from the hooks outside when a vein in one of his legs broke. It was followed by a rush of blood and in a very short time Schultz was weak. A doctor was summoned and Schultz was ordered to bed.

HAD A GOOD TIME.

CAREFUL AND PROMPT.

The People's Express Company Is Always on Time.

No traveler nowadays leaves home expecting to enjoy himself, and at the same time look after his luggage whenever he is compelled to change cars or when he reaches his destination. The work of looking after luggage is now done by specialists in their line. Among these the People's Express and Transfer Company is in the lead. It calls for your trunks at your home or your hotel and checks them for you to any part of the United States. When you reach your destination your baggage is there also. This company also tends to the shipping and trans-shipping of goods to San Francisco with equal dispatch. The office is 418 Ninth street. The telephone is 326.

Gold, Silver or Nickel.

Booth & Johnson, the electro-platers, have just completed the removal of their works to 820 Broadway. By the location of this establishment Oakland has gained another link in the chain of enterprise and many will be glad to know that they can get any kind of gold, silver, copper and bronze plating done. They make a specialty of silverware, jewelry, carriage rails and lamps, chandeliers, window bands and brackets for glass shelving.

The best and coolest glass of beer in Oakland; pool and billiard tables. The Montana, cor. 9th and Broadway.

and they wouldn't if they could. You don't want to kick, because you want the flour so much that you'll have no other. We lower prices, but we never lower quality. We keep quality—like our reputation—up, because quality is our reputation. Nowhere else can you find High Quality as cheap, either in flour, canned goods, farm, dairy or garden products, sugars, teas, coffees, spices, or fine groceries. Our stock is a combination of mountain qualities and valley prices.

In our new department we are prepared to supply the trade with Herring, Russian Crab and Chicken Salads, Sliced Boiled Ham and Tongue, Veal Roulade, Roast Beef and other cold meats prepared by us and served fresh daily.

In the matter of Joseph A. Miller, insolvent debtor.

Joseph A. Miller having filed in this court his petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that he is an insolvent debtor, the said Joseph A. Miller is hereby declared to be insolvent.

The sheriff of Alameda county is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said insolvent debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account, and papers, and to keep the same safely until the appointment of an assignee herein.

All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said insolvent debtor, or to deliver any property belonging to the said insolvent debtor to him, or to any person, firm or corporation or association for his use.

The said debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property, until the further order of this court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered that all the creditors of said debtor whose claims shall have been place on file in the office of the clerk of this court at least two days prior to the 4th day of September, 1895, be and appear before the Hon. F. B. Ogden, Judge of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, in open court, at the court room of said court, Department No. 2, in the County of Alameda, on the said 4th day of September, 1895, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, to prove their debts and choose an assignee of the estate of said debtor.

It is further ordered that this order be published in the Oakland Tribune, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the County of Alameda, as often as the said newspaper is printed before the said day set for the meeting of creditors.

And it is further ordered that, in the meantime, all proceedings against the said insolvent debtor be stayed.

Dated August 26th, 1895.

F. B. OGDEN,
Judge of Superior Court.

E. M. Gibson, Welles Whitmore and Ben F. Woolner, attorneys for petitioner.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Alameda, State of California.

Department No. 3.

No. 11,310.

CARRIE M. ANDROSS, plaintiff,
vs.
WINFIELD S. ANDROSS, defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and the complaint filed in said County of Alameda, in the office of said clerk of said Superior Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to Winfield S. Andross, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after service on you of this summons, if served within this county, otherwise within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment and a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant on the grounds of wilful desertion of plaintiff by defendant and for the wilful neglect of defendant to provide the common necessities of life for plaintiff and for general relief, special references being made to the complaint on file herein for further particulars.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, this, 27th day of August, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

FRANK C. JORDAN, Clerk,
By F. D. Adams, Deputy Clerk.
L. H. Van Schaick, attorney for plaintiff, 696 Montgomery st., San Francisco.

OUTINGS

The Supervisors Have Adopted a New Requisition System.

HIGHWAYS IN BAD CONDITION.

Complaint From Travelers in the Tidal Canal District.

At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors this morning Supervisor Church introduced the following:

Resolved, That the county officers are hereby requested, when desiring any article or articles for their office, not mentioned in any of the contracts of the county on the schedules, to first hand in to the Board of Supervisors a requisition for their wants, without which, and the same having been duly granted, the Board will positively refuse to audit any bills contracted by any county officer."

Supervisor Church said that the reason that he had introduced the resolution was because county officers had been ordering supplies and then expecting them to be paid for afterward. He said that hereafter the Board would pay for no more articles ordered in that manner. He said further that he desired to have a copy of the resolution sent to every county officer. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Applications for relief were disposed of as follows: J. H. Wakeman, of 1920 Jefferson street, 66 years, New York, married; Mrs. J. H. Robertson and Mrs. M. M. Clark, residing at the same place, referred to Supervisor Johnston.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

Dr. Clark of the County Infirmary reported that there had been 223 patients at the infirmary during August, that $34.45 had been received and $81.70 paid out, leaving $57.25 due to the superintendent. Filed.

License Collector Ballard reported that he had collected licenses during August amounting to $1,175. Filed.

The reports of the Supervisors of relief afforded during the month of August were as follows: Supervisor Johnston, indigents aided, 166, amount expended $182.70; Supervisor Pelouze, 127 indigents, $271; Supervisor Church, 263 indigents, $321.50; Supervisor Talcott, 89 indigents, $102.65. The reports were filed.

LIQUOR PERMITS.

THE CLINIC APPEALS.

A petition was received from the Oakland Homeopathic Free Clinic asking that the Board restore to the clinic the monthly allowance of $25 which was withdrawn some time ago. It set forth that one-third of the 60,000 people of Oakland have been benefited by the services of the Homeopathic Free Clinic, and that prior to last July the institution had been in receipt from the county of $25 a month, which allowance had been a means of aiding the clinic in an acceptable manner; that since the Homeopathic Clinic had been deprived of that allowance two allopathic clinics had had the same allowance restored to them. The petition closed with a fervent appeal that the Homeopathic Clinic be allowed the same amount monthly as is allowed the other clinics, showing at the same time that within a given period the clinic had treated 260 persons and issued 7,200 prescriptions and performed a number of good works along special lines.

Supervisor Johnston said that the Homeopathic Free Clinic is the first clinic started in Oakland and had done a great deal of good, and should be restored the monthly allowance of $25.

Supervisor Church moved that the matter go over for one week. Supervisor Pelouze seconded the motion and the same prevailed.

Applications for permission to sell liquor were made as follows: A. W. Larsen, Alvarado; J. Nunez, Newark; C. Christiansen, Irvington; Andrew Hansen, San Leandro; Thomas Walsh, First avenue and Telegraph avenue, Temescal. The applications were referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The report of the County Surveyor showed that the petition of J. T. T. Chattel for permission to sell liquors on Moss avenue had the number of signatures demanded by the law. The matter went over till this afternoon.

ASKED FOR A HYDRANT.

A number of residents near the intersection of San Pablo and Park avenues asked that a fire hydrant be located at that place.

Supervisor Pelouze said the county has no right to order a hydrant to be laid, but that if the Oakland Water Company feels disposed to place one there, the county will pay the cost of setting it and for such water as would be used for sprinkling purposes.

The clerk was notified to inform the petitioners of the facts of the case for their guidance.

A BAD ROAD.

A petition from Thomas R. Basset and others residing on Fruitvale avenue between the railroad station and the tidal canal, directed attention to the condition of that thoroughfare. It set forth that Sausal creek is cutting away the road and in some places occupies nearly one-half of the thoroughfare. It was asked that steps be taken to preserve the roadway before damage to life and property can result.

On motion of Supervisor Talcott the matter of fixing a date to examine into the case was left to the committee of the whole.

George A. Douglass and a number of other residents asked that Bray avenue in Fruitvale be declared a county road.

On motion of Supervisor Talcott the request was referred to the County Surveyor to report as to the condition of the avenue.

The Board was notified by the State Board of Equalization that it will be necessary to meet on the third and fourth Mondays in September to consider tax matters and make the apportionment of the railway assessment.

J. P. Garlick, superintendent of instruction, notified the Board that $212,-259.80 would be required for schools and he said that the Board should allow that sum in order that the indebtedness of the various districts might be met. The communication was filed and Supervisor Bailey said the Board would like to consult with the superintendent to see whether or not a smaller amount would not suffice.

The trustees of the Piedmont school district notified the Board that the county had built a culvert on Glen Echo avenue on school property. They requested that the culvert be moved or else extended to the adjoining creek and covered up. The matter was referred to Supervisor Johnston.

WANT SPRINKLERS.

A petition from taxpayers in Murray township asked that a road from Livermore to Pleasanton and from Livermore to Livermore Pass be sprinkled. The request was referred to the committee of the whole.

A petition from J. R. Baker and others asked for an abandonment of the small Redwood road in Brooklyn township running through the lands of Anna Rogers and Antone Joseph and the opening of another road on the other side of the adjoining creek through the land of the same parties. The bond was signed by Mr. Tun Suden and Manuel Dias. The bond was approved and the matter went over till this afternoon.

An amended and more definite petition for the proposed road near Sunol was filed. It showed that the proposed line started near Sunol depot ran thence northeasterly for a distance of one mile connecting with a roadway bounding the Butler property on two sides. The request was laid over till this afternoon when viewers will be appointed.

W. T. Boutwell asked for a free license to peddle, owing to physical disability, occasioned by service in the war of the rebellion. The request was referred to Supervisor Johnston.

The Council Tonight.

In view of the question as to yesterday being a legal holiday the Council met last evening and after appointing Messrs. Brosnahan, Bassett, Mott and Marshall a committee to canvass the bond election returns adjourned until this evening. Among the matters to come up are the hearing of protests against the sewering of East Twenty-first street, between Fourth and Fifth avenues and East Twenty-first street from Fifth avenue to a point 150 feet southerly.

MUCH PROPERTY IS LOST.

Superintendent Miller on the Many Advantages That Would Result.

Street Superintendent Miller wants a corporation yard. He has communicated with the Board of Public Works and his letter is now before a committee of that body.

At the present time the city's tools are stored all over the town. Most of them in the loft of the stable used for the patrol wagon team. The tools and materials have no custodian. There is no one to keep track of them when they are in use and naturally many of them are lost.

In speaking of the need of a corporation yard Mr. Miller today said: "The city ought to be run on business principles, but without a place to keep our things it is impossible for this department to do so. We have no place to keep anything perishable; hence we cannot buy advantageously anything that will not keep. As an example, a short time ago cement was selling for $2.50 a barrel, but as it would not keep if it were left out in the sun and rain we could buy only enough for our immediate use. It is now worth $5 a barrel.

"It is not alone on that one article that we lose, but on many others. Take our sand. We leave it out of doors and a rain comes. A great deal of it washes away or mixes with the dirt and is unfit for use. A corporation yard would cost the city very little. We could lease a good lot, 100x160, for from $10 to $15 a month and the buildings would not cost more than $300. A yard keeper would have a salary of $60. We could save his salary on the time we lose hunting for tools. The yard keeper would require a receipt for every shovel or pick taken out of his custody, and when the street gang were through using them they would be returned. The yard would greatly facilitate the work of this department and I think if the Board and Council would investigate they would soon see its necessity."

LIFE IN ALAMEDA.

What a Contemporary Thinks of Encinal Journalism.

The "Jaytown Howler" is published in Alameda, says the Marin Press. The following are a few items clipped from number 6¼:

Mrs. Oogleoogle's baby has another tooth.

Pat Mulligan had his shirt washed last week.

Jimmie Jenkins had the stomachache Wednesday night.

Mrs. Simon Pickleback took a buggy ride last Sunday.

Miss Birdie Oldgurl celebrated her forty-seventh birthday last Wednesday evening. A very pleasant time was had and all present wished the charming young lady many happy returns of the day.

Landlord My eye sel of the Jaytown hotel reports all his rooms engaged for the fair. So great is the demand for accommodations that ever one of the seven rooms is spoken for, and Mr. My eye sel himself will be compelled to sleep on the roof.

Trustee Squashapple has ordered a pair of suspenders from the city, and he expects them by mail early next week. This makes the seventh pair of suspenders in use in Jaytown and shows that our town is rapidly forging ahead in culture and refinement.

INGALLS IS FOR SILVER.

He Is an Avowed Candidate for His Old Seat in the Senate.

An Address in Which He Advocates Direct Votes of the People.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 3.—At the Labor Day celebration in this city ex-Senator John J. Ingalls spoke from the same platform with J. R. Burton, who is now looked upon as Ingalls' principal opponent in the race for the United States senatorship.

Their appearance was regarded as the opening of the senatorial campaign.

The senator says openly that he is a candidate for his old seat in the Senate. He is taking a friendly stand in favor of silver in all his speeches.

After speaking in a general way on labor topics Senator Ingalls turned his attention to the last Congress. He said:

"If there were a Congress, inadequate, incompetent, insincere and hostile to the best interests of this country, it was not the fault of the Congress so much as it was the constituents who sent them there."

Turning to the charges that seats were bought in the United States Senate, he laid the blame at the same door, of those who elected the senators. He said:

"There is one remedy. Abolish the present antiquated, clumsy, superfluous, and detrimental method of choosing senators by legislatures and let them be elected by a direct vote of the people of the State as they ought to be elected."

This statement was loudly cheered.

Ingalls went a step further, and said that the only way to purify this government was to trust the people, and he even favored the election of president and vice-president by a direct vote.

He roundly scored the Standard Oil Company and various trusts.

He thought labor had a right to combine and spoke strongly against indiscriminate immigration.

He closed by urging the workingman to remember that the redress of his wrongs is in his own hands.

PAID BY THE DAY'S RUN.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The Executive Committee of the United States Railway Mail Clerks' Association was in session here last night.

The principal discussion was upon the demand which the mail clerks who have runs on the smaller lines and who are paid by the mile have made.

There are 2500 of these clerks. The government has agreed to pay them on the basis of 120 miles for a day's run, but the clerks have insisted that 110 miles should be enough for that purpose.

The committee took action favorable to the demand of the clerks.

There was much discussion upon the question of a general re-classification of all the clerks.

Upon this subject a harmonious conclusion was reached, but what the conclusion was the clerks refused to make public.

W. T. Blackmere is president of the association. The other officers who attended the meetings were: J. C. Wallace, Burlington, Iowa, secretary and treasurer, G. A. Gardiner, Harrisburg, Pa.; T. S. Bradshaw, Washington, D. C.; Mr. Yeandle, Atlanta, Ga.; W. W. Garner, Chicago; A. H. Fuller, Omaha, S. Z. Ettinger, St. Louis; C. C. Riches, Portland, Oregon; Mr. Binderman, Buffalo, N. Y.; George F. Fox, St. Paul, and George Francis, San Antonio, Texas, directors.

The twenty-first annual convention of the Railway Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association convened this morning at the Palmer House. The convention will be in session three days. About 170 delegates are expected to attend the sessions.

SCARLET SINS.

Chief Lloyd Is Out on a Crusade for Purity.

Chief of Police Lloyd has determined to put a stop to the traffic carried on by scarlet women or at least confine it from public view. It has been the practice of these women for sometime past to loiter in the windows of certain Washington street houses, and during the past few nights several arrests have been made by officers detailed for that purpose.

Chief Lloyd today said that complaints had been made to him in reference to the brazen practices of the women and it is his intention to have it discontinued, although he did not think the evil could be entirely eradicated.

A Grass Fire.

The grass near Fourth avenue and East Twentieth street was set afire last night about 12 o'clock. An alarm was sent and the East Oakland chemical engine went to extinguish the flame. The engine was practically useless and the firemen fought the fire with wet sacks for nearly two hours before it was entirely put out.

STEERS OUT ON A SPREE.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Twenty-five Montana steers purchased at the stock yards while being driven to the Cudhay Packing House last evening got away from the drivers and for two hours created consternation in the residence district.

The steers dashed from Center avenue and started east on Forty-seventh street. At Halstead street they turned south and at Matteson street a dozen of them charged an electric car.

The passengers saw them coming and as many as possible jumped off and took to the houses close by.

They then attacked the police station.

There was a hurried exodus of officers and then the steers went south.

Lieutenants Kelleher and Fitzpatrick with several officers mounted the patrol wagon and taking two rifles, started in pursuit.

At Union avenue and Forty-seventh street a big yellow steer was tearing up the soil in view of hundreds, who enjoyed the scene from neighboring sheds and windows.

Lieutenant Kelleher fired, the bullet taking effect in the animal's head.

It made him cough, but beyond that the steer seemed to enjoy it.

Two more shots were fired into his body and at last he jumped into the air.

Then the officers, with a number of men started after the other members of the herd, and they were soon rounded up.

ATTACHED HIS GRAIN.

Farmer Patterson Is in Financial Straits.

J. E. Patterson, a Livermore rancher, is in financial difficulties. Today the sheriff attached his grain crop, which is in storage in Chadbourne's warehouse at Livermore. H. P. Chadbourne has brought suit against Patterson to recover $155.50 upon a promissory note, made by Patterson to Chadbourne.

AN OLD MAN TORTURED.

Oakland, New Jersey, on Hand With a Ghastly Story.

He Was Plied With Whisky and Then Held in the Flames.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 3.—George Marshall, 67 years of age, a woodchopper whose shanty is in the Ramapo mountains, back of Oakland, is at the Hackensack Hospital suffering from a horrible burn.

From the knee to the ankle of the right leg the flesh was burned almost to the bone and for ten days the wound had remained untreated.

On Friday, a week ago, he says, two men came to his shanty in the morning. They had a couple of chickens with them and asked him to cook them.

He knew they were stolen and refused to do as they wanted. They also had with them a gallon of whiskey.

When the old man would not comply with their wishes they began to torture him, and he was made to drink some of the whiskey.

Finally late in the afternoon, after torturing the old man for several hours, the men built a fire in front of the shanty and began to carry out the old man's few belongings. These they plied on the flames.

They then pulled off a portion of the front of the cabin and added this to the fire.

The old man was too full of the whiskey with which he had been plied to make much resistance.

Finally, the old man says, they picked him up and held his right leg in the flames made by his household goods, and despite his pain and struggles held him there until his leg was roasted.

They left him, he says, unconscious beside the fire.

He was rescued by his son, who started to Oakland and asked a doctor to accompany him to the aid of his father.

He says that the doctor refused to make the trip.

Failing in obtaining a doctor the son bought a bottle of liniment and walked back to the mountain.

He dressed the leg as best he could until one of the sons-in-law of the old man visited the place.

He insisted that Marshall should be taken to where he might have medical treament, and yesterday morning an ox-team and a lumber wagon were obtained and the man was carted down the mountainside in that rude vehicle to the railroad at Oakland.

From that place he was taken by train to Hackensack.

The old man says the men who tortured him were Peter Winters and Jacob Coe, two young men who live near Oakland, and officers are looking for them.

It is doubtful whether the old man will survive.

G. W. Arper Protests.

Editor Tribune: Sir:—In last Monday's issue of your paper you have what purports to be an interview with me on the "water question," and as I have not been reading the articles published on that question of late, having had a surfeit thereof, I did not notice the article until my attention was called to it. I wish to say that the article in question does not express my views, and the party who is guilty of using my name in that way did so knowing that he was putting my name to a statement I never made. I am of opinion that your reporter would not hesitate to pump water into the bay, or out of the bay, if he could make his salary by so doing; and perhaps he would do more than that. I have an opinion on the water question, and also a vey strong opinion as to the desirability of the course pursued by your paper, and should you wish to know more of them I would be pleased to give them in writing. Very truly,

GEO. W. ARPER.

SAYS HE IS SILVA'S SON.

An Unexpected Applicant for a Down-Country Estate.

Unpleasant Charges Freely Bandied Regarding the Claim.

Manuel S. Silva died in 1893 in San Francisco and left an estate valued at $7000. Over the property a battle has been waging. Mrs. Lizzie F. Rose, who was divorced from Silva in 1883, has a 13-year-old son, Manuel S. Silva, who, she claims, is the sole heir to the estate. She was appointed guardian of the boy and has been making a fight to have the property turned over to him as the only heir.

There is a stumbling block in the way, however, in the person of Antonio Silva, 21 years of age, who claims to be a son as well. He is after a share of the estate, which is nearly all in the town of Pleasanton. There are 257 shares of stock in the Order of Druids Building Association which Antonio is especially after. His claim, however, is being bitterly fought and charges are passing freely from the other side.

Today a petition and an answer was filed in the Superior Court by Mrs. Rose as guardian of Manuel, requesting the distribution of the estate to the boy. Accompanying it was a denial of some of the allegations made by Antonio.

Mrs. Rose says she secured a divorce in 1883 from Silva and remarried. She says Silva left a will and was unmarried at the time of his death. He omitted the name of Manuel, his son, from the will, and Mrs. Rose sets up the claim that her son is entitled to the whole of the estate.

She denies that Antonio Silva is an heir or son of the deceased or that the deceased was his father.

She says he never publicly acknowledged or supported or received Antonio as his own child or made any acknowledgement whatever concerning the paternity of Antonio. She denies that the deceased ever contributed to his support or treated him as if he were a legitimate child. Mrs. Rose also denies that her former husband ever adopted Antonio.

THE POLICE POW-WOW.

Burglar Kearns Denied the Privilege of Pleading Guilty.

The Police Court dock was comfortably filled this morning when Judge Wood stepped on the bench and Sam Mitchell knocked a few square inches of varnish off his table for the purpose of securing order.

Seven deluded individuals had mistaken last night for the lunar eclipse and had taken too many looks at the moon through the bottom of a glass. Some forfeited bail, and the others explained how it happened, but all excuses but one fell short and they were given regulation doses of Oakland justice.

H. J. Herrick rode his bicycle on the sidewalk after 6 o'clock and paid $3 for the fun.

C. E. Moore, arrested yesterday for embezzling money belonging to Theodore Fish, the sanitary garbage man, had his case dismissed this morning upon the payment of costs.

Four tramps were taken in by the police for begging. They all acknowledged that they were guilty and the court set tomorrow for passing sentence.

Mary Hastings and Edith Johnson, arrested for vagrancy, had their cases continued to plead and Lou Olsen, charged with the same offense, forfeited $40 bail.

Fred Jones charged with carrying concealed weapons and Carlos Whistler charged with petty larceny, were allowed to go as the prosecuting witnesses in both cases had changed their minds.

W. Enright, who broke the windows in Calberg's restaurant in East Oakland, pleaded guilty to malicious mischief and will be sentenced tomorrow.

Chung Lee, a seller of lottery tickets, had his trial set for September 13th.

John Kearns, charged with burglarizing the house of Father Fernandes, wanted to plead guilty. He acknowledged that he took some things, but said he could only get 50 cents for the entire lot. The court had no authority to receive a plea in a felony case and as the defendant was ready for examination the preliminary was set for tomorrow at 1 P. M.

A Married Man's Troubles.

A. L. Reeder is sojourning in a city prison cell awaiting sentence for disturbing the peace of his wife and others. Last evening he returned to his home at 860 Clay street and found his wife, a young lodger of the house named Chris Miller and several other persons in the kitchen enjoying themselves. Reeder had been imbibing freely and after some words with Miller, in which he accused the latter of being too friendly with Mrs. Reeder attempted to do damage with an upliftel chair. Officer Hinds was called in and now Miller ruminates on the troubles of married men.

AFTER ALL ACCOUNTS.

COUNTY MATTERS DECIDED.

HIGHWAYS IN BAD CONDITION.

Complaint From Travelers in the Tidal Canal District.

At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors this morning Supervisor Church introduced the following.

Resolved, That the county officers are hereby requested, when desiring any article or articles for their office, not mentioned in any of the contracts of the county on the schedules, to first hand in to the Board of Supervisors a requisition for their wants, without which, and the same having been duly granted, the Board will positively refuse to audit any bills contracted by any county officer."

Supervisor Church said that the reason that he had introduced the resolution was because county officers had been ordering supplies and then expecting them to be paid for afterward. He said that hereafter the Board would pay for no more articles ordered in that manner. He said further that he desired to have a copy of the resolution sent to every county officer. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Applications for relief were disposed of as follows: J. H. Wakeman, of 1020 Jefferson street, 66 years, New York, married; Mrs. J. H. Robertson and Mrs. M. M. Clark, residing at the same place, referred to Supervisor Johnston.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

Dr. Clark of the County Infirmary reported that there had been 223 patients at the infirmary during August, that $31.45 had been received and $81.70 paid out, leaving $57.25 due to the superintendent. Filed.

License Collector Ballard reported that he had collected licenses during August amounting to $1,175. Filed.

The reports of the Supervisors of relief afforded during the month of August were as follows: Supervisor Johnston, indigents aided, 166 amount expended $185.50; Supervisor Pelouze, 127 indigents, $27; Supervisor Church, 263 indigents, $ 21 60, Supervisor Talcott, 89 indigents, $102.65. The reports were filed.

LIQUOR PERMITS.

THE CLINIC APPEALS.

A petition was received from the Oakland Homeopathic Free Clinic asking that the Board restore to the clinic the monthly allowance of $25 which was withdrawn some time ago. It set forth that one-third of the 60,000 people of Oakland have been benefited by the services of the Homeopathic Free Clinic, and that prior to last July the institution had been in receipt from the county of $25 a month, which allowance had been a means of aiding the clinic in an acceptable manner; that since the Homeopathic Clinic had been deprived of that allowance two allopathic clinics had had the same allowance restored to them. The petition closed with a fervent appeal that the Homeopathic Clinic be allowed the same amount monthly as is allowed the other clinics, showing at the same time that within a given period the clinic had treated 260 persons and issued 7,200 prescriptions and performed a number of good works along special lines.

Supervisor Johnston said that the Homeopathic Free Clinic is the first clinic started in Oakland and had done a great deal of good, and should be restored the monthly allowance of $25.

Supervisor Church moved that the matter go over for one week. Supervisor Pelouze seconded the motion and the same prevailed.

Applications for permission to sell liquor were made as follows: A. W. Larsen, Alvarado; J. Nunez, Newark; C. Christiansen, Irvington; Andrew Hansen, San Leandro; Thomas Walsh, First avenue and Telegraph avenue, Temescal. The applications were referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The report of the County Surveyor showed that the petition of J. T. T. Chattel for permission to sell liquors on Moss avenue had the number of signatures demanded by the law. The matter went over till this afternoon.

ASKED FOR A HYDRANT.

A number of residents near the intersection of San Pablo and Park avenues asked that a fire hydrant be located at that place.

Supervisor Pelouze said the county has no right to order a hydrant to be laid, but that if the Oakland Water Company feels disposed to place one there, the county will pay the cost of setting it and for such water as would be used for sprinkling purposes.

The clerk was notified to inform the petitioners of the facts of the case for their guidance.

A BAD ROAD.

A petition from Thomas R. Basset and others residing on Fruitvale avenue between the railroad station and the tidal canal, directed attention to the condition of that thoroughfare. It set forth that Sausal creek is cutting away the road and in some places occupies nearly one-half of the thoroughfare. It was asked that steps be taken to preserve the roadway before damage to life and property can result.

On motion of Supervisor Talcott the matter of fixing a date to examine into the case was left to the committee of the whole.

George A. Douglass and a number of other residents asked that Bray avenue in Fruitvale be declared a county road.

On motion of Supervisor Talcott the request was referred to the County Surveyor to report as to the condition of the avenue.

The Board was notified by the State Board of Equalization that it will be necessary to meet on the third and fourth Mondays in September to consider tax matters and make the apportionment of the railway assessment.

J. P. Garlick, superintendent of instruction, notified the Board that $212,269 80 would be required for schools and he said that the Board should allow that sum in order that the indebtedness of the various districts might be met. The communication was filed and Supervisor Bailey said the Board would like to consult with the superintendent to see whether or not a smaller amount would not suffice.

The trustees of the Piedmont school district notified the Board that the county had built a culvert on Glen Echo avenue on school property. They requested that the culvert be moved or else extended to the adjoining creek and covered up. The matter was referred to Supervisor Johnston.

WANT SPRINKLERS.

A petition from taxpayers in Murray township asked that a road from Livermore to Pleasanton and from Livermore to Livermore Pass be sprinkled. The request was referred to the committee of the whole.

A petition from J. R. Baker and others asked for an abandonment of the small Redwood road in Brooklyn township running through the lands of Anna Rogers and Antone Joseph and the opening of another road on the other side of the adjoining creek through the land of the same parties. The bond was signed by Mr Tuin Suden and Manuel Dias. The bond was approved and the matter went over till this afternoon.

An amended and more definite petition for the proposed road near Sunol was filed. It showed that the proposed line started near Sunol depot ran thence northeasterly for a distance of one mile connecting with a roadway bounding the Butler property on two sides. The request was laid over till this afternoon when viewers will be appointed.

W. T. Boutwell asked for a free license to peddle owing to physical disability, occasioned by service in the war of the rebellion. The request was referred to Supervisor Johnston.

The Council Tonight.

In view of the question as to yesterday being a legal holiday the Council met last evening and after appointing Messrs. Brosnahan, Bassett, Mott and Marshall a committee to canvass the bond election returns adjourned until this evening. Among the matters to come up are the hearing of protests against the sewering of East Twenty-first street between Fourth and Fifth avenues and East Twenty-first street from Fifth avenue to a point 150 feet southerly.

MUCH PROPERTY IS LOST.

A Corporation Yard Is Badly Needed for the Street Service.

Superintendent Miller on the Many Advantages That Would Result.

Street Superintendent Miller wants a corporation yard. He has communicated with the Board of Public Works and his letter is now before a committee of that body.

At the present time the city's tools are stored all over the town. Most of them in the loft of the stable used for the patrol wagon team. The tools and materials have no custodian. There is no one to keep track of them when they are in use and naturally many of them are lost.

In speaking of the need of a corporation yard Mr. Miller today said: "The city ought to be run on business principles, but without a place to keep our things it is impossible for this department to do so. We have no place to keep anything perishable; hence we cannot buy advantageously anything that will not keep. As an example, a short time ago cement was selling for $2.50 a barrel, but as it would not keep if it were left out in the sun and rain we could buy only enough for our immediate use. It is now worth $5 a barrel.

"It is not alone on that one article that we lose, but on many others. Take our sand. We leave it out of doors and a rain comes. A great deal of it washes away or mixes with the dirt and is unfit for use. A corporation yard would cost the city very little. We could lease a good lot, 100x100, for from $10 to $15 a month and the buildings would not cost more than $300. A yard keeper would have a salary of $60. We could save his salary on the time we lose hunting for tools. The yard keeper would require a receipt for every shovel or pick taken out of his custody, and when the street gang were through using them they would be returned. The yard would greatly facilitate the work of this department and I think if the Board and Council would investigate they would soon see its necessity."

LIFE IN ALAMEDA.

What a Contemporary Thinks of Encinal Journalism.

The "Jaytown Howler" is published in Alameda, says the Marin Press. The following are a few items clipped from number 6¼:

Mrs. Oogiecogie's baby has another tooth.

Pat Mulligan had his shirt washed last week.

Parson Smith tore his pants on a nail last week.

Jimmie Jenkins had the stomachache Wednesday night.

Mrs. Simon Pickleback took a buggy ride last Sunday.

Miss Abigail Bigfoote's new shoes arrived on a special yesterday.

Miss Birdie Old celebrated her forty-seventh birthday last Wednesday evening. A very pleasant time was had and all present wished the charming young lady many happy returns of the day.

Landlord My eye sel of the Jaytown hotel reports all his rooms engaged for the fair. So great is the demand for accommodations that ever one of the seven rooms is spoken for, and Mr. My eye sel himself will be compelled to sleep on the roof.

Trustee Squashapple has ordered a pair of suspenders from the city, and he expects them by mail early next week. This makes the seventh pair of suspenders in use in Jaytown and shows that our town is rapidly forging ahead in culture and refinement.

INGALLS IS FOR SILVER.

He Is an Avowed Candidate for His Old Seat in the Senate.

An Address in Which He Advocates Direct Votes of the People.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 3.—At the Labor Day celebration in this city ex-Senator John J. Ingalls spoke from the same platform with J. R. Burton, who is now looked upon as Ingalls' principal opponent in the race for the United States senatorship.

Their appearance was regarded as the opening of the senatorial campaign.

The senator says openly that he is a candidate for his old seat in the Senate. He is taking a friendly stand in favor of silver in all his speeches.

After speaking in a general way on labor topics Senator Ingalls turned his attention to the last Congress. He said:

"If there were a Congress, inadequate, incompetent, insincere and hostile to the best interests of this country, it was not the fault of the Congress so much as it was the constituents who sent them there."

Turning to the charges that seats were bought in the United States Senate, he laid the blame at the same door, of those who elected the senators. He said:

"There is one remedy. Abolish the present antiquated, clumsy, superfluous, and detrimental method of choosing senators by legislatures and let them be elected by a direct vote of the people of the State as they ought to be elected."

This statement was loudly cheered.

Ingalls went a step further, and said that the only way to purify this government was to trust the people, and he even favored the election of president and vice-president by a direct vote.

He roundly scored the Standard Oil Company and various trusts.

He thought labor had a right to combine and spoke strongly against indiscriminate immigration.

He closed by urging the workingman to remember that the redress of his wrongs is in his own hands.

PAID BY THE DAY'S RUN.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The Executive Committee of the United States Railway Mail Clerks' Association was in session here last night.

The principal discussion was upon the demand which the mail clerks who have runs on the smaller lines and who are paid by the mile have made.

There are 2300 of these clerks. The government has agreed to pay them on the basis of 120 miles for a day's run but the clerks have insisted that 110 miles should be enough for that purpose.

The committee took action favorable to the demand of the clerks.

There was much discussion upon the question of a general re-classification of all the clerks.

Upon this subject a harmonious conclusion was reached, but what the conclusion was the clerks refused to make public.

W. T. Blackmore is president of the association. The other officers who attended the meetings were: J. C. Wallace, Burlington, Iowa, secretary and treasurer; C. A. Gardiner, Harrisburg, Pa., T. S. Bradshaw, Washington, D. C.; Mr. Yeandle, Atlanta, Ga.; W. W. Garner, Chicago, A. H. Fuller, Omaha, S. Z. Ettinger, St. Louis; C. C. Riches, Portland, Oregon; Mr. Bindeman, Buffalo, N. Y.; George F. Fox, St. Paul, and George Francis, San Antonio, Texas, directors.

The twenty-first annual convention of the Railway Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association convened this morning at the Palmer House. The convention will be in session three days. About 170 delegates are expected to attend the sessions.

SCARLET SINS.

Chief Lloyd Is Out on a Crusade for Purity.

Chief of Police Lloyd has determined to put a stop to the traffic carried on by scarlet women or at least confine it from public view. It has been the practice of these women for sometime past to loiter in the windows of certain Washington street houses, and during the past few nights several arrests have been made by officers detailed for that purpose.

Chief Lloyd today said that complaints had been made to him in reference to the brazen practices of the women and it is his intention to have it discontinued, although he did not think the evil could be entirely eradicated.

A Grass Fire.

The grass near Fourth avenue and East Twentieth street was set afire last night about 12 o'clock. An alarm was sent and the East Oakland chemical engine went to extinguish the flame. The engine was practically useless and the firemen fought the fire with wet sacks for nearly two hours before it was entirely out.

STEERS OUT ON A SPREE.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Twenty-five Montana steers purchased at the stock yards while being driven to the Cudhay Packing House last evening got away from the drivers and for two hours created consternation in the residence district.

The steers dashed from Center avenue and started east on Forty-seventh street. At Halstead street they turned south and at Matteson street a dozen of them charged an electric car.

The passengers saw them coming and as many as possible jumped off and took to the houses close by.

They then attacked the police station.

There was a hurried exodus of officers and then the steers went south.

Lieutenants Kelleher and Fitzpatrick with several officers mounted the patrol wagon and taking two rifles, started in pursuit.

At Union avenue and Forty-seventh street a big yellow steer was tearing up the soil in view of hundreds, who enjoyed the scene from neighboring sheds and windows.

Lieutenant Kelleher fired, the bullet taking effect in the animal's head.

It made him rough, but beyond that the steer seemed to enjoy it.

Two more shots were fired into his body and at last he jumped into the air.

Then the officers, with a number of men started after the other members of the herd, and they were soon rounded up.

ATTACHED HIS GRAIN.

Farmer Patterson Is in Financial Straits.

J. E. Patterson, a Livermore rancher, is in financial difficulties. Today the sheriff attached his grain crop, which is in storage in Chadbourne's warehouse at Livermore. H. P. Chadbourne has brought suit against Patterson to recover $1155.50 upon a promissory note, made by Patterson to Chadbourne.

AN OLD MAN TORTURED.

Oakland, New Jersey, on Hand With a Ghastly Story.

He Was Plied With Whisky and Then Held in the Flames.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 3.—George Marshall, 67 years of age, a woodchopper whose shanty is in the Ramapo mountains, back of Oakland, is at the Hackensack Hospital suffering from a horrible burn.

From the knee to the ankle of the right leg the flesh was burned almost to the bone and for ten days the wound had remained untreated.

On Friday, a week ago, he says, two men came to his shanty in the morning. They had a couple of chickens with them and asked him to cook them.

He knew they were stolen and refused to do as they wanted. They also had with them a gallon of whiskey.

When the old man would not comply with their wishes they began to torture him, and he was made to drink some of the whiskey.

Finally late in the afternoon, after torturing the old man for several hours, the men built a fire in front of the shanty and began to carry out the old man's few belongings. These they piled on the flames.

They then pulled off a portion of the front of the cabin and added this to the fire.

The old man was too full of the whiskey with which he had been plied to make much resistance.

Finally, the old man says, they picked him up and held his right leg in the flames made by his household goods, and despite his pain and struggles held him there until his leg was roasted.

They left him, he says, unconscious beside the fire.

He was rescued by his son, who started to Oakland and asked a doctor to accompany him to the aid of his father.

He says that the doctor refused to make the trip.

Failing in obtaining a doctor the son bought a bottle of liniment and walked back to the mountain.

He dressed the leg as best he could until one of the sons-in-law of the old man visited the place.

He insisted that Marshall should be taken to where he might have medical treament, and yesterday morning an ox-team and a lumber wagon were obtained and the man was carted down the mountainside in that rude vehicle to the railroad at Oakland.

From that place he was taken by train to Hackensack.

The old man says the men who tortured him were Peter Winters and Jacob Coe, two young men who live near Oakland, and officers are looking for them.

It is doubtful whether the old man will survive.

G. W. Arper Protests.

Editor Tribune: Sir:—In last Monday's issue of your paper you have what purports to be an interview with me on the "water question," and as I have not been reading the articles published on that question of late, having had a surfeit thereof, I did not notice the article until my attention was called to it. I wish to say that the article in question does not express my views, and the party who is guilty of using my name in that way did so knowing that he was putting my name to a statement I never made. I am of opinion that your reporter would not hesitate to pump water into the bay, or out of the bay, if he could make his salary by so doing, and perhaps he would do more than that. I have an opinion on the water question, and also a very strong opinion as to the desirability of the course pursued by your paper, and should you wish to know more of them I would be pleased to give them in writing. Very truly,

GEO. W. ARPER.

SAYS HE IS SILVA'S SON.

Unpleasant Charges Freely Bandied Regarding the Claim.

Manuel C. Silva died in 1893 in San Francisco and left an estate valued at $7000. Over the property a battle has been waging. Mrs. Louis F. Rose, who was divorced from Silva in 1883, has a 13-year-old son Manuel S. Silva, who, she claims, is the sole heir to the estate. She was appointed guardian of the boy and has been making a fight to have the property turned over to him as the only heir.

There is a stumbling block in the way, however, in the person of Antonio Silva, 21 years of age, who claims to be a son as well. He is after a share of the estate, which is nearly all in the town of Pleasanton. There are 255 shares of stock in the Order of Druids Building Association which Antonio is especially after. His claim, however, is being bitterly fought and charges are passing freely from the other side.

Today a petition and an answer was filed in the Superior Court by Mrs. Rose as guardian of Manuel, requesting the distribution of the estate to the boy. Accompanying it was a denial of some of the allegations made by Antonio.

Mrs. Rose says she secured a divorce in 1883 from Silva and remarried. She says Silva left a will and was unmarried at the time of his death. He omitted the name of Manuel, his son, from the will, and Mrs. Rose sets up the claim that her son is entitled to the whole of the estate.

She denies that Antonio Silva is an heir or son of the deceased or that the deceased was his father.

She says he never publicly acknowledged or supported or received Antonio as his own child or made any acknowledgement whatever concerning the paternity of Antonio. She denies that the deceased ever contributed to his support or treated him as if he were a legitimate child. Mrs. Rose also denies that her former husband ever adopted Antonio.

THE POLICE POW-WOW.

Burglar Kearns Denied the Privilege of Pleading Guilty.

The Police Court dock was comfortably filled this morning when Judge Wood stepped on the bench and Sam Mitchell knocked a few square inches of varnish off his table for the purpose of securing order.

Seven deluded individuals had mistaken last night for the lunar eclipse and had taken too many looks at the moon through the bottom of a glass. Some forfeited bail, and the others explained how it happened, but all excuses but one fell short and they were given regulation doses of Oakland justice.

H. J. Herrick rode his bicycle on the sidewalk after 6 o'clock and paid $2 for the fun.

C. E. Moore, arrested yesterday for embezzling money belonging to Theodore Fish, the sanitary garbage man, had his case dismissed this morning upon the payment of costs.

Four tramps were taken in by the police for begging. They all acknowledged that they were guilty and the court set tomorrow for passing sentence.

Mary Hastings and Edith Johnson, arrested for vagrancy, had their cases continued to plead and Lou Olsen, charged with the same offense, forfeited $40 bail.

Fred Jones charged with carrying concealed weapons and Carlos Whistler charged with petty larceny, were allowed to go as the prosecuting witnesses in both cases had changed their minds.

W. Enright, who broke the windows in Caiberg's restaurant in East Oakland, pleaded guilty to malicious mischief and will be sentenced tomorrow.

Chung Lee, a seller of lottery tickets, had his trial set for September 13th.

John Kearns, charged with burglarizing the house of Father Fernandes, wanted to plead guilty. He acknowledged that he took some things, but said he could only get 50 cents for the entire lot. The court had no authority to receive a plea of guilty except on recommendation of the police. Kearns was set for tomorrow at 1 P. M.

A Married Man's Troubles.

A. L. Reeder is now sojourning in a city prison cell awaiting sentence for disturbing the peace of his wife and others. Last evening he returned to his home at 869 Clay street and found his wife, a young lodger of the house named Chas. Miller and several other persons in the kitchen enjoying themselves. Reeder had been imbibing freely and after some words with Miller in which he seems of the latter of being too friendly with Mrs. Reeder attempted to do damage with an upholstered chair. Officer Libbe's eyes can't see and now Miller ruminates on the troubles of married men.
